THE MONTHLY ADVERTISER.

No. 1.

DECEMBER 15, 1862.

PRICE 1d.

TO OUR READERS.

POSTAGE STAMP collectors and dealers have long felt the want of a publication which should devote itself entirely to their interests, and serve as a medium for their advertisements. To supply this want in some measure has been our aim in publishing the MONTHLY ADVERTISER, and we hope to be favored with the support of all whom it is designed to benefit. We shall be happy to receive original articles on the subject of Postage Stamps, and early information of rare varieties or new issues, not to be found in existing Catalogues, which shall be inserted in our following numbers. We shall also be glad to afford any assistance in our power to Collectors through the column devoted to Correspondents, though we cannot undertake to answer enquiries through the post.

Advertisements will be inserted at the following moderate charges:

Under 40 words.....	1s. 6d.
" 60 " 	2s. 3d.
" 80 " 	3s. 0d.
" 120 " 	4s. 6d.

Orders for which, as well as all other communications, should be sent before 7th instant, addressed to

MESSRS. EDWARD MOORE & Co.

THE COLLECTION OF POSTAGE STAMPS.

BY FRED. BOOTY.

T is curious to see how much public opinion has been modified lately upon the subject of stamp collecting. Some two or three years ago, when collectors were to be numbered by units, (they are now numbered by hundreds) they were looked upon as hopelessly, but harmlessly, insane on the subject; and their friends and acquaintances were willing to gratify their mania, for after all they only asked for "old postage stamps," of no possible use to any one excepting themselves. If those same sneerers could now see the really beautiful books which the more tasteful, fortunate, and persevering collectors possess, they would be obliged to acknowledge that there is a latent beauty even in a disfigured postage stamp. The books themselves, in their gay, album-like bindings, which are now to be obtained of almost every stationer, are no unpleasing objects; but when ornamented on the left-hand page, as I have seen them, with gay illuminated borders which surround the arms, flags, crown, and cockade of the respective countries, with the appropriate stamps on the right side (which is also surrounded with a light illuminated border, to harmonize in color with the arms and flags opposite) each stamp being mounted on coloured paper, and all arranged symmetrically. Such a book must, I think, be acknowledged by every one as worthy to take its place among other collections. But while I am pleading thus for the stamp book from an æsthetic stand point, I must not forget that the collection has also its utilitarian side. The witty and learned author of "Hercæ-Subsecivæ" says—"Even the immense activity in the Post Office stamp line of business among our youngsters has been of use in many ways, besides being a recreation and an interest. I myself came to the knowledge of Queensland and a great deal more through its blue twopenny;" and Dr. Brown does not stand alone in the knowledge he has thus acquired. It might be a curious calculation, how much more interesting the dry study of geography has become to many the last few months. The school-boy and school-girl found that the long lists of foreign possessions belonging to each country are invested with a hitherto unknown interest, and are now not only learned "by rote," to be forgotten as soon as repeated, but learned "by heart," with the hope that at some future day they may become the fortunate possessors of the stamps used in those distant localities. But the new interest in geography is not confined to children. Dr. Brown speaks for himself, but there is many a young person whose geography has been sadly "out at elbows" since the last lesson was said, and "childish things put away," who is now completely up in the subject, and could answer, without a moment's hesitation, how many colonies belong to France, how many to England, and could repeat, more correctly than in their school days, the names of the many independent kingdoms of South America. If it be true, as phrenologists tell us, that the bump of acquisitiveness exists in every head more or less largely developed, we cannot be astonished that few persons are above the weakness of collecting something or other. Well would it be for the world in general if this bump of acquisitiveness had never demanded anything more costly or less harmless to satisfy it than "Defaced Postage Stamps."

"THE HAND CATALOGUE OF POSTAGE STAMPS FOR THE USE OF COLLECTORS."

WE have pleasure in calling the attention of Stamp Collectors to a new work which has just appeared under this title, by John Edward Gray, Esq., Ph. D., F.R.S., F.L.S., F.Z.S., &c., of the British Museum. In his book (price 1s.) Dr. Gray has not only given an admirable classification of all the known Postage Stamps (omitting those employed by private or express companies, which are not recognised by him), but also some very useful information, including a short history of the invention of Postage Stamps; the various and apparently capricious changes made by some countries in their design or color; the practice of imitating or forging rare kinds, &c. A table is also given with a list of the different Foreign Coins, and the nations or countries they are employed in; thus, if a stamp has not the name of the country at the head, a collector can probably discover its origin by a reference to this table. The following extracts will prove interesting:

“While the subject was under discussion, an envelope was proposed surrounded by an engine-turned border, with the value and the weight it would carry marked in the corner; and during the discussion in Parliament various stamped covers were circulated by the advocates of the plan, to show the kind of envelope and stamp which they proposed should be used. They are now rare, and only to be seen in the albums of the wives and children of the members of the committee who preserved them.

“In 1840, when the new system was established, two printed envelopes were issued bearing a design by Mulready, the Royal Academician, “with the hopes of spreading the taste for high art;” but they called forth such an outburst of ridicule, and such a number of caricatures, that they were soon disused; and then the engraved profile of the Queen was adopted as an adhesive stamp for affixing on letters, and after some time an embossed profile of the Queen was issued, stamped on paper as an envelope.

“Some of the colonies commenced with manufacturing their own stamps, and used emblematic designs, as ‘Hope reclining,’ for the Cape of Good Hope; a ‘Swan,’ for Swan River; the ‘Queen on her Throne,’ for Victoria; but by degrees they have generally adopted a simple profile of the Queen, like the English; and the stamps now used in the colonies, and indeed in many parts of the world, are not only designed and engraved, but also printed or embossed, in England. Many of these are executed by Messrs. De la Rue & Co., of Bunhill Row, who call themselves, in the Directory, “Envelope Makers and Manufacturers of Government and Colonial Adhesive Stamps;” and Perkins, Bacon, & Co., in Fleet Street, “Bond and Bank Note Engravers.” They are printed in these establishments under the supervision of an officer of the Inland Revenue department, or an inspector appointed by the Colonial governments.

“The majority of foreign governments, as they have adopted the system, have also adopted the profile or portrait of their sovereign for the stamp. Other governments use the arms of the state or sovereign for the purpose.

“Some states, which began by merely using a number surrounded by a more or less complicated frame as a stamp, have gradually adopted the royal portrait.

“In England the Stamp Office will place an embossed stamp on any paper that is sent to them for that purpose. So that the embossed stamps are circulated in very different forms and kinds of paper. They also permit embossed rings with the name of a firm, as Smith, Elder, & Co., and others, to be printed at the same time and in the same manner as the stamp; and stamps so circulated have been regarded as distinct kinds of stamps, when in fact they are only means of advertisement used by certain private firms.

“The first English adhesive stamps were printed with black ink, and obliterated first with black and then with red ink.

This was found inconvenient, and since then they have been printed with red and blue inks, and obliterated with black.

"Some few stamps, as the old 4 anna stamp of India, the "too late" and "registered" stamps of South Australia, the stamps of some of the Swiss Cantons, and some of the more modern embossed stamps of the United States, are printed in inks of two colours.

"The Russian and Polish adhesive stamps are printed in three colours. They are the most beautiful stamps that have yet been issued.

"Some of the German States issued their first stamps printed in black ink on different coloured papers; but they have one after another, given up the practice, and now issue the stamps printed with different coloured inks on white paper. Some of them, as Hanover, print the stamps with black ink, or, rarely, coloured ink, on white paper, and then cover the whole stamp with a coloured network.

"The different German States seem to have changed the colour of the paper or the ink with which they printed the stamps at different times very capriciously, hence the same stamp occurs of very different colours. They are said to have adopted a uniform colour for stamps of the same value, thus:—

- 4 pfennige, or $\frac{1}{3}$ silbr. gr., or 1 kr. Green.
- 6 pfennige, or $\frac{1}{2}$ silbr. gr. Orange.
- 1 silbr. gr., or 3 kr. Red.
- 2 silbr. gr., or 6 kr. Blue.
- 3 silbr. gr., or 9 kr. Brown.

"The dies, before they are used, are often proved, by regulation of the Stamp Office, with a different coloured ink from that under which they are legally issued; some of these proofs have got into collections: they are called essai in the French catalogue; translated by some—essays!

"The Australian Colonies sometimes send out the same stamps of different shades of colour.

"For these reasons, I have not considered any change in the colour of the stamp as a different stamp; for it is certainly the same, whether it is on green or white paper, or printed in black, red, or green ink.

"In England, the adhesive stamps are printed on paper with a peculiar watermark, different in the various stamps; and the envelopes issued by the English Stamp Office are all printed on a peculiar paper. Formerly there were three lines of coloured silk inserted in the paper, so as to form a line across the stamp; and several foreign governments adopted the same plan. It has now been disused in England and Germany; but in the latter they print in small letters, the value of the envelope, in three lines, over the stamp, thus: Post couvert, Drei groschen; Ein groschen, Post couvert.

"In Russia, the envelopes are embossed on paper prepared for the purpose, with the Russian spread-eagle for a water-mark, with different patterns according to the value.

"In England, the regulation is that the stamp should be placed on the upper right-hand corner of the letter or envelope.

"In Saxony, Hanover, Baden, Brunswick, and Austria the stamp was formerly placed on the left-hand side of the envelope; now, they are usually placed, as in England, on the upper right-hand corner. In some lists and collections these are considered different stamps.

"In Russia, the stamps of the envelopes are placed on the flap of the envelope; and in the Brazils, the stamps are used as a seal; this causes them sometimes to be overlooked by the English Post Office.

"The desire which some persons have to show stamps that are not in other collections has induced the dealers to produce pretended stamps, which have no real existence; as, for example, a French stamp with the portrait of the Republic, inscribed, Essai, 1858, which is after the "Empire" was established; or Turkish stamps, inscribed 6 Truze and 3 Mara, the Turkish Government not having as yet issued any stamps. Some collectors show Chinese stamps, which are only the impression of the seal of the mandarin who sent the letter. In the same manner, and for the same purpose, the colours of some stamps are artificially changed by soaking in water or some chemical fluid, or the stamps are covered over with a wash of colour, or the paper on which they are printed is stained. Some of the stamps that were issued by the Provisional Government that followed the outbreak in Europe in 1848 have been withdrawn from circulation, and become rare, and therefore sell at a large price; this has induced some French dealers in them to have them imitated or forged. They are known from the real stamps, as they are lithograph while the originals were block-printed.

"During the terrible Civil conflict in the late "United States" they form almost the only currency of small value in circulation; and the Government issued them without being gummed for the purpose of their being so used, as it was found that the gummed stamps were apt to adhere together when carried and handled.

RESULTS OF THE PENNY POSTAGE SYSTEM.

The number of chargeable letters delivered from the British Offices for the last complete year, before the reduction of postage, was taken at Seventy-six Millions.

In 1861 the number has risen to the stupendous amount of Five Hundred and Ninety-three Millions, being nearly an eight-fold multiplication of the former number.

This vast increase will be more clearly comprehended by the following short table, giving the proportion of the letters to the population at each period.

In 1839 the proportion stood thus :—In England and Wales, four letters per annum to each individual, in Ireland one, in Scotland three, being an average of three to each person in the United Kingdom.

In 1861 the average had grown in England and Wales to twenty-four per head, in Ireland to nine, in Scotland to nineteen, being an average of twenty per head for the United Kingdom.

Let us place this enormous increase in another light still. The total weight of letters, exclusive of newspapers and other matter, during the year 1839, was Seven Hundred and Forty-eight tons. In 1861 it had risen to Four Thousand Three Hundred tons.

LIVERPOOL:

PUBLISHED BY EDWARD MOORE & Co., FOREIGN STAMP DEALERS.

THE
MONTHLY ADVERTISER.

No. 2.

JANUARY 15, 186

PRICE 1d.

TO OUR READERS.

POSTAGE STAMP collectors and dealers have long felt the want of a publication which should devote itself entirely to their interests, and serve as a medium for their advertisements. To supply this want in some measure has been our aim in publishing the MONTHLY ADVERTISER, and we hope to be favored with the support of all whom it is designed to benefit. We shall be happy to receive original articles on the subject of Postage Stamps, and early information of rare varieties or new issues, not to be found in existing Catalogues, which shall be inserted in our following numbers. We shall also be glad to afford any assistance in our power to Collectors through the column devoted to Correspondents, though we cannot undertake to answer enquiries through the post.

Advertisements will be inserted at the following moderate charges :

Under 40 words.....	1s. 6d.
" 60 "	2s. 3d.
" 80 "	3s. 0d.
" 120 "	4s. 6d.

Orders for which, as well as all other communications, should be sent before the 7th instant, addressed to Messrs. Edward Moore & Co., Dealers in Foreign Postage Stamps, Liverpool.

THE NUMBER OF POSTAGE STAMPS
IN EXISTENCE.

BY DR. J. E. GRAY, F.R.S., F.Z.S., &C.

THE questions so often asked—“What is the number of Postage Stamps known?” and “How many have you?”
are not so easily answered, as many persons regard some Stamps as distinct, which others consider alike, and vice versa, and this to a much greater extent than those who ask the questions imagine.

I have always considered that the proper arrangement of the Stamps and the perfect understanding of them, is more important than the mere numerical strength of the collection.

In a carefully prepared Catalogue, lately published, the author has recorded “1660 varieties;” but, apparently, to make up this number, many are admitted that have very slight, if any, right to the distinction. Some that scarcely differ are considered as separate Postage Stamps, while others that are not Postage Stamps at all are included. As belonging to the first group, I may mention among numerous others, the slight shades of colour in the different printings of the Newfoundland, Victoria, and other Colonial Stamps, which merely depend on the mixing of the Ink. The Die and Lithograph impressions of the French unpaid letter label, I have never noticed the difference in; but I am told by a person connected with the French post-office, that if there be any Lithographic Stamps they are forgeries.

The Catalogue also records upwards of 200 varieties of American, and 35 varieties of Hamburg "special and private labels." Now, these are not Postage Stamps in the common acceptation of the term, they being often the tickets of carriers or private post offices, and if these are to be received as Post-office Stamps, so ought also the labels of the English and Continental carrier and Telegraph Companies. *

Under the name of Austrian "Complementary Labels" are included nearly 50 impressions of wooden blocks, which are used to fill up the frames of the dies from which the Stamps are printed, and which have no right to be considered as Postage Stamps, or indeed stamps of any kind. If, then, these different shades of colour, labels and blocks, are withdrawn from the catalogue, there remains, including all the more striking differences in colour which arise from the change of regulation, and not the mere accident in the mixing of the ink, between 1,000 and 1,100; but few, if any, of the collections I have yet seen contain so many, and after examining very many collections, formed by persons who solely depend on the Stamps they obtain from the letters sent to this country, I find they seldom contain more than 300, and very rarely reach 400 varieties.

"MOUNT BROWN'S CATALOGUE OF
POSTAGE STAMPS."

THE third edition of this valuable and interesting little work has just made its appearance, and will, we feel sure, be hailed with pleasure by all classes of Stamp Collectors. The list of existing Stamps has been revised and corrected, containing a description of nearly 1,700 varieties; but the most interesting feature in the volume is a short and concise description of imitations and forgeries, with some very useful information as to their detection. The practice of forging Stamps now prevails to a very great extent, and without the exercise of very great vigilance many Stamps will find their way into the collector's album, which have no business there at all, some of which having had no existence, others being imitations (often photographs) of

* Dr. Gray will here allow us to differ slightly from him on this point. He objects to the Local Express Stamps of Hamburg and America being recognised as Postage Stamps at all, simply because they are not government Stamps. But inasmuch as they are used to pre-pay the cost of transmitting letters, &c., we consider that collectors are quite justified in classifying them as such.

genuine Stamps, and not a few the colour of which has been chemically changed or destroyed.

We subjoin a few extracts from Mr. Brown's book, which will, we doubt not, be acceptable to any interested in the subject, who have not perused the work for themselves :

“The practice of collecting postage-stamps is so generally popular, that a few words on this subject may not be out of place. Trifling as the pursuit may at first sight be deemed, it has greatly aided the study of geography and a knowledge of foreign currency. Many, to whom the names of Luzon, Nevis, and Tburn and Taxis, conveyed no definite idea, are now able to point out the exact position of each on the map ; can calculate the English equivalents of soldi, bajocchi, crazie, and lepta ; and tell the difference between neu groschen and silber groschen, skillings-banco and öre. Nearly every issue has something curious connected with it, and indicates political changes with as much certainty to the collector, as coins do to the numismatist. To illustrate this, take the stamps of Naples. The first issue was in circulation from 1857 till 1860 ; when the king was dethroned, and a temporary stamp was then adopted bearing the Savoy cross. On the annexation of Naples to Sardinia this again was superseded by one bearing the effigy of Victor Emmanuel, though still retaining the Neapolitan “grani” currency.

“In many instances the postage-stamp is a gem as regards engraving, the most skilful artists having been employed to prepare the die. Those of Russia, Antigua, and Nova Scotia are especially noticeable. Among the most curious are the American local postage-stamps, which are impressed with a great variety of devices,—such as letter-boxes, effigies of the proprietors, carrier-pigeons, horses, eagles, &c. Our own colonies, too, indulge in not a few variations. New Brunswick has a crown and four stars ; a bust of Queen Victoria ; a railway locomotive ; a steam-ship ; a likeness of the Prince of Wales ; and, last but not least, the likeness of Mr. Connell, a Post-master General, who, being out of the ordinary 5-cent stamp, had his portrait engraved thereon, and acquired a certain amount of notoriety at the expense of his situation.

“There is great scope for taste in the arrangement of a large collection of postage-stamps. Strictly speaking, it should be chronological, and should follow a numerical order of value as in the Catalogue. Yet it frequently happens that the tints will then kill one another, and some judgment must be exercised to preserve a harmony of colours, and to show the stamps to advantage. Lately, in the “States in Union in North America,” a postage-stamp currency has been introduced, and the notes are very curious, representing many millions of dollars. After this, who will bring a charge of triviality against postage-stamps when not only one of the most commercial governments in the world takes them under its especial protection ; while they may also be looked upon as auxiliaries to a knowledge of geography, history, currency, and to a cultivation of taste in colour and design ?

“At first, collectors were satisfied to exchange stamps, but the desire of procuring specimens is now so great, that they have actually become marketable commodities, and possess a certain fictitious, apart from their intrinsic, value. Some stamps, which have been out of use for many years, are exceedingly scarce. I know an instance where the enormous price of a guinea and a-half was asked and paid for a single obliterated stamp, the value of which, when new, was under fourpence! The value of stamps in present use depends upon their "condition," whether used or unused; and upon the difficulty of obtaining them; those from the Philippines and Hawaiian Islands are among the most scarce.

"The "old" stamps being very simple in design, and commanding high prices, it will be seen how great is the temptation to reproduce them, as has been and still is done, both here and on the continent, by dishonest persons. However accurate the imitation may be, there are trifling differences in the impression, by which a connoisseur may at once determine whether a stamp under inspection is genuine or spurious."

Mr. Brown then gives a list of stamps which are not genuine, and disposes of many in a very amusing manner; thus some of the supposed French stamps, about one-fourth the size of the genuine postage stamps, are shown by him to be merely "trade labels; found most commonly on bonbons and packets of French chocolate." The stamps of Iceland, he says, turn out to be trade labels also, employed for pots of bears' grease, &c. Altogether, it is a very useful work. Every collector should possess a copy of this—our Standard Catalogue.

FORGED STAMPS: HOW TO DETECT THEM,

BY THORNTON LEWES.

The number of false postage stamps in circulation, both forged and fictitious, has increased to such an extent within the last year, that a book, accurately describing them, and how to detect them, has become more necessary to the collector than even a catalogue of postage stamps. The want of such a work has already been felt. Mount Brown, in the third edition of his catalogue, has indeed mentioned a few forgeries, but his descriptions are too short to enable anyone to distinguish between forged and genuine stamps. A person in Brussels, has published a book on the subject, which, as well as the English translation, is utterly worthless. In fact he took care not to make the descriptions too accurate, lest it should interfere with his own business. It must be evident to all stamp collectors, that the most accurate descriptions of all forgeries are absolutely necessary in order to their detection, and this want it is the object of the following papers to supply.

We commence with the Swiss stamps, for no others have been and are manufactured in such numbers as they, nor are any so well executed. The forger of most, if not all, of the Swiss stamps is a person residing in Zurich; he is in fact the Redpath of stamp collectors. He employs a lithographer during a considerable part of the year. We would also warn collectors against a dealer in Basel, who, if he does not himself forge, sends hundreds of forged stamps to English collectors. With this short preface we will proceed upon our undertaking, giving the preference to

I. ZURICH.

1843. Superscription (Zurich) value indicated by large figure in the centre. At the bottom of the 4 rappen, the words "Local Taxe" are found; at that of the 6 rappen, "Cantonal Taxe." Date indicated by one figure in each corner thus: 1. 8. 4. 3. Black impression.

1843. Like the above, but with date only in the bottom corners, thus: 18. 43. These stamps are entirely fictitious and manufactured at Zurich. No stamps were issued in Switzerland until 1850. There were two essays of 1843 made, but they are quite different from the stamps of the 1850 issue. As probably only two specimens were printed, collectors are not likely to fall in with them, so that an accurate description is not necessary. Suffice it to say, that the 4 rappen has the words "4 rappen. Local Taxe" printed in an oval round the figure 4, and that the 6 rappen is larger than that of the 1850 issue, and has a very much more intricate background.

1850. These stamps have become so rare as to make it very profitable to forge them.

BLACK IMPRESSIONS.

GENUINE. — 4 rappen. Words "Local-Taxe" joined by hyphen; triangle at right-hand-end of uppermost horizontal (or cross) stroke of figure 4, composed of almost straight line.

The top of the figure 4, where the line goes towards the left-hand bottom corner projects over the left-hand line of the upright stroke of the figure. The four corner squares, very black and stand out strongly. The whole stamp is very much clearer and brighter; the little semicircles and ornaments in the border stand out, being much darker than the other lines.

GENUINE. — 6 rappen, words, "Cantonal-Taxe" joined by hyphen.

Border composed of three thin black lines. The middle stroke of the three little black ones, forming the ornaments between the semicircles in the border, touches the line nearest to the edge.

U and R in "Zurich" unevenly printed.

Each diagonal row of thin black strokes (4 in each row) is separated from the other by a broad, well-defined white space.

FORGED. — 6 rappen. Words, "Cantonal-Taxe" not joined by hyphen.

Border composed of four thin lines. The middle stroke of the three little black ones, forming the ornaments between the semicircles in the border, touches the second line from the edge.

All the letters the same distance, and printed evenly.

The oval at the top of figure 6 touches the body of the figure

The diagonal rows are so close that the white is hardly noticed.

Both the genuine 4 and 6 rappen are printed on greyish-white unglazed paper. The forged ones are on glazed paper, with the slightest blue tinge.

Geneva and Vaud will be noticed in our next.

In consequence of the pressure of important matter our correspondence must necessarily stand over until next month.

THE
AND MONTHLY ADVERTISER.

No. 3.

FEBRUARY 15, 1863.

PRICE 2d.

TO OUR READERS.

IN submitting the first number of an enlarged series to our friends, we desire to tender our grateful thanks for the manner in which the two former numbers of our little magazine have been received, and to express a hope that the same countenance and support will be extended to the present and following ones.

We have made arrangements for the publication in the Stamp Collectors' Review, of articles on all points of interest to collectors, and also for the continuance of those on forgeries and their detection, which will, we feel sure, be appreciated by them.

In order to make our magazine as attractive and useful as possible we have determined to illustrate it monthly with engravings of new and rare stamps. These will be executed in a superior manner, and as their cost will be considerable we trust our friends will do all in their power to increase our circulation, and so enable us to carry out this intention without pecuniary loss. We shall be happy to receive original articles on the subject of Postage Stamps, and early information of rare varieties or new issues, not to be found in existing Catalogues, which shall be inserted in our following numbers.

We shall still endeavour to carry out the intention expressed in our opening address, and through the medium of our correspondence column, will be most happy to render any assistance in our power to those for whom our magazine is specially and exclusively intended.

Advertisements will be inserted at the following moderate charges:

Under 20 words.....	1s. 0d.
" 40 "	1s. 6d.
" 60 "	2s. 3d.
" 80 "	3s. 0d.
" 120 "	4s. 6d.

Small announcements of collections for sale, &c., when not exceeding 15 words, will be inserted for a charge of 9d.

Orders for which, as well as all other communications, should be sent as much as possible before the 6th instant, addressed to

MESSRS. EDWARD MOORE & Co.,
Dealers in Foreign Postage Stamps,
LIVERPOOL.

A REVIEW OF OUR POSTAL LITERATURE.

POSTAGE STAMP Collectors can now boast a literature of their own, and there are weekly issuing from the press some new works, relating in one way or another to this subject.

To Mr. Booty, of Brighton, the praise is due, of having been the first in England to compile a catalogue of stamps. This was at first very imperfect, but has been corrected and added to largely in the succeeding edition. His first attempt however was sufficient to stir up collectors who had greater facilities than himself for making a catalogue, and we have the results before us.

Second in the field comes Mr. M. Brown with a catalogue of 1200 varieties, the countries arranged alphabetically and the various species according to date of issue. Although his work has been previously noticed we may just say in passing, that collectors will find that this system makes it much easier for them to look up a stamp than under the geographical arrangement. Mr. Brown has since issued two new editions, and we believe will, in two or three months time, issue another.

We have already given a notice of Dr. Gray's Hand Catalogue, and believe that its merits are now so well known as not to need any further comment.

The next that appeared was a series of articles in "Cassell's Family Paper." The learned author has drawn very copiously from the "Postal Guide," but the "cribbed" portion is about as much to be relied upon as his original. For instance—in the No. for August 2nd, 1862, we have "the adoption of the 3d. and 9d. postage stamps is a great boon to the public, as by the old arrangement—as most of us know too well—a twopenny letter that turned the scale was legally charged at fourpence." And pray what is the new arrangement? We refer to the last issue of the author's favourite, and find—"a letter weighing more than $\frac{1}{2}$ oz., but not exceeding 1oz., 2d.; more than 1oz., but not exceeding 2oz., 4d." So where does your 3d. stamp come, Mr. Author? It is perhaps needless to waste our space further on such a clap-trap performance, suffice it to say that enlargements upon climate, buying land, penal settlements, sheep-shearing, etc., have nothing whatever to do with postage stamps.

The next book that comes under our notice is the "Stamp Collectors' Guide," with fac-simile illustrations. This is the first illustrated book we have had, and again it is from Mr. Booty. The fac-similes give a good general idea of the stamps; but in some of them there are mysterious lines in the corners, somewhat resembling defacement marks; but why these should be put there we cannot say. We could wish, in some cases, that the representatives were more distinct, and the lines a little thinner; but perhaps this thickness is owing to the process they are printed by. Persons just beginning to collect should buy this work.

We have from Mr. Oppen, the largest and best got up (as regards printing and binding) English catalogue and album that has yet appeared; the spaces for stamps are ruled off in red ink, and altogether the page has a very nice appearance. We will, however, point out a few errors and omissions, that it will be well to remedy in a future edition. In the album there is a 5d. English classed, and not any 6d. The Malta is described as being of an octagonal shape; the Mecklenburg small $\frac{1}{4}$ sch. is 4-4ths. in both the album and catalogue; and there are several other small mistakes that look very like careless printing. There are many things, however, in this book, that no other catalogue has at present touched upon: such as the reigning sovereign, heir to throne, area of square miles, and last, but certainly not least, the coinage of every country; so that the collector can see at a glance how many Swedish öres go to the Rixs-daler, and what the equivalent of that is in English money.

A very useful and entertaining article on Postage Stamps appeared in No. 579 of the Leisure Hour. The writer, after giving a slight sketch of the origin of our present postal system, reviews the various stamps, their design and the methods employed by different governments in their obliteration. A cut of the Mulready envelope and 22 other colonial and foreign stamps are given, all of which are very well executed.

We extract the following from this paper:—

“For nine years England had the exclusive use of postage labels, or stamps. In 1848 France issued her first stamps; in 1849 they came into general use there. The example was quickly followed by Belgium and Austria, then by the office of Thurn and Taxis (Germany), Spain, Bavaria, and other continental posts. The system is now adopted by above a hundred and thirty countries. There are between fourteen and fifteen hundred different labels known to exist. The portrait of our Queen appears on 237, and the figure of Britannia on 29 varieties. These belong to 34 British colonies or possessions, viz., 2 in Europe, 3 in Asia, 4 in Africa, 18 in North and South America, and 7 in Australia.

“When the reader learns the vast variety of stamps, he will be less surprised at the present “stamp mania.” There are now established in London and many provincial towns regular “Postage Stamps Exchanges.” In London this is held in Lombard Street, and most largely attended on Saturday afternoons. In Paris, where the mania is as great as in London, the Exchanges are held in the gardens of the Tuilleries and Luxembourg, and are best attended on Thursdays. At all these places, and indeed throughout the collecting world generally, the stamps most sought after are those which issue from countries of little importance, and the value of the stamp usually increases as the size of the country decreases.

“Essai,” or proof stamps, are also much in demand. There is more than one kind of stamp included under these terms. Proof stamps originate in this way: When a fresh plate of stamps has been engraved or struck, there is an impression taken in a different colour from that which the stamps will be issued in, to see if the plate is perfect. The proof is either torn up or thrown aside. Some person gets hold of the pieces and gives the stamps away, and in this or some similar way these proof stamps get into the market. The true "essai" stamp, however, is that which has been printed for issue, but never got into actual circulation, such as the threehalfpenny label of this country, a great number of which were made a short time since.

"On looking through a well-arranged catalogue or collection of labels, it will be observed that in every country there is some distinctive feature running through several labels. That is to say, there is a national or specific character, of which the different stamps present varieties.

"In English colonies, however, we see a still more curious feature. In them a species sometimes runs through several countries; for instance, we have the same full-face Queen's head in Grenada, Natal, Tasmania, New Zealand, and Queensland. Again, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick formerly had diamond-shaped labels of the same size and device, of a crown in the centre surrounded by four stars, containing the rose, shamrock, and thistle, value threepence, sixpence, and one shilling. These might be divided diagonally and used as two threehalfpenny, threepenny, or sixpenny labels. This custom is still used in Brunswick, where there is a stamp that may be cut into quarters.

"New Brunswick is very rich in peculiar stamps; besides having the designs of a railway engine, a steam vessel, the bust of the Prince of Wales, and the before-mentioned stamps, it had, a short time since, the head of a man with a bushy beard. This was the portrait of a Mr. Connell, the then Postmaster-General of New Brunswick. As soon as the higher powers heard of his printing his own portrait, they ordered the issuing of the label to be stopped. Connell, on receipt of this intelligence, threw up his office in disgust. Most of this label was gathered in, and it is very rarely met with now.

"Amongst other remarkable and curious stamps, we have the West Australian, the device on all of which is a black swan. New South Wales has a view of Sydney, and natives presenting a palm branch to some personage seated in an arm-chair on the sea shore. The Sandwich Islands label has a portrait of King Kamehameha III. in military full-dress.

"On four stamps, belonging to different countries, we find the cap of Liberty; on four a cross; on five an eagle. The head of Mercury figures on two; ships on three; Emperors on three; Grand Dukes on two; Kings on ten; Queens on two, not reckoning England or her colonies; heads of Presidents on four. Bulls' heads, inns, keys and castles, horses, and various coats of arms appear on miscellaneous labels; and labels more unassuming simply bear in figures the value of the stamp."

There are several other small works to be noticed, but they must stand over for a future paper. W.H.

FORGED STAMPS: HOW TO DETECT THEM,

BY EDWARD PENBERTON.

II. GENEVA.

Port Local 5 cents, black impression on light green paper—small.

GENUINE.—The rays are very equal, and do not go beyond "de" in inscription. The top feather of eagle's wing is curved upwards and the foot touches it.

FORGED.—The rays are unequal, extending to the right hand more than to the left. The top feather of eagle's wing is curved to the left, and the foot of eagle does not touch it.

There is only one sort of Port Local: that on nearly white paper is forged, as also those on very dark green paper, and those on a yellowish green ground.

Port Cantonal 5 cents, black impression on light green paper. There are two distinct forgeries of this stamp. The following is not however much circulated.

GENUINE.—Eagle, without crown, neck as dark as the rest of the body; wing touches the side of the shield, but not the top of it; inscription, clear X in "lux," very large; the band containing the motto hangs down equally on both sides, but the right end touches the side of the stamp; the five toes on eagle's foot are distinct and seem too large.

FORGED.—Eagle, without crown, neck very much lighter than the rest of the body; the wing does not touch either the side or top of the shield; the inscription is badly printed, and word "lux" illegible; the band is much lower on the right side, almost touching the letter C, and touching the side of the stamp; the toes are indistinct, of a natural size, and cannot be counted separately.

The other forgery is an exact copy of the false dark green 5 cents stamp, being from the same die, but struck on light instead of dark green paper; the principal differences being, that the forgery has the eagle crowned; the wing touches the side and top of the shield; the rays extend beyond the inscription at the top of the stamp, (in the original it only reaches up to the inscription); the letters are JHS, (in the original they are IHS); the toes on the foot are three in number.

From these striking differences we infer at once, that this stamp was never forged for the light green stamp, but for the dark green one. After making it was doubtless found more convenient to print them on light green paper and pass them off as that stamp than to make another more nearly approaching the real one. The one first described is evidently made by a totally different hand from these last. At present we have been quite unable to procure an undoubtedly genuine specimen of the dark green 5 cents Geneva, but hope for positive information in time for insertion in our next article.

We now come to the 5 cents Port Cantonal, green on white paper.

GENUINE.—The strokes round the letters IHS are very short, and do not cross the inscription; the dots forming a ground behind the eagle are numerous; the top of the wing is exactly in the corner of the shield; and the bottom loop in handle of the key is nearly as large as the others.

FORGED.—The strokes round the letters IHS are long, and cover the top of the stamp, crossing the inscription; the dots forming a ground behind the eagle are few in number; the top of the wing is to the right of the corner of shield; the bottom loop in the handle of the key is much smaller than the others.

This too has been struck from the same die as the forged dark green and the second forgery of the light green 5 cents; so that the forged dark green, the forged green on white, and one of the light green 5 cents are all exactly the same, with the exception of the colours, there being no difference in the device in any of them, whilst the genuine are all more or less different.

The 10 cents Port Cantonal is an invention of the Zurich dealer. One would think its appearance was sufficient to condemn it, and yet it has been largely sold, and even inserted in our best catalogue of stamps. It consists of two Port Local stamps (wider than the usual forgery), printed in black on dingy green paper and connected at the top by a label, in which is printed "10 Port Cantonal Cent." The stamps are Port Local (both of them), and yet the label at the top has Port Cantonal on it.!

In these two 5 cents the word "Geneve" is printed much above the level of "Poste;" the letter G touches the top edge of the stamp, while Poste is an eighth of an inch from the edge in the nearest part. This will be quite sufficient to enable any one to reject this stamp as a forgery should one be offered as a real 5 cents local.

From the Geneva we proceed to

III.—VAUD.

GENUINE.—The left end of post horn is elongated and almost touches the black border of the scroll; the words "Post locale" are long and firm; the folds encircling the post horn below come on the left-hand side up to the middle of the large black dot, which is the top one of the four placed in a curve round the label containing the value; the top ornament on each side of the inscription overhangs the lower ornament considerably; the highest large black dot under the horn on right hand side is as large as the two under ones; the horn on the right side is thin, and the top is curved slightly outwards.

FORGED.—The left end of post horn is not elongated, and some distance from the border of the scroll. The letter O in Locale is not oval, as if a piece had been planed off on the top right hand side, and letter S in Poste is longer than the other letters. The folds encircling the post horn below do not extend so far, and the top ornament on each side of inscription does not overhang on the second one. The highest large black dot under the horn on the right-hand side is smaller than the two under ones. The horn is thicker on the right side, and the top is turned inwards.

This forgery is well executed; but there is another one which is wretchedly done. In it there are only three black dots on the right side under the post horn, and the horn itself is very thick and clumsy, and turned strongly inwards.

The genuine Vaud are very rare; but these forgeries are easily obtained, and, consequently, have all been largely circulated.

The other Swiss and the Modena will be noticed in our next.

STAMPS LATELY ISSUED

BY DR. J. E. GRAY, F.R.S., F.Z.S., &C.

I.—TURKEY.—These stamps are now to be seen in Constantinople as curiosities; but they are not to come into use before the first of March, 1863. A series of three, has been kindly sent to me by a friend residing there. They are rather coarsely executed, and printed on colored paper in black; they differ a little from each other in size, in the pattern and width of the outer frame and in the pattern of the scrolls under the signature, round the circle which contains the indication of their value. They may be thus described: The Sultan's sign-manual, in an enclosed circle or disk, with an inscribed crescent beneath. The upper corner ornamented with a small scroll; the part under the crescent, with a small circle bearing the number of value, surrounded with waved scrolls, all enclosed in an oblong, erect, narrow frame. 1 Piastre, on lilac paper; No. 2, like former, the pattern of under scroll and frame rather different—2, Piastres, on green paper; No. 3, like 1, but rather larger pattern of frame, and scroll under signature different; 5 piastres on rose-colored paper. (The engraving was executed since the above description was written.)

II.—HONG KONG. These stamps have also arrived. They were designed and printed in this country by Messrs De la Rue & Co., of Bunhill Row, but can only be procured from the colony. They are described in my catalogue; but the colours in which they were to be printed were not decided upon at that time. They are as follows:—2 cents, brown; 8 cents, yellow; 12 cents, blue; 18 cents, lilac; 24 cents, green; 48 cents, rose; 96 cents, black. They are very beautiful stamps, with word

Hong-Kong on one side, and the value on the other side, both in Chinese characters. (See Engraving.)

III.—BRUNSWICK has lately issued another adhesive stamp, with the usual design of the Horse. Two labels, and the value on each side in oval disks. The value is $\frac{1}{2}$ sgr.; the inscription fünf pfenning, and printed on brown paper.

IV.—ITALY has issued two new stamps similar to the present series, one with an embossed portrait on a white oval disk, in blue frame with white letters; value, C. quindici, in pale blue ink on white paper. The other is an oblong transverse stamp, 10 c., in white on an oblong transverse label, with the angle truncated in an oval transverse frame, with internal scroll and words segua and tassa, each in a small label in dark letters, one above and the other below the value. I do not know for what this stamp is used, but it is sent to me as a postage stamp, by Mr. Moens, of Brussels. Probably it is a gazette or newspaper stamp.

A new Swiss stamp, Canton, Berne, 10 rappen, has been sent us, of which we will give a description and engraving in our next.

WHO INVENTED THE PENNY POSTAGE SCHEME?

In his "Handbook of Postage Stamps," Dr. Gray, of the British Museum, made a statement which Sir Rowland Hill interpreted as a claim that he (Dr. Gray) really invented the penny postage scheme, but that, being very much occupied at the Museum, he made Sir Rowland, then a man of leisure, acquainted with his details, and left him to work them out. Sir Rowland writing to the Athenæum in reply, said—"If this strange story is not intended for a joke, it amounts to one of the most extraordinary hallucinations on record. But, however this may be, most assuredly the statement has not the slightest foundation in fact." Dr. Gray, in answer to this, says—"I have nowhere stated or intended to convey the impression 'that I communicated to him the plan of the penny postage in order that he might bring it before the public;' and, consequently, his denial that I had done so is a work of supererogation. I have simply said that I believe I was the first who proposed 'the system of a small uniform rate of postage, to be prepaid by stamps;' and that I attached no great importance to this is, I think, evidenced by the manner in which I spoke of it."

The correspondence above referred to appears to have given rise to a considerable amount of discussion on the point; and in reference to this subject, two letters appeared in No. 1840 of the Athenæum, the first of which tends to place an anecdote often quoted by Sir Rowland Hill's supporters in a very different light from that in which it is generally regarded. We give them in extenso, as the question deserves every attention, and must of necessity be an interesting one to the collector of Postage Stamps.

LETTER I.

"A POSTAL ROMANCE."

"In Miss Martineau's "Hist. of England during the Thirty Years' Peace, 1816-1846," vol. ii. p. 425, under "Post Office System," I find,—“Mr. Rowland Hill was walking through the Lake district, when he one day saw the postman deliver a letter to a woman at a cottage-door. The woman turned it over and examined it, and then returned it, saying that she could not pay the postage, which was a shilling. Hearing the letter was from her brother, Mr. Hill paid the postage, in spite of the manifest unwillingness of the woman. As soon as the postman was out of sight, she showed Mr. Hill how his money had been wasted, as far as she was concerned. The sheet was blank,” &c. Miss Martineau proceeds—“Most persons would have remembered this incident as a curious story to tell; but Mr. Hill’s was a mind which wakened up at once to a sense of the significance of the fact,” &c. The historian, further on, proceeds—“No postal reforms of a comprehensive character have ever originated in the Post-office itself. It required a pedestrian traveller in the Lake district, making his wayside observation—an investigator who could ascertain something of the extent of smuggling letters—a man of an open heart, who could enter into family sympathies—a man of philosophical ingenuity, who could devise a remedial scheme—and a man of business who could fortify such a scheme with an impregnable accuracy—to achieve such a reform. He was among us, and the thing is done.” (P. 427.)

“So far the story written by Miss Martineau, and published by Mr. Charles Knight. Now, if any one will turn to ‘The Letters, Conversations and Recollections of S. T. Coleridge,’ edited by Thomas Alsop, and published in 1834, he will find the story above recorded as happening to Mr. Rowland Hill, recorded thus as occurring to Coleridge himself:—‘One day when I had not a shilling which I could spare, I was passing by a cottage not far from Keswick, where a carter was demanding a shilling for a letter, which the woman of the house appeared unwilling to pay. I paid the postage, and when the man was out of sight, she told me that the letter was from her son, who took that means of letting her know that he was well. The letter was not to be paid for. It was then opened and found to be blank.’ Thinking it possible, though very improbable, that the same incident should have happened to both persons, I was induced to look at Mr. Hill’s pamphlet on Postage Reform, published in 1837, to see if I could find any reference to the occurrence mentioned by Miss Martineau. No indication of any such account is to be found, but, on the contrary, in Appendix

No. 7, ‘On Payment in Advance,’ p. 107, I find the story of Coleridge extracted, prefaced with the following observation:—“Coleridge tells a story which shows how much the Post-office is open to fraud in consequence of the option which now exists. The story is as follows,”—and Mr. Hill concludes the extract thus: ‘This trick is so obvious a one, that in all probability it is extensively practised.’

“M. Alphonse Esquiros, in ‘The English at Home,’ visits the Post-office, and gives the story, commencing, ‘About thirty years ago a traveller was going through the Lake district,’ and improves on it, for he adds, ‘The sun had not set, ere Mr. Rowland Hill (for that was the traveller’s name) formed the idea of organizing the postal service on a new basis.’—Wrexall’s Translation, 2nd Series, p. 308.

“It must be obvious to every one who reads, that the story has gone all wrong; very much to the profit of Sir Rowland Hill’s credit for sagacity—as ‘a man of open heart,’ of ‘philosophical ingenuity,’ of ‘impregnable accuracy,’ and so on. A question naturally arises, How could this have occurred? Does the blunder lie with Miss Martineau in the first instance? Did the error escape the publisher’s notice? Were the compliments of Miss Martineau ever repudiated by Sir Rowland Hill?

LETTER II.

“Appropos to the dispute between Sir Rowland Hill, Mr. Charles Knight, and Dr. Gray, as to which of them was the real originator of postage-stamps, I beg to inclose to you the following extract from ‘Le Vieux-Neuf; Histoire Ancienne des Inventions et Découvertes Modernes; par Edouard Fournier,’—Paris, 1859,—vol. ii., note on page 124:—‘Je ne veux pas finir sans parler des timbres-poste. On en doit réellement la première idée au Suédois M. G. Treffenberg, qui proposa, le 23 mars 1823, à l’Etat de la noblesse de Suède, l’émission d’un papier-timbre destiné à servir d’enveloppe aux lettres. Il va sans dire que l’idée fut repoussée par une très-forte majorité.’

W. T. FEWTRELL.”

The latter relates to the invention of the stamps themselves; but we may say it is generally conceded that Mr. Treffenberg did propose the adoption of stamped or franked envelopes, and, indeed, Mr. Stead, of Yarmouth, subsequently made a similar proposition, while it is maintained that adoption is due to Sir Rowland Hill.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

W. LOVELL, Junr.—It is intended that the "Review" should form yearly volumes, the first to be completed with No. 13. In answer to your second query, we know of no book published on the subject you name; but, at the end of his Catalogue, Mr. Brown has placed a list of some of the foreign currencies and their English equivalents. We may possibly devote an article to the subject in a future number of our Magazine.

For the following description of a fictitious Stamp we are indebted to Dr. Gray, of the British Museum:—"I was lately earnestly requested to call on a dealer in the city to see a rare and valuable Stamp. I at once saw that it was a forgery of the most glaring and barefaced description. It was a red water-colour drawing, somewhat like the Tuscan arms and crown; but the frame was inscribed Postale Caprera Italia, 1 scudo, and dated 1.8.6.0. in the angles. The letters are painted on with white lead, instead of being left white by the printing, as they would be in a real Stamp. They asked 7s. 6d. for it; and I understand more than one has been sold, and I saw one in the window as I passed the other day."

H. E. DICKENSON.—We do not consider a stamp perforated round the edge as a distinct variety; many Continental collectors, however, recognise them as such. T. HUNTER (Aberdeen).—We have been informed by a correspondent in the United States that most of the Local Express Companies' Stamps have been abolished by government within the last few months.

D. G. L.—See answer to H. E. Dickenson. WM. FORTAY.—The article you sent us is not suitable for our columns, and must be respectfully declined.

FRANCO BOLLO (Cheltenham).—There are only two stamps used in Antigua, value 1d. and 6d. These were issued in August last year, previous to which time English stamps were used.

GEO. WILSON (Belfast).—A collector in Paris informed us, about two months ago, that the New Caledonia stamps were altogether fictitious.

We are requested to contradict the assertion that Dr. Gray, of the British Museum, is the editor of the "Stamp Collectors' Magazine," published in Bath. We fancy, however, that a certain Ph. D., whose name is appended to one of the articles therein, has something to do with the conducting of the publication.

F. R. C. HOPKINS.—The subject of your article will be dealt with in those on "Forged Stamps," therefore we cannot give it a place.

JAS. SHELTON.—The difference between the two Cuba stamps exists in the colour of the paper on which they are printed; those on tinted paper are very much rarer than those on white.

Postage Stamp Albums.—Just Ready, price one shilling. N. Short, Green Hill, Grantham, has just published the third edition of his Stamp Album, ruled to contain 800 stamps, strongly bound in cloth, post free for 14 stamps. Also the following:—No. 2, ruled for 900, 1s. 6d.; No. 3, ruled for 1000, 2s.; No. 4, ruled for 1200, 2s. 6d.; No. 5, ruled for 1600 in leather, 7s. 6d. The above can be had of all the agents for the Stamp Collectors' Review, and also of the following:—E. Moore and Co., Liverpool; W. Lane, Redditch; C. J. Mills, 14, London-street, London; Francis W. Dyer, Halifax; J. A. McClurey, Belfast; Charles Legros, Jersey; R. Riley, Dublin; and wholesale of the publisher.

Woods & Pemberton, Olive Street, Hartlepool, dealers in obsolete postage stamps. List of 400 varieties, ready March 1st, sent post free on receipt of two stamps.

Cheap Stamps!—J. M. Lennard, Jun., Middlesbro'-on-Tees, has just received a large quantity of the following unused stamps: British Guiana Essays, Danish West Indies, Bucks' Richmond Express, Buenos Ayres, Local Sweden (old, black), Ceylon and Mauritius envelopes; also, the following used: Old Spanish, with and without dates, Parma, Portugal (Queen's head, 25 reis), Belgium, 10 c. and 20 c. (1849); also, Modena, from 9d. each, and many others. List on receipt of two stamps. Dealers will oblige by sending their lists.

J. G., 14, Phoebe Anne Street, Everton, Liverpool, can supply almost every variety of Foreign Postage Stamps on Reasonable Terms. His Stock includes those of Wallachia, Newfoundland, Venezuela, Nevis, Antigua, Monte Video, Chili, Buenos Ayres, Liberia, United States (Envelopes and Local) &c., &c. Price List sent on receipt of a stamped-directed envelope. J. G. also buys very Rare Stamps.

Important to Stamp and Coin Dealers and collectors. Dealers and publishers of books on the above should immediately forward their lists. Collections bought and sold to any amount. Price lists on receipt of two stamps. Mr. William E. Aklewis, at Mr. Brothers', Chemist, &c., Ashford, Kent.

James J. Woods, Olive Street (late Regent-street) Hartlepool, dealer in postage stamps. List sent on receipt of two stamps. Wanted to purchase, colonial stamps by the dozen.

STAMP-COLLECTORS' REVIEW

AND

MONTHLY ADVERTISER.

No. 4.

MARCH 15, 1863.

PRICE 2d.

TO OUR READERS.

WHILE again thanking our readers for their support, and the successful endeavour which has been made to promote the circulation of our magazine, we would still urge upon them the importance of increased exertions in this respect; as to double and treble the present number of subscribers is our earnest desire. If each of our subscribers were to induce a friend or two to take in our Magazine regularly, this object would at once be gained, and we again assure them that no expense or trouble shall be spared on our part to make the Stamp Collectors' Review both an attractive and useful publication. Engravings of new and rare stamps will be given monthly, the accuracy of which may be safely relied upon, as a skilful engraver will be employed.

The low price of our Magazine renders it especially valuable as a medium for collectors and dealers' advertisements which will be inserted at the following moderate charges:

DE LA FALSIFICATION DES TIMBRES POSTE :

BY J. B. MOENS, BRUSSELS.

Translated into English by E. DOBLE, Falmouth.

THE task of writing a good book on the forging of Postage Stamps (undertaken by Mr. Moens, with what success the reader may judge from the following review of his little work,) is by no means an easy one. Unless the description of each stamp is very accurate, it is almost impossible to discover the minute differences which exist between those forged from dies in imitation of genuine stamps and the genuine ones themselves. The task would, in fact, be impossible (as there would be no differences at all) were the forgers to employ first-rate engravers; but, as no one but a low lithographer would undertake the disreputable business of forging stamps, accuracy in the imitation can hardly be expected, and has never been attained.

Mr. Moens has not even tried to grapple with this difficulty, for reasons which he probably prefers keeping to himself; he has merely mentioned some of the stamps that are found forged, generally adding that the genuine ones are executed from copperplate, and that the forgeries are lithographed, and as very few persons can tell the difference between the impression unless the lithograph be very coarse, that distinction affords no help.

As regards forgeries, therefore, this work is useless.

The catalogue of stamps changed by acids is tolerably complete. These are stamps that every collector looks upon with suspicion, as the process of changing the colours is so simple; and if a collector knows that a certain stamp exists in green, when shown it in blue, he is instantly on his guard, and examines it carefully, or consults friends about it. Salt water changes some stamps, as many are already aware, who have received a black penny Victoria, or dark brown penny New Zealand, from letters saved from the wreck of the "Colombo."

The third kind of stamps Mr. Moens notices are the "Essays." Why he should class them with forgeries it is difficult to understand; and when he says that a collection of Essays has no interest, we beg to contradict his assertion. Though we do not collect them ourselves, we are perfectly aware of the interesting origin of many of them, and for our part do not collect them because it is impossible to get anything like a complete series. That they are not postage stamps in the strictest sense of the word we allow, as they have never been legally issued; but then the French Chiffre Taxe, and the Italian Segna Tassa, are not postage stamps either in such a sense, if we are to be so particular, and yet they are taken by every collector.

To sum up, the only useful part of the book is the least important, viz. :—the description of those stamps changed by acids. We therefore cannot conscientiously recommend the book, as it is certainly throwing a shilling away to purchase it, as, we doubt not, many collectors have already found.

But if the original is worthless, what shall we say of the translation? Let those of our readers who have not had the pleasure (?) of perusing it imagine what it must be like, when we tell them that Mr. Doble translates "dentelé" (perforated) into "indented," and the French idiom "assez mal" into the quasi-English "tolerably badly." But Mr. Doble's genius soars above the minds of most men, and cannot be confined within the narrow limits of his mother tongue, and when he comes to the words "des exaltes" he translates them "some bombasts," coining new words for the occasion.

With these remarks we consign his book to oblivion, and Mr. Doble himself to his English and French dictionaries and grammars.

NISUS.

MY NEPHEW'S COLLECTION.

Most manias, whether chronic or acute fail to become cosmopolite; they rage within a limited area, beyond which they do not spread; or they are confined to certain classes of society, above or below which they do not rise or sink. The rows of Donnybrook Fair are a notoriously Irish mania. In one century, choice tulips hardly got out of the hands of merchant princes; in another, they became the exclusive delight of weavers. Auriculas, with their formal and powdery beauty, have been stigmatised, by those who cannot grow them, as shoemakers' flowers. Lancashire is the centre of the gooseberry mania. Bull-fighting is a mania, which, although fierce on the spot, we should be sorry to see gaining ground outside the Spanish dominions. Every country in Europe has its own special mania; and there are doubtless plenty of little localities, both within the pale of Christendom and without it, each with its own pet mania, which, as far as the rest of the world is concerned, is born to break out unseen and waste its weakness on the desert air.

My nephew is a victim of the last new mania.

Harry is not a bad sort of fellow, being neither rebellious, saucy, unsteady, nor priggish. For his age I thought him wonderfully quiet and studious, given to more serious pursuits than most other juveniles. He brought with him, from Dr. Trimmeboy's establishment, a thick square strong-bound manuscript, entirely filled with a series of sums, ranging from simple and compound addition (with the lines ruled with red ink), through cube-root extraction, tare and tret, interest for various terms and at various rates per cent, timber-measuring and land-surveying, and concluding with a mild foretaste of trigonometry: showing how to calculate the height of a steeple, all transcribed in his own handwriting, with corrections, passim, by the head usher. It was (for it is no longer) an autograph volume of which any ciphering-master in the land might boast.

His aunt Rebecca (my maiden sister) and myself, after close inspection of the manuscript, were duly edified—so duly, in fact, that I believe we never opened it afterwards, until the occasion I am about to relate. But what subsequently excited our approbation was the constant reference which Harry made to his model ciphering-book. He would lay down the Times to recur to its perusal. When I opened a light chat on the City article, he would take up his book, as a help to a clearer comprehension of the topic. If alluding to the Court of the Vatican, I mentioned the intrigues of the ex-King of Naples, he replied perhaps, consulting the book again, "Ah, yes; I have it." If I wondered whether Hesse would make it up with Prussia, "Let me see; unluckily, no," was his answer, after a glance at the oracle. He never parted from the book. He thought more of the book than Abernethy did of his. It was his handy book, his vade mecum, his manual, his companion, by day, and his bedfellow, I believe, by night. Beholding this strong attachment to figures, vague thoughts came over us of his being destined to succeed the astronomer-royal, or to rival the fame of Bidder and Babbage.

At the same time he seemed to become strangely and even unpleasantly inquisitive respecting our own private affairs. Neither Rebecca nor myself receive letters that contain deep secrets, political or family. We do not correspond with Garibaldi, Mazzini, or the Count de Chambord. We hold no communication, in cypher or otherwise, with any foreign government. Still, we like that the few letters we do receive should be regarded with respectful reverence—should be touch-me-nots, scarcely to be looked at, handed in on a waiter. We even thought of starting the fashion of having them covered with a napkin besides. Instead of which, Harry at once took to answering the postman's knock, although Mrs. Price, our housekeeper, always did so before his arrival. Not only that: we felt aware that the outside of every letter was scrupulously examined while he closed the hall-door as slowly as possible, and returned to the breakfast-room at a funeral pace. Newspapers sent by absent friends—three distinguished families on our visiting list were then enjoying a continental tour—were subjected to the same inspection. Every cast-off envelope was carefully but silently secured, for the sake, as we thought, of studying and comparing the handwriting. We noticed also that, young as he was, more letters arrived for him than for us, the contents of which he never communicated. Strange, and slightly impertinent!

Yesterday, Rebecca's forbearance could hold out no longer. At the postman's rap, Harry jumped up as usual, before Mrs. Price—who is not so active as she was twenty years ago—could get to the door; and he returned with two letters, one half hidden in the cuff of his sleeve, while he devoured the direction of the other with his eyes. We had long been expecting that letter. It contained, we knew, an expression of thanks and safe arrival in Queensland from a penniless but hard-working young woman whom my sister believed she was really patriating, while ex-patriating her, at her own expense. In truth, the girl's sweetheart had purposely gone out before her, with an understanding, and was ready for the reception of his well-beloved. We wished this little romance, in which Rebecca was an accomplice, to be kept as snug as possible.

"That is my letter sir," observed my sister, sternly; "and I should be glad to have it, and others for the future, brought in directly, without being quite so closely examined. In my time, young people did not take such liberties."

"Because in your time——" stammered Harry, not daring to finish.

"Because why, sir? I insist on knowing."

"Because in your very, very young time, aunt, there were no such things as postage stamps. They are a magnificent invention of modern times. Here is the letter; but pray do give me the envelope."

"For what? What interest or right, sir, can you possibly have to inspect the postmarks of my correspondence. And, now we talk of correspondence, I should like to be informed what is the nature of yours. It may be all right and proper, and I dare say it is; but, until you are one-and twenty, and we are relieved of the responsibility of your guardianship, I may observe that your uncle and myself ought to be made acquainted with its nature, and to have some idea of the persons with whom it takes place."

Rebecca uttered this little lecture with all the dry decision she could muster, looking at me, at the close of her speech, to second the motion. Then, as she really loved her nephew, and was too kind-hearted to feel easy while administering reproof, she made a retreat and avoided further discussion by breaking the seal of her letter and becoming absorbed in its perusal. I said nothing. Harry blushed, not a guilty blush, but a blush as it were protesting against unjust treatment. He soon left the house—as he afterwards confessed, to make private arrangements with the postman.

During his absence, and while Rebecca was making out her multi-crossed epistle, breathing a satisfactory "Ah!" at intervals, I went upstairs to my room, to look out of window with my hands in my pocket, as my wont is when anything occurs to puzzle me. His room door stood ajar, suggesting the possibility of finding a clue to the correspondence of which Rebecca disapproved. In a snug corner of his bookcase was the well-worn ciphering-book, which would not have invited further attention but for its bloated appearance, so to speak. It had grown plethoric, abdominal, and fat. It seemed to have taken in more good things than it could well digest. It was filled to repletion, witness sundry cracks, in spite of the extra binding duly charged in the school bill. I took it down, really hoping to find a further triumph of my nephew's mathematical abilities, and supposing the additional thickness to rise from logarithmic calculations of excessive profundity. The sums, no doubt, would be overlaid with algebraic corollaries and commentaries. I opened the volume, half-fearing to behold an increase of figures, ascending vertically or descending transversely, and garnished with scales of red ruled lines.

Next the cover were loose letters, evidently not, as Rebecca dreaded they were, from any young person of the gentler sex. "Your last favour duly received," "on the 30th ult. we had the honour to forward," would hardly be the forms in which a fair one would avow her susceptibilities. There was mention of "France, 1848," "France, republic, presidency," "private offices," "scarce envelopes," and "local correspondence," which could have reference only to business or politics. Was my nephew in secret training for the foreign secretaryship? But on turning over the once arithmetical pages, a wonderful transformation met my eye, explaining the obese condition of the book. It was not exactly a palimpsest manuscript, but had been effaced by linings of paper mosaic. Each page was neatly ruled with blue ink into small square divisions quite irrespective of the sums upon it, and nearly each division was occupied by a postage stamp of some nation, colony, or community, whose name was hand-printed on a smart label pasted at the top of the page. A few old postage envelopes were honoured with a broad-margined page to themselves.

Beside the volume were three or four pamphlets, in French and in English, of Parisian, Belgian, and British publication, the happy authors of which could boast their second editions, revised, corrected and enlarged, with reproduction forbidden and every right reserved. I beheld Aids to Stamp collectors; being a list of English and Foreign Postage Stamps in Circulation since 1840. I beheld Catalogue des Timbres-Poste créés dans les divers Etats du Globe. Further, I saw Manuel du Collectionneur de Timbres-Poste, ou Nomenclature générale de tous les timbres adoptés dans les divers pays de l'Univers; as if the author, Monsieur J. B. Moens, were on intimate terms with postmasters residing in the planets Venus and Jupiter. He assures us that the stamp-collector may apply to him in all confidence; for the correspondents whom he has with the stranger enable him continually to supply the generality of all the stamps (of the universe?). And then there was a severe libellus, of ninety-seven pages, Timbres-Poste, without preface, commentary, or peroration, but an index only, "on sale chez Laplante, Dealer in Postage Stamps for Collections, 1, Rue Christine, 1, Paris." This last looked about as light reading as a list of fixed stars, or the astronomical portions of Dietrichsen's Almanack. Besides, and on the same shelf, were ranged grammars and dictionaries of foreign tongues, picked up at book-stalls; tables of European coins, weights, and measures, and, backing and supporting all, like a substantial buttress, a solid tome, entitled Manuel du Négotiant, Traité, théorique et pratique des Sciences Commerciales. For this learned treatise the name of the author, L. Rothschild, inspired me with a certain awe. I left it untouched, and turned over with bewilderment the pages of the metamorphosed arithmetical record.

While so doing, a light step bounded upstairs. It was Harry, who thus caught me in his sanctum, rummaging his private shelves, and surrounded by his precious documents tossed about in disorder. The boy looked astonished, but not in the least abashed or ashamed. He stood his ground like a man. After the first surprise at seeing me there, he seemed flattered rather than otherwise by the curiosity I was manifesting.

"And how did you come by all this rubbish?" I asked.

"By exchanges with correspondents, uncle," was his reply, in justification, "and also with my pocket-money."

"You were at liberty, certainly, to spend it on this, as well as on any other harmless nonsense; still it is a pity to throw money into the street."

"I beg your pardon, uncle; it is not thrown away at all. I have made a good investment. My stamp album is worth twenty pounds, if it is worth a single shilling."

"When you have proved that it is worth a shilling, I will believe that it will fetch twenty pounds."

"That is easily done. You know, uncle, there are two sorts of collections of stamps, the maculate and the immaculate. Maculate stamps, or such as have passed through the post, are marked, to prevent them being used again. I do not claim any value for those, because you, perhaps, will not admit that they have any value."

I nodded my perfect assent to this.

"And yet I have a Neapolitan stamp—here it is—of the late King Bomba, which I would not part with for five shillings. Besides, as each country has different postage stamps, so has each a different mode of defacing them. Just look, uncle. England does it by black bars, Hesse Darmstadt by concentric circles, France by a number of little black spots. Now, as it is possible that the rarity of certain discontinued stamps will tempt forgers to imitate them, if they commit any error in the mode of defacement, they will be caught most assuredly. Therefore, an authentic post-mark on a stamp confirms its genuineness and increases its worth—"

"Which I ignore."

"I must tell you a true story, which I heard at the lycée. A maid-servant, who made use of a postage-stamp for the first time in her life, had noticed that all the letters she took in for her master were dotted with black over the stamp, like this head of the Republic. She supposed it was done to make the stamps stick better, and imitated it as well as she could with a pen. At the post-office, it was at first suspected that some one had used an old stamp, to cheat the government. Inquiries were made, and learned 'experts' set to work, who proved the girl's innocence of intentional wrong. She got off with an admonition, lucky enough to escape further trouble."

"Is it possible she could have been so stupid?"

"There are more stupid things done than that. Among the curiosities found in letter-boxes are unstamped letters in considerable quantities, and mingled with them, though not exactly in the same proportion, single loose postage stamps. There are people ignorant enough, after they have written and directed their letter, to buy a stamp at the office, and then, instead of sticking it on the letter, to throw it into the box at the same time with the letter, supposing that to be the mode of prepayment. The clerks do the best they can to distribute justice, in the shape of stamps, amongst the unprovided letters; but their utmost impartiality may not prevent some letter-writers from reaping what they have not sown."

"Beautiful simplicity! But you were to prove that your album is worth a shilling."

"Instantly, uncle. My collection is, for the most part, maculate, consisting of old stamps. I am not rich enough to procure unused stamps of all the countries in Europe—not to speak of the colonies—nevertheless I have a few. Now you must acknowledge, uncle, that unused stamps are worth their cost price. Here is a Wurttemberg stamp for six kreuzers; here, a Swiss one for forty rappen, a Belgian one for forty centimes, a Norwegian one for eight skilling, and a Prussian one for three silbergroschen, all unused. Their joint value is more than a shilling English."

"I don't know," I demurred, speaking the truth.

"Again, here are French immaculates for eighty, forty, twenty, ten, five and one centime respectively; that's more than a shilling. And here are English ones for sixpence, fourpence, threepence, twopence, and one penny. Do they make a shilling? Eh, uncle?"

"I suppose they do, and that you have the best of the argument."

"Yes. And I am in hopes, uncle, that I shall be able to make you entertain a higher opinion of postage stamps. They are a great discovery; and if so, their history is well worth studying. The man who invented them deserves as much honour as he who invented coin for cash transactions. By sticking a bit of paper, with a government mark, on a letter, you command its delivery, as soon as may be, at any place you choose to name. All the formalities and delays of money payments are avoided, including those connected with the money exchange of the foreign countries which a letter may have to traverse."

"That is, you mean to say that postage stamps are a simple and convenient form of paper money?"

"I beg your pardon. Postage stamps are not paper money; they are much more than, and superior to, paper money. Paper money supposes moneyed capital of the precious metals, and, to have any worth, must be backed by a bank with bullion in it sufficient to pay them off whenever required. The bullion may run short, be spent, or stolen; the bank may fail, and the paper be good for nothing but to light a cigar with. Postage stamps represent not cash to be paid but a service to be rendered; the only capital they suppose is the existence of human limbs and brains and the continuance of civilised society. So long as European nations endure, and people have a mutual interest in knowing what is going on in other places, a postage stamp can never fall to the level of a bank note issued by a broken bank. Perhaps even, one of these days, we shall have stamps to prepay other services besides letter-carrying."

"Your imagination is running along, my boy, faster than I can follow it."

"Not at all, uncle; for the scheme is already put in practice to a limited extent. Did you ever hear of a ticket for soup?"

"I think, Harry, I have. But what has that to do with it?"

"A ticket for soup (about which so many jokes have been made) is a promise, by charitable persons, of a gift to be made. The soup received is the fulfilment of the promise, is it not? Applying the same principle to business, there are restaurants in Paris who sell you packets of tickets for dinners. Instead of paying for your board by the month (and paying for nothing whenever you are asked out to dinner), you keep the tickets in your pocket-book, and, whenever you want to dine, you present one; exactly as, when you want to send a letter, you stick upon it the proper stamp, and put it into the letter box. The restaurant's ticket is a dinner stamp; it prepays the butcher, the cook, the wine merchant, the rent of the dining-room, and the use of the dinner things, all through the agency of the head of the establishment, who is always there to supply the meal contracted for whenever called upon to do so. Subscription to the opera is something of the same kind. All I say is that we may carry the stamp system further, applying it perhaps to medical attendance."

"We will ask the Doctor what he has to say to it. Meanwhile, I begin to think that your time and money may not have been spent on mere unmeaning bits of coloured paper. To convince me thoroughly, can you stand an examination in the contents of your own stamp-book?"

"I believe so, uncle. Please begin wherever you like."

"How does a native Hanoverian spell the name of his country?"

"With two ns; H, a, double n."

"What does Sverige mean?"

"Sverige is Sweden."

"What is a Freimarke?"

"A Swedish Freimarke, an Austrian Post-stempel, a Hanoverian Bestellgeld-frei, a Dutch Post-zegel, a French Timbre-poste, an Italian Francobollo, a Hamburg or Lubeck Postmarke, are all and equally postage stamps."

"What is the shape of a Cape of Good Hope stamp?"

"Triangular. The French fellows at our lycée, when I showed them the beginning of my collection, were struck most of all with the number and extent of the British possessions. I told them they might have the same, if they only had the perseverance to go and settle in foreign lands. But they are a too stay-at-home people for that. Wherever they go, they are always thinking of their village steeple."

"What are the stamps with a crowned lion holding a shield, marked nine grazie and six grazie?"

"Ah! those are Tuscan, beginning to be rare and valuable. A collector sets a value on a postage stamp in inverse proportion to the stability and prosperity of the state by which it is issued. Those of the overthrown Italian Duchies, Tuscany, Parma, and Modena, never very numerous, are now scarce, and will soon be priceless. The stamps of transitional governments, like the last French Republic, are eagerly sought, for the same reason. I am thinking of investing a trifle in Roman Pontifical stamps. When the temporal power has come to an end, those stamps will command anything in the way of exchange."

"What are—I can't make them out myself—those very pretty stamps, with oval medallions, green, red, and blue, in the midst of drapery of a different colour?"

"Those are Russian, for thirty, twenty, and ten copecks each. I cannot read the legend or inscription, because I have not yet been able to set myself up with a Russian alphabet, and a grammar and dictionary to follow."

"Your aunt and myself will manage that between us. Let us now go and see whether she has finished her letter."

"You have been a long while up-stairs," observed Rebecca, as we entered, returning her spectacles to their case, and handing me her Australian epistle to read. "She is quite well and happy. She has had a little boy, and is expecting another. She sends her duty and some Queensland bird-skins by the next mail, hoping that you and I are the same."

"I am glad of it, though the news is a little confused. Harry has been showing me his correspondence. You may give him the envelope, or he will be content with the stamp alone."—All the Year Round.

A GLANCE AT THE POSTAGE LABELS OF DIFFERENT COUNTRIES.

JUDGING from all the specimens of Confederate stamps that have reached us, the Southerners must be sadly deficient in artists, draughtsmen, and engravers. The Mobile is the most original design; but the Nashville is executed in the most superior manner. The New Orleans is a stamp, scarcely fit to be affixed to a beer bottle. In our engraving, we have perhaps represented the stamp too well.

It does not precisely appear whether these stamps are government town stamps, with the name of the post-master attached, or whether they belong to private firms, who farm the offices for a period. The latter however is most probably the case. We do not think that they belong to express companies, that is, companies in opposition to Government.

The following is a list of the Confederate Postage Stamps. Confederate States (head) 5c., green, red, blue; 10c. (head) blue and red. New Orleans 2c., blue and red; 5c., brown, on white and blue paper. Nashville 5c., red and grey. Mobile 5c., blue. Memphis 5c., red. Baton Rouge 5c., pink, on green pattern. M. C. Callaway, post-paid, (locality not known), 2c., blue.

Our remarks, as to the manner in which the postage stamps are engraved, apply also to the paper money of the Southern Confederacy; but we trust they will improve in this respect, when they have succeeded in establishing their independence, or rather in having it recognised.

The Spanish stamp "una onza" is curious, from the fact of its not having any value expressed in money, but in the weight up to which it will carry: besides this 1 oz., which is printed on dark rose-coloured paper, there are of the same series $\frac{1}{2}$ oz., yellow; 4 oz., green; and 1 libra (one pound), blue.

The Granada Confederation stamps are rather scarce. The one we represent is perhaps the commonest in England. They seldom bear any other obliterating mark than "Bogota," in large letters; this is the name of the capital, which is partly made famous by its proximity to Lake Guatavita, into which, it is said, the Indians threw all their treasures, when New Granada (then called Terra Firme) was invaded, by the Spaniards, about A.D. 1540.

After the Nova Scotia and Hong Kong stamps, those of Antigua are certainly the most beautiful Colonial stamps that have been issued. The small island, whose name they bear, (47 square miles in area), has been an English colony since 1632. The 1d. (chocolate) and 6d. (green) are the only stamps used.

The French Colony Stamp appears to be in circulation over almost all the French possessions, there being no difference in the design employed, nor is the name of the colony stated, in the same way that English crown colonies formerly used the figure of Britannia for a design. This is much to be lamented by all collectors, as in the English crown colonies there was at least a different name on each, thus making a different variety; but with the French, this even is not the case. If these places had been allowed to choose their own design for their stamps, what beautiful additions to our albums might we not have had? W. H.

FORGED STAMPS: HOW TO DETECT THEM,

BY THORNTON LEWES.

IV.—NEUFCHATEL.

Post Locale, 5 centimes, black impression, on white paper.

GENUINE.—The three-pointed ornaments on each side of the label containing the value are narrower than the label itself, and the label containing the superscription is a good distance from the top of the stamp; exactly over the letter L in the middle of the stamp, there are two little circles, which fill out the space between the label and the top of the stamp; and on each side of these circles is a well defined curve.

FORGED.—The three-pointed ornaments on each side of the label containing the value, are as broad as the label itself, and the label containing the superscription is close to the top of the stamp, the space between being filled out by three or four little strokes. This has been circulated to a considerable extent.

V. BASEL.

2½ Rappen.

GENUINE.—The ground is composed of alternate blue and white dots. The figures 2½ and the letters Rp, very thin. The key is of the same thickness, both above and below the middle rings. The middle bottom point of the key is long and almost touches the black lines; both the outside bottom points touch the side black line.

FORGED.—The ground is of an uniform pale green. The figures 2½ and letters Rp, are almost as thick as the inscription. The key is very much thicker below the middle rings than above. The middle bottom point of the key is short and a good distance from the black line. The outside left-hand bottom point touches and the right-hand one does not touch the side black line.

VI. WINTERTHUR.

(Canton of Zurich.)

2½ Rappen. Ortspost. Poste-locale.

GENUINE.—The red lines on the scroll are thin and close to each other. There is a full stop after the word Post.

The horn is bound to the circle, on the left-hand side by a double line over the letter T of Post. The right-hand rim of the horn is equally thick throughout. The rope holding up the cross is composed of eight circles on each side.

FORGED.—The red lines on the scroll are thicker and further apart. There is no stop after the word Post. The cross is thin and long; at the bottom there is no double line binding the horn to the circle. The right-hand rim of the horn is much thicker on the left side than on the right. The rope holding up the cross, is composed of six circles on each side.

VII. ORTSPOST.

Value 2½ Rappen.

GENUINE.—Is printed on dull white paper. The black wavy line in the right-hand top corner touches the label containing the superscription over the letter T; the thick line enclosing the white scroll is alternately white and black, and does not touch the border of the stamp.

FORGED.—Is printed on a bluish tinged paper. The black wavy line in the right-hand top corner touches the label containing the superscription between the letters S and T; the line enclosing the white scroll is much thinner and not regularly marked. Sometimes the whole right side is black, and on the left-hand side it touches the border of the stamp.

VIII. POSTE LOCALE.

Value $2\frac{1}{2}$ Rappen.

GENUINE.—Is printed on white paper. Under the figures $2\frac{1}{2}$ and the letters Rp there is a small curved line. The line enclosing the white scroll, and the black wavy line in the left hand top corner, do not touch the border of the stamp.

FORGED.—Is printed on bluish tinged paper. The line under the figures $2\frac{1}{2}$ and letters Rp is here wanting. The line enclosing the white scroll, and black wavy line, in the left hand top corner, both touches the border of the stamp

CORRESPONDENCE.

TO THE EDITORS.

GENTLEMEN,—Permit me to enclose for your inspection two specimens of Italian stamps, value of each 15 centimes. The dark blue was issued for the Kingdom of Sardinia, and the light blue one for the province of Naples. I have not seen these mentioned in any catalogue yet, and have therefore sent them to you in order that you may if you think proper, insert engravings in your next number. It is of course useless for me to notice the alteration in the English 6d. and 1s. stamps, viz: the letters being in all the four corners instead of only two; and, also in the 1s. stamp, the figure 1 in a small square on each side of the head. Apologising for intruding on your space, I beg to remain, Gentlemen, yours,

WILLIAM F. COOKE.

Dover, March 6th, 1863.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

H. G.—You will find the required information in "Mount Brown's Catalogue of Stamps."

A COLLECTOR.—The publication you refer to is simply an advertising sheet, and therefore will only fall into the hands of dealers, and a few collectors who wish to purchase. As it is to be circulated free, the advertisements will only pay the cost of printing a certain number, beyond which the publisher is not likely to go.

HENRY H.—See letter from Mr. Cooke on the subject you name.

ALAN S. COLE.—We have no doubt Mr. Pemberton would gladly give his opinion on the stamp you write about, if it were forwarded to his address for inspection.

A. H. THOMSON.—We intend to insert an article in our next number on the methods employed in the defacement or obliteration of postage stamps, as a guide very frequently to their genuineness.

J. T. NICHOLLS (Belfast).—We were shown by a collector here the black 40 c. French Empire stamp a short time ago. It has not been noticed in Mr. Brown's catalogue, and is, we presume, an essay stamp.

Orders for Advertisements, as well as all other communications, should reach us as much as possible before the 6th Instant.

Nicaraguan Stamp.—Will be ready in a week. A beautiful proof of the Nicaraguan stamp (equal to the original) will be sent for 13 postage stamps. Only 75 proofs of this will be taken, each proof will be numbered, and then the block burnt. An early application is really necessary, 25 copies being already sold. Address, Nicaragua, 20, Canterbury-place, Lambeth-road, S

ENGLISH POSTAL OBLITERATING MARKS.

LITTLE attention has, up to the present time, been paid to the study of these marks, either by the public in general or postage stamp collectors. But the subject is, for various reasons, an important one, and justly entitled to more than a passing thought. We hope that this attempt to describe those marks found on English stamps will prove but the precursor of many more on the same subject.

This continued to be used on the introduction of the black 1d. stamp, but in some cases the black ink not being found to deface the stamp sufficiently the color of the ink was changed to red. Shortly after this change was made, the 1d. stamp was altered to brown, and the red cross again, being found not to obliterate properly, was changed to black. After this unmeaning cross was abolished, the first mark the central office in St. Martin's-le-Grand used was a number enclosed in a diamond shaped figure, which was surrounded by horizontal lines, forming an oval. (Figure 2.)

II.

The number was variable, beginning, perhaps, at number 10, at 6 o'clock a.m., and adding one to the original number for every hour; by this arrangement any official could, at a glance, tell the exact hour the letter was posted. The outlying London offices, such as Finchley, Wandsworth, etc., had the number of the office (as registered in the General Post Office) enclosed in a circle, which was surrounded by horizontal lines. (Figure 3.)

III.

In all provincial towns in England and Wales the mark was the number of the town, with four parallel lines at the top, three at the bottom, and two curved lines on each side. (Figure 4.)

IV.

The only alteration which has taken place in the country mark was made four years ago, when the lines at the top and bottom were so sloped away that the whole figure should form a circle. The first Irish mark was the number of the town * with six lines, at the top, five at the bottom and two short bars on each side, the whole forming a diamond-shaped figure. (Figure 5.)

V.

The only change that has taken place in Ireland is that some towns have dropped one or more lines at the top, bottom, or sides; the shape of the figure has always remained the same.

The mark that was at first in general use in Scotland was the number of the town, with four lines at the top and bottom, and five short bars on each side. (Figure 6.)

* The towns of England (including Wales) Ireland, and Scotland have each a separate numbering, for example—No. 1 English is Abergavenny; No. 1 Irish is Abbeyleix; and No. 1 Scotch is Aberdeen. It is not altogether alphabetical.

VI.

After a short interval a great number of the towns used four bars instead of five on each side of the number, while other towns dropped these bars altogether. Edinburgh took in their place a small star on each side of the number (131.) About three months since Edinburgh used a mark very much resembling the Brunswick Star, with a space cut in the centre for the number; this, however, was only used for a week or nine days at longest, and for some unaccountable reason they discontinued using it, and we have not seen anything of it since. When London was divided into postal districts, distinguished by letters, the chief office changed their mark for that used by the suburban offices, and they in their turn changed theirs for the mark formerly used by the chief office. The various districts had marks of their own.

district. The upper space was for the letters, and the lower for the number of the office; the outward shape of the mark was the same in all the districts, but they differed in the number of the lines between the letters and numbers, and in the number of bars at the sides. These marks were used until January of this year, when the bars were made considerably larger, and the outer rim done away with. (Figure 8.)

VIII.

This, however, in its turn, has already ceased to be used by some of the northern and western districts, and a small round mark used, the lines of which are placed very closely together; it is printed with a thin ink, so that it spreads over the stamp.

We believe that the only mark which now remains to be mentioned is that used in the Isle of Wight. This is now a number with three lines at the top, bottom, and sides, the whole figure being an erect oval; we have never seen any other mark than this belonging to the Island.

We hope, shortly, to give a series of papers on the obliterating marks used by continental and colonial post offices.

STAMPS LATELY ISSUED.

THE Canton Berne Stamp mentioned at the close of our last paper, we are now informed, is only a bill or revenue stamp. We intend making further enquiries in reference to it, and will lay the result before our readers in a future paper.

The first of the new series of Italian stamps is now issued, (to be used, we understand, in the province of Naples only). It is very simple in design, and may be thus described:—Engraved (not embossed as in the Sardinian series still used in other parts of Italy) profile of King Victor Emmanuel to the left in dark lined oval, enclosed in oblong double-edged frame, and inscribed in dark letters Franco Bollo Postale Italiano C Quindici, and in the alternate angles C 15. This stamp is printed in blue on white paper, and is the only one yet issued.

We also give an engraving of the Segna Tassa (which Mr. Brown supposes to be an unpaid letter label) described by Dr. Gray in a previous notice; value 10 c., printed in yellow.

FORGED STAMPS: HOW TO DETECT THEM;

BY EDWARD PEMBERTON.

IX. MODENA.

WE will take the rarest sort first—the Tassa Gazette, 10 cents., black impression on white paper. Very few English collectors can boast the possession of a genuine specimen of this very scarce stamp, and the design of it is so very simple that there is great difficulty in describing the differences which exist between genuine and false copies. The best evidence is the kind of paper on which it is printed, for, unless the stamp is coarsely executed on un-glazed greyish white paper, the owner may be sure it is a forgery.

The body of the eagle in the genuine stamp has the feathers represented by short, thick lines, whereas these lines are long and thin in the forgery, which is rather neatly done on bluish glazed paper.

Next we come to the 5 cents green, 10 cents. pink, 15 cents. yellow, 25 cents. brownish yellow, 40 cents blue, 1 lira and 9 cents. B. G. Name (Estensi), eagle surrounded by wreath and under a crown.

It is curious to notice that there are two distinct forgeries of these stamps, so that both the following descriptions must be applied when testing a suspected Modena.

The colours of the genuine stamps are pleasing shades, but the forgeries have a very dull appearance. The 25 cent. is yellow in the forgery, but the genuine one is of a brownish tinge. In the first variety exist the following differences:—

GENUINE.—The tail of the eagle does not touch the legs, and is very thin at the point where they separate. The crown does not touch the eagle's head, the neck is narrow under the beak and grows thicker towards the body.

FORGED.—The tail is of the same thickness throughout and touching the legs. The crown touches the eagle's head, and the neck is unnaturally thick across, under the beak.

The second sort are as follows:—

GENUINE.—Is printed on unglazed paper, the white space at the top of the wings is kidney-shaped. The branches surrounding the eagle do not touch the black line above the value; the eagle's claws are long, thin, and distinct. The ornaments in the border do not touch the enclosing lines.

FORGED.—There is no white space at the top of the left wing, and that on the right one is long and sinuous. The body of the eagle is very fat and out of proportion on the left side. The branches surrounding the eagle do touch the black line above the value, and the eagle's claws are short and indistinct. The ornaments in the border touch the enclosing lines in two or three places.

No information can be collected about the 49 cents. Modena, of which there are several specimens known. There being a 9 cent. and 40 cent. Modena, it may be that an issue of 49 cent. stamps was contemplated; but whether those known are essays or misprints it is hard to say. One would scarcely think such a misprint would have been passed unnoticed by the Post-office authorities.

The following Provisional Modena are forged:—5 cents. green, 15 cents. chocolate, 20 cents. blue, 40 cents. pink, 80 cents. yellow.

Name (Modonesi), Savoy cross in shield under crown and surrounded by wreath, date of issue 1859. The 15 cent. chocolate becomes black in the hands of the forgers; this and the 80 cent. form great desiderata with all collectors—they are nearly priceless when genuine, there are so few specimens extant. The forgers have not succeeded in getting a perfect representation, as will be seen from the following descriptions.

GENUINE.—The ornaments in the corners are composed of two straight lines, cutting each other at right angles, with three points at each end; this is much clearer in some specimens than others. The shield is divided into four equal fields by a cross, which is not quite perpendicular. The colours are faint, and the stamps are printed on thin white unglazed paper.

FORGED.—The ornaments are composed of four three-pointed strokes, with a small circle in the middle. The shield is divided into four un- equal fields, of which the bottom right hand one is the smallest, and the cross is quite perpendicular. The colours are bright, and the paper bluish and glazed.

The Romagna and Danish Essays will be noticed in our next paper.

NOTE.—Since finishing the descriptions of Swiss forgeries, we have received another variety of Zurich of the 1850 issue. They are not by the same forger as those described in No. 2, because, in Switzerland, Zürich is always spelt with two dots over the u; in England and France these are left out; but as no Zurichers would spell it so, we at once see it is not forged by the Zurich dealer who did the others. They are, on the whole, much better done than his; the principal points of difference are, they are formed with very deep pink, perpendicular lines down the stamp which, in the genuine, are of a faintish red, sometimes approaching to yellow. The two dots over the u in Zürich are omitted.

ESSAY STAMPS.

IN a catalogue of British, Colonial, and Foreign Postage Stamps, lately published, there are mentioned a considerable number of stamps styled "Essays." These are called by some collectors "trial stamps;" but they cannot exactly be recognised as bona-fidè stamps, for although designed for use, they have never got into actual circulation, and therefore have not become in the true sense of the word—postage stamps. There are two distinct kinds of Essay stamps, so-called,

I.—Those designed for use but not actually issued.

II.—Those merely printed in different colours to the ones at present employed, but from the same die.

The number of these Essays is about seventy, viz., about twenty of Great Britain, eleven of France, eight of Paraguay, three each of British Guiana, Canada, Peru, and Denmark, (including Schleswig-Holstein,) two each of Belgium, Italy, South Australia, Western Australia, and Wurttemberg, and one each of Greece, Holland, Liberia, Lubeck, Luxemburg, New Brunswick, Oldenburg, Sicily, United States of America, Victoria, and Nicaragua. Above twenty of the foregoing are black impressions, the rest are principally brown. Most of these "trial stamps" are so scarce and difficult to obtain, that collectors and dealers ask very high prices for them, and indeed fac-similes of some have been extensively circulated as genuine essays.

The essays of Great Britain form a very interesting series. The "Post-office Permit," reminds us forcibly of the paper labels formerly used by the Customs' and Excise offices.

The two Danish essays, one head of the King, the other of Mercury, were in use for one day only we were told, and then called in, but of this we are not certain.

The Nicaragua is, we believe, the rarest essay stamp known; so scarce indeed, that a gentleman in London has had a perfect fac-simile executed by a first-rate draughtsman, scarcely, if at all, distinguishable from the original—proofs of which (seventy-five were taken, and the block is to be burnt,) he is selling, or has sold, at one shilling each!

We shall, in our next, give an engraving of a very beautiful United States essay Stamp, 3 cents.

The Sicilian Stamp will, we think, be new to many of our readers.

A good description of all will be found in Dr. Gray's Hand Catalogue.

REVIEWS.

Forged Stamps: How to Detect them.—By Thornton Lewes and Edward Pemberton.—Edinburgh: Colston & Son.

The subject of this work is perhaps as important as any which can engage the attention of Stamp Collectors. The simplicity of design, and the almost fabulous prices which ruled for the earlier issues of stamps, has so excited the cupidity of unscrupulous Continental dealers as to induce them to turn out immense quantities of counterfeit stamps, the result of which is, that without a most careful scrutiny of obsolete stamps, particularly when they happen to be unused specimens, which are offered, the collector is frequently victimised, and that to a very considerable extent. A really reliable work on this subject, therefore, it must be evident to all, is a great desideratum. Messrs. Lewes and Pemberton first commenced to write a series of articles on forgeries for the Review, which will still continue to appear monthly; as these, however, will take some time to complete, they decided to anticipate the remaining portion and form the whole into a work, to which the collector might refer when any stamp of doubtful origin should be offered to him as genuine. As compared with Mr. Moen's Work on Falsifications, this is decidedly the most lucid in its descriptions, and on the whole, is a very useful publication. It is prefaced with some valuable information as to the parties who manufacture and the stamps which they produce, and at the close there is a list of the prices to be obtained for fictitious and genuine copies. We predict a large sale for the book, and shall be glad to see it pass into many succeeding editions.

Illustrations du Manuel du Collectionneur du Timbres Poste de J. B. Moens.—Parts 10 and 11, Brussels, J. B. Moens.

Of all the parts which have appeared we think these are decidedly the finest. They contain seventy exquisitely engraved specimens of the United States Local and Express Stamps—a choice collection in themselves, with their whimsical, though in most cases pleasing designs, including eagles, doves, steam ships and steam-engines, couriers, monuments, letter-boxes, and not a few representations of the 'human face divine,' in every variety of form and color. We cannot help thinking that these Express Stamps of America have been slighted by the great majority of stamp collectors, and feel sure they are worthy of a place in every collector's album.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

W. F. COOKE, (Dover)—Thanks for your letter. Both the stamps you mention are included by Mr. Brown in the addenda to his catalogue published in the present number.

H. F. SEYMOUR—The 2½d. British Columbia is the only stamp used there, and probably was designed to make up the rate of postage (1s. 2½d.) in conjunction with a 1s. English.

GEO. ARMSTRONG—The 3 kr. Baden of the new issue is pink, and the new 9 kr. stone. Mr. Lallier's album having been published some time ago has no place for many stamps which have since appeared.

Orders for Advertisements, as well as all other communications, should reach us as much as possible before the 6th Instant.

W. COOKE, Esq., Dover, has much pleasure in stating that he is now able to supply Monte Video, Buenos Ayres (steamship), Argentine Republic, Spanish official (1854), Turkish, Moldavian, &c., at very moderate prices. MAY 15, 1863.

PRICE 2d.

TO OUR READERS.

As announced in our last, a drawing will take place on 5th July next, amongst the subscribers to the Review, for seven prizes, value £10. To share in this distribution, it is necessary to purchase the fifth and two following numbers, in each one a printed cheque will be found; on the first, the name and address must be legibly written, and the whole sent to us before 25th June. Further notice will be given as to place of drawing.

We have pleasure in stating that our circulation continues to increase, but we must again urge our readers to unremitting exertions, in order that this increase may be sustained.

Engravings of new and rare stamps will be given monthly, the accuracy of which may be safely relied upon, as a skilful engraver is employed.

Advertisements will be inserted at the following moderate charges :

POSTAGE STAMP COLLECTING.

PART I.—ITS USE.

BY THOMAS WILLIAM KITT.

“Objects of little value in themselves may be of great importance in the hands of those who know how to use them.”—Quarterly Review, Vol. LXXXII., p. 309.

THE question has often been asked by those opposed to the practice of postage stamp collecting, Of what use is it? a question which many go so far as to assert cannot be satisfactorily answered; but in order to expose the fallacy of such a view, it needs only to be said that the pursuit has very greatly aided its votaries in the study of geography and history, in the attainment of a knowledge of foreign currency, and in the cultivation and development of that taste in colour and design, which is naturally induced by such pursuits.

Public opinion has been much modified of late with respect to the practice. Formerly when the mania for gathering these coloured pieces of paper was, as it were, in an embryo state, collectors were looked upon as insane for joining in such “child’s play;” but now the tables are turned; the germ then sown having produced fruit an hundred fold, units have become hundreds, and scarcely anything presents a bolder front than the once ridiculed practice of collecting postage stamps. As a proof of its popularity, we may state that within the last twelve months there have appeared no less than three English catalogues of stamps for the use of collectors, viz. :—Mount Brown's, which is unmistakably the best, and of which four editions have been issued; "Aids to Stamp Collectors," by F. Booty, of which three editions have been published; and the "Hand Catalogue," by Dr. Gray, which has reached its second edition. These, together with several others published on the continent, are invaluable to the stamp collector, as furnishing him with full particulars of every stamp issued, whether obsolete or in circulation at the present time. But the postal literature is not confined to the catalogues just mentioned, for there are now appearing monthly the "Stamp Collectors' Magazine," the "Stamp Collectors' Review," and several other less important periodicals, both at home and abroad. Collectors by this means receive monthly intelligence of new issues, together with other interesting matter relative to their favourite topic. The "stamp mania" also occupies public attention, to a great extent, in the way of business, for there are now firms established for the sale of stamps; circulars and monthly lists of prices are issued, and in London and many provincial towns regular "postage stamp exchanges" have been established. Such is a bird's-eye view of the wide-spread popularity of the postage stamp mania at the present time, a view that presents a very business-like appearance, and, what is more, one that will prove that stamp collecting has not turned out "a nine days' wonder."

Having given our readers a slight insight into the present state of their favourite occupation, and one which augurs well for the future, our next endeavour will be to furnish them with a few proofs of its utility (if properly applied) under the four following heads:—

- 1st—Postage Stamps in an artistic point of view.
- 2nd—Postage Stamps in a geographical point of view.
- 3rd—Postage Stamps in an historical point of view.
- 4th—Postage Stamps in a numismatic point of view.

POSTAGE STAMPS IN AN ARTISTIC POINT OF VIEW.

As an index to the present state of civilization of the different countries of this "wide, wide world," we may safely refer to a good collection of postage stamps; for, from the skill displayed in the designing and execution of the many hundred varieties which have been issued it is an easy matter to determine to what stage of advancement the several countries have attained.

England, although universally recognised as the most powerful, wealthy, and enlightened nation, can by no means boast of having at any time issued the most beautiful postage stamps. For those we must turn to some of her colonies, of which Ceylon and Nova Scotia stand second to none. Ceylon has furnished the collector's album with some exquisite specimens of the envelope stamp, unequalled both in the design and in its execution; while on the other hand Nova Scotia has issued several varieties of the adhesive label, which, of their kind, claim pre-eminence in beauty. The stamps issued by the several countries of Europe exhibit, in many instances, some very good specimens of engraving; take for example those of Belgium, Bremen, France, Greece, Holland, Luxemburg, Thurn and Taxis, &c., &c. In design some of them are most simple, as shown by the "figure indicating value" adopted by Baden, Bavaria, Hamburg, Thurn and Taxis, and Wurttemberg. The postage stamps of Great Britain are too well known to require much comment; suffice it to say that they are well executed and very simple in design, in which latter respect many of them have been the same from the introduction of the postal system into this country until the present time, a change of colour only being sometimes effected. For what may be termed second-rate stamps, those of Italy, Modena, Naples, Parma, Papal States, Rome, Tuscany, &c., may be mentioned; these are but indifferently executed, and in many instances present some very curious designs. The stamps of Turkey, which were issued as lately as March last, are deficient both in design and execution, and are very little better than the hand-struck labels of Moldavia and Moldo-Wallachia. Several countries, among which may be noticed Austria, Italy, Portugal, Prussia, Poland, Russia, and Wurttemberg, have the head or other device impressed in white relief on their respective labels, which, not being generally common, gives them much the appearance of envelope stamps. The Spanish 6 cuartos of 1851, though possessing no particular merit as a work of art, is prized by the collector on account of its rarity. For truly pretty stamps, regardless of their merit with respect to execution, we may turn to Russia and Poland, some of the obsolete Swiss, and the registered stamps of New South Wales and Victoria, all of which show two colours on white paper, and form one of the principal features in the curiosities of stamp collecting. The postage stamps of the United (?) States of America exhibit some excellent specimens of design and engraving, particularly the 3 cents essay, of which we give an illustration, indeed in this respect our transatlantic friends almost equal ourselves, for several of the stamps issued by the British Colonies of the northern continent of the New World are the work of the Yankee, among which may be mentioned the acknowledged "queen of postage stamps," viz. :—the black 12½ cents. of Nova Scotia. The local or private postage labels of the United States present a great diversity of design, and are, for the most part, well executed; among the most curious of their devices may be observed beehives, doves, eagles, monuments, scattered letters, ships, steam engines, &c., &c. It is asserted that these stamps are now obsolete, the government having disallowed the practice of issuing them. The stamps used by the different countries of South America, are, generally speaking, deficient both in design and execution; as examples, those of Buenos Ayres, Mexico, Monte Video, New Granada, and Peru, have no particular merits, and little more can be said of them than that they help to fill the collector's album. The Chili and Venezuelan stamps are neat in design and tolerably well executed, although not to be compared with those of the Pacific Steam Navigation Co., the back-grounds of which are very intricate and display a beautiful specimen of engraving. The stamps of the Argentine Confederation are of rather a curious design, though roughly executed. British Guiana furnishes us with several varieties of the adhesive label, some printed in black on coloured paper (rather unusual for an English colony), and the remainder in colour on white paper, which latter are by far the most superior both in design and execution. Little can be said of the Brazilian stamps, which, if properly executed, would have shown the engravings to greater advantage; but many of the stamps have a blotched appearance, and consequently do not give a fair idea of their real merits. The most noticeable stamps of the South American series are, without doubt, those of Nicaragua, which combine beauty of design with exquisiteness of engraving. The British Colonies in the West Indies furnish some very important and interesting additions to a collection of postage stamps. These specimens are all well executed and varied in design; with respect to one of which latter in particular a passing word may not be out of place, viz. :—Nevis; the device on which is very pleasing and signifies "benevolence." The most remarkable stamps at present in existence are those of the Cape of Good Hope, which are triangular in shape, and, together with the threepenny Newfoundland, are the only specimens which assume that form. The Hawaiian or Sandwich Islands postage stamps give a good idea of the spread of civilization within the last century, and form an interesting feature in the collectors' album. These stamps are doubtless the work of the American (the Islands being under the protectorate of the United States), and are both well engraved and neat in design; they are ten in number, six of which bear the "figure indicating value," and are used exclusively for "Interisland" postage; while on the remaining four may be found the portrait of King Kamehameha III. in military costume. The three stamps issued by the free Negro Republic of Liberia are also very pretty specimens of design and engraving. Several of the postage stamps issued by the colonies of Natal, Queensland, New Zealand, and Tasmania, bear some beautifully engraved full-faced portraits of our beloved Queen, while on several specimens emanating from Victoria, she may be found seated on the throne, attired in all the robes of state, and holding the sceptre and orb.

Such is a brief outline of the curiosities displayed in the collection of postage stamps, and from these few remarks our readers will doubtless be able to judge for themselves as to the present state of civilization of the different countries issuing these most interesting articles of vertu.

STAMPS LATELY ISSUED.

A new and very beautifully engraved Bremen adhesive stamp has just appeared, value 2 grote, which may be thus described :—Colour, orange on white paper; of a rectangular form; inscription, Stadt. Post Amt., in labels at sides and top; and at four corners the figure 2; in a large oval is inscribed Bremen, Zwei grote, enclosing a smaller oval with the usual device of a key.

Some of our readers may not have yet seen the new 10 reis stamp of Portugal, so we give an engraving. It is printed in an orange-yellow colour on white paper, the head being embossed, the same as all the other stamps issued by that country.

Another Kanton Berne stamp, 2 rappen, has been sent us from the continent, printed in black, and differing in the scroll work from the yellow 10 rappen, but we cannot yet find whether it is a postage or bill stamp. We have heard very lately that it is used for parcels, something like Hamers' Hamburg Packet Expedition, and a collector informs us that he has seen it with a postal mark upon it.

FORGED STAMPS: HOW TO DETECT THEM,

BY EDWARD PEMBERTON.

X. ROMAGNA.

1861. $\frac{1}{2}$ Bai. yellow, 1 grey, 2 yellow, 3 green, 4 red, 5 purple, 8 pink, 20 blue.

GENUINE.—All the letters are sharp at the corners, and the letters of the word "Romagne" have small, sharply defined indentations. Ornaments at the corners, composed of thin lines; at each corner of the ornaments is a black dot, though occasionally one of them is wanting at a corner. The two stops after word "Bai," are square. These stamps are printed on rather rough unglazed paper.

FORGED.—The letters are more or less round at the corners, and the indentations in word "Romagne" irregular and not sharply defined. Ornaments in corners thick and blotched; at the left hand bottom ornament there are no black dots. The two stops after word "Bai," are round. Printed on smooth slightly glazed paper.

There is another set of forgeries, very coarsely done, that we have lately received from Hamburg, "warranted genuine!"

The colour of the $\frac{1}{2}$ and 2 baj. is the same, the 3 has the figure round at the top instead of the side, whilst the 4 is a very dark blackish brown, and the 20 is a dark blue. There are no indentations in the word "Romagne." The letters are round instead of being angular; the thin stroke of the F in "Franco" is very short; the top ornaments are smaller than the bottom ones; the circles composing them are all unequal, and the letter a in "Bai" touches the i.

XI. DENMARK.

Essays, with head of Mercury, value 4 R.B.S., $1\frac{1}{4}$ sch. c.; with head of King, value 8 R.B.S., $2\frac{1}{2}$ sch. c. Brown, on a ground composed of diagonal blue strokes.

GENUINE. — The wavy border, which contains the inscription, touches the outer line in 8 places. The circle of dots surrounding head projects into the wavy border under the letters K. G. L. The right hand wing of Mercury's head, i.e., the one farthest off, is higher than the nearer one in its whole length, so that a narrow border of the former is seen everywhere. The figure 4 is like the written figure. The letter H in Sch is on a level with the others. The King's ear is only half visible, the top being covered by the hair. The beard is very short, and hardly projects below the chin. The nose is round at the point, and there is no shading on the chin at the side of the beard. The hair is curly all over. The King's neck is turned up at front and back.

FORGED.—The wavy border does not touch the outer line at any point, there being always a narrow space between them. The circle of dots does not project into the border. Only the top and end of the far-off wing are visible, the near wing projecting into the other. The figure 4 is like the printed figure. The letter H is higher than the others. The King's ear is completely uncovered. The beard is long and pointed, and projects considerably below the chin. The nose is pointed, and the chin is strongly shaded. The hair is only curled at the end. The King's neck is not turned up.

We have not separated these two stamps, as, except in the heads, they are exactly alike, so that one description suffices for both.

These stamps have the diagonal blue lines usually very faint, but sometimes bright, nevertheless, if they are very bright, the stamps are probably forged.

XII. PARMA.

PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT.

1861. 5 c. green, 6 c. red, 9 c. blue, 10 c. brown, 20 blue, 40 red, 80 yellow.

GENUINE.—The middle line in the border is closer to the outside than to the inside line.

The letters "c" and "i" in word "Centesimi," do not touch the border.

FORGED.—The middle line is either just in the middle, between the two other lines, or nearer to the inside line.

The letters "c" and "i" in word "Centesimi," almost touch the border.

NOTE.—Since our paper we have heard of a new set of forged Modena. We have only seen one, the 80 cents., printed in blue, instead of yellow; the colour will at once enable collectors to reject it, but we subjoin a few details.

All the printing is very large, and the ornament in the left hand top corner, as well as the leaves on the left hand of the shield, touch the side.

VICTORIAN POSTAGE STAMPS.

WE extract the following from the report of the Victorian Postmaster-General:—“Until the beginning of the year 1859 there was no system established for the manufacture of the postage stamps used in Victoria. Some were prepared in England, and others were produced in the colony under contract. Both of these plans were open to objections; and, in consequence of certain serious irregularities which were discovered in 1858, and which arose out of the difficulty that was experienced in keeping a sufficient check under the contract system, it was determined to appoint an officer in the Post Office establishment to undertake the whole of the work in connexion with the preparation of postage stamps. This was accordingly done, and since March, 1859, the whole process of electrotyping and mounting the dies, printing, gumming, and perforating has been performed by the printer of postage stamps within the walls of the Post Office, a system which is believed to afford a perfect check. The postage stamp dies and plates are under the joint custody of the secretary and accountant; the printing press is fitted with an indicator which marks off each sheet of postage stamps as it is printed; the plate is fastened to the printing press, and cannot be removed without the knowledge of the officers named, who record daily the course of the indicator; and are able to satisfy the Commissioners of Audit at their annual inspection as to the number of postage stamps produced in the office within any given period. The following statement will show the number of stamps of the several denominations that have been produced under this system from the 11th March, 1859, to 30th September, 1862:—11,109 080 penny, 1,440,000 twopence, 480,000 threepence, 12,320,080 fourpence, 1,524,000 sixpence.

REVIEW.

Catalogue of nearly 2000 Varieties of British, Colonial and Foreign Postage Stamps, by a Collector. Gloucester, 1863.

This is a well compiled catalogue, for the most part a reproduction of Mr. Brown's book, with, however, a short description of the principal fictitious stamps in existence, at the close of each country's list, instead of being grouped together. At the end of the book there are two money tables which will prove useful to the collector.

CORRESPONDENCE.

A FEW WORDS ON MESSRS. LEWES AND PEMBERTON'S WORK.

TO THE EDITORS.

On perusing the pamphlet just issued by Messrs. Lewes and Pemberton, on Forgeries and how to Detect them, our readers will learn with dismay that many of their rarest specimens are denounced as forgeries, and this by gentlemen who have not had an opportunity of examining them, but who I think have, in some instances, proceeded with their work entirely upon hearsay. As a first instance the obsolete Romagne stamps should be noticed; the authors state, as a general rule, that all the stamps from that country are forgeries when on glazed paper. Now, I received yesterday, from a friend staying at Ravenna, about twenty Romagne stamps; these, as any person may perceive, are genuine, having been carelessly torn off old letters, parts of which adhere to the stamps; and yet eight or nine of the stamps are on glazed paper, and in other minute particulars closely resemble those described by Messrs. Lewes and Pemberton as forgeries. As there can be no reasonable doubt of the genuineness of these stamps, I think (and enquiries I have made at Ravenna confirm my opinion) that there have been two issues of the Romagne stamps; the first and consequently the rarest issue, being on unglazed paper, and the second issue on glazed paper.

I think if the two authors will make enquiries at the proper place, they will become converts to my opinion. Even without making any enquiries at all, I would ask is it not as probable that there have been two issues of Romagne stamps as that there have been two or three issues of the German stamps, which have been made from the same die, and only differ in the colours and papers on which they have been printed? Again, with reference to the Geneva 10 cents. Port Cantonal, Messrs. Lewes and Pemberton are entirely at fault. They say that no such stamp has ever been issued, whereas I have direct proof that it has been issued, and the reason of its great scarcity is that it was seldom used, the 5 cents. Port Cantonal meeting nearly all requirements, and finding that few were bought, the Government withdrew it from circulation, and it is now very difficult to meet with.

The above are simply two instances in which these gentlemen have inserted erroneous descriptions in their work. I notice others, which if you will allow me space, I will mention in your next number; but, in concluding my present letter, I will only say, with reference to my friend Mr. Erik Ritzau, of Copenhagen, that he sells his Danish essays as fac-similes, and does not call them by any other name than fac-similes of the Danish essays, and therefore he must be exonerated from all blame by those collectors who have knowingly purchased them as fac-similes, but who are now attempting to make people believe that they have been deceived when such is not really the case.

AMERICAN POSTAGE-STAMP CURRENCY.

TO THE EDITORS.

The enclosed was extracted from the Scientific American for last month. It will no doubt prove interesting to some of your readers.

HENRY WHYMPER.

"REDEMPTION OF THE SOILED STAMPS.—The postage stamps formerly in use by the community as currency, are being redeemed by the Government, through the post-office department, as rapidly as possible, and many ludicrous scenes naturally occur during the hours allotted for the reception of them. One day last week, two individuals were seen on their way to the Post-office (N.Y.) with a huge bag containing 8,400 dollars worth of the sticky tender. The bag held about a bushel of the stamps, and was altogether quite a formidable purse; it was the property of the Eighth Avenue Railroad Company. The history of each of these little bits of paper would be curious reading."

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

F. R. C. HOPKINS.—We think a $\frac{1}{2}$ d. rate for letters, if adopted in this country, would answer, and should advocate that in preference to a city post, or local scale.

T. B. GREEN (Finsbury Circus).—The ballot will be the method adopted in our distributions. Your other query was answered in the notice "To our Readers" in No. 5.

H. E. WILLIAMS (Sandicroft).—The Brazil 60 reis, italics, is worth about 8d. Apply to a dealer in used stamps.

MISS GREY is referred to No. 5 of the Review, where she will find the information wanted.

POST ZEGEL.—The Postmaster of Bremen writes respecting two stamps of that city, value 1 groten each, "They are not postage but duties' stamps, used only for importation or exportation of articles of merchandise." The 5 grote stamp, we believe, prepays a letter to Bremerhaven.

ETONENSIS is requested to send his real name and address to the publishers of the Review.

FRANCIS M. F.—The 2 cents. gold and silver impressions of Boyd's express stamp are used when delivering wedding cards, we are informed.

GEORGE WILSON.—The practice of perforating stamps has been adopted by Belgium only within the last few weeks.

A. DE COURCY.—We apprehend the meaning of the letters S.C., in the Charleston stamp, will be South Carolina.

ENQUIRER.—Most of the colonial stamps are engraved in England, by Dela Rue and other houses. The British Guiana bear the imprint of Waterlow & Sons. The Liberian Stamps are engraved by Dando, Todhunter, & Smith, Gresham-street, London.

J. B. (Worthing).—The "Learned Blacksmith" of America, Elihu Burritt, first broached the subject of Ocean Penny Postage, and is at present engaged in advocating its adoption, we need not say with little prospect of success.

W. L. (Bedford).—The cheques should not be sent separately but together on the publication of No. 7.

WM. S. HARVEY.—We were informed some time ago that Denmark was to issue envelope stamps, but they have not yet appeared.

 Orders for Advertisements, as well as all other communications, should reach us as much as possible before the 6th of each month.

BY THOMAS WILLIAM KITT.

PART I.—CHAPTER II.

POSTAGE STAMPS IN A GEOGRAPHICAL
 POINT OF VIEW.

AMONG the many hundreds of persons who collect postage stamps, there are doubtless but few who commence doing so with the intention of making it of any utility to them; consequently, the heading of this chapter will, perchance, elicit the question,—“What has geography to do with stamp-collecting?” A very proper question, no doubt, and one that is easily answered; for nearly every stamp-collector, sooner or later, evinces a desire, not only to gain knowledge about the stamps, but also concerning the countries from which they emanate. There are many names to be found on a map of the world, of which, comparatively speaking, little is generally known “in a geographical point of view,” especially among the younger classes of the community. Several of these are brought prominently before our notice in the course of our experience as stamp-collectors.

As examples might be quoted Bergedorf, Luzon, Nevis, and Thurn and Taxis, which are for the most part unknown lands to the young beginner. Geography being a study with which no one should be unacquainted, it is highly desirable that the parents and guardians of all young persons who have enrolled themselves in the army of stamp-collectors, should encourage their youthful charges in an amusement which is, at the same time, both harmless and calculated to improve their minds. Taking the names as they appear in Mount Brown's Catalogue, the first one which presents itself, on which a little enlightenment may be acceptable, is Bergedorf. Although the stamps of this town are in almost every collector's album, yet but little is known as to its whereabouts, which may be described as follows:—Bergedorf or Bargedorf, a joint dependency of the free cities of Hamburg and Lubeck, is situated at the confluence of the Rille, with a canal that joins the Elbe, nine miles south-east of the first-mentioned city. The Bergedorf stamps are the only specimens observable in a collection, the dimensions of which increase with their value; and, as will be the 3 schilling label, the device of these stamps may be looked upon as a curiosity; for Bergedorf being under the joint protection of Lubeck and Hamburg, the arms of the two cities joined constitute a somewhat singular design.

Having thus disposed of the principal terra incognita, we will proceed to Thurn and Taxis. The stamps bearing this title are not unfrequently called and priced in catalogues as Frankfort, by which means many inexperienced collectors have been misled for want of a better geographical knowledge of the country issuing them. Many persons entertain an erroneous idea that Thurn and Taxis is of itself a country. For their information, it may be observed, that as these stamps are of two different values, viz., silber groschen and kreutzers, as shown by the accompanying engravings, so they are also issued by two different states of Germany, known to stamp collectors as the Northern and Southern States, Thurn and Taxis being only the title of the chief office (so-called from a prince of the house of that name who first established the German post), situate at Frankfort-on-the-Maine. The new Bremen stamp, 2 grote, as a specimen of engraving, should have been noticed in Chapter I. We give an engraving.

We now come to Luzon, a name concerning which many erroneous ideas have been, and doubtless are, extant; a proof of which may be furnished from the fact of its having been spoken of as being situate in the West Indies. Luzon (pronounced Luthon) is the largest and most northerly of the Philippine Islands (belonging to Spain), approaching at its north-western extremity to within 400 miles of the south-east coast of China, and being about 550 miles in length. It has an area of 50,405 square miles. Of this island Manilla is the capital, seat of government, and chief post office. The postage stamps of Luzon are considered by collectors to be the rarest specimens at present in use, and in consequence of there being few copies in circulation command high prices in the "postage stamp market."

Selecting from among the many names requiring notice, those only which are least likely to be well-known, "in a geographical point of view," the last, but not least, presents itself in Nevis, which is not, as is sometimes supposed, a headland, but an island in the West Indies of small dimensions, and situated next to that of St. Christopher. Those of our readers who may not yet have seen any of the stamps of this island will, doubtless, be interested in the accompanying engraving of the 4d. label; the device on all the four stamps is the same, the bordering only being diversified. Of the many islands belonging to Great Britain in the West Indies, as yet but comparatively few have issued postage stamps; but it is to be hoped that the day is not far distant when the collector's album will exhibit a greater and more varied selection from that quoted, and consequently furnish more proofs of the use of a practice so long ridiculed.

CHAPTER III.

POSTAGE STAMPS IN AN HISTORICAL POINT OF VIEW.

Coins from which numismatists can trace the history of the countries issuing them, have met with some most important rivals in postage stamps; for these latter, although after all only "little coloured pieces of paper," pourtray with as much accuracy the political changes which have taken place in the countries whence they have been issued as articles of a more staple value. On looking over a collection of postage stamps, we find several instances in which stamps of a certain value bear different effigies or other devices. This, in most cases, indicates a change of a political nature in the country issuing them. Again, we may observe several varieties which were in use some four or five years since, but are now obsolete in consequence of their being no longer issued. This would naturally give rise to the question—"What could be the cause of a country discontinuing a system so generally useful as the postal system?" On making a few enquiries, we find again that political changes were the cause of this derangement, as in the case of Modena, Naples, Parma, Romagna, Sicily, and Tuscany, which now form part of the Kingdom of Italy, and consequently no longer issue their own postage stamps.

The postage stamps of France recall to our remembrance three important political changes in the history of that country. The first French stamps were issued during the Republic in 1849, the device being as on the coins of that period, the head of the goddess of Liberty. Of the 20-cent stamp of this series we give an engraving. In 1852 were issued two new stamps of the values of 10 and 25 cents, these only differ from those of the Republic in having the head of President Louis Napoleon substituted for that of the goddess. This simple alteration cannot fail to remind us of the time when Prince Louis Napoleon made his first step to gain the throne of France; and in 1853, when were issued the first stamps of the "Empire," we find that he has acquired that position to which he had so ardently aspired.

Some striking incidents in the history of Naples may be gathered from a slight examination of its postage stamps. In 1857 were issued those truly singular stamps, having for the device the Bourbon arms, and all of which are printed in one color, lake; (we append an engraving of the 2 grani stamp of this emission). These stamps were in circulation until 1860, when King Francis II being dethroned, a Provisional Government was established, and in the October of that year a new stamp was issued, being the $\frac{1}{2}$ grana of the series just mentioned with the value altered, by a process known to engravers, to $\frac{1}{2}$ tornese, and printed in blue. In the November following, this stamp was again altered. In that the device of the Bourbon arms was supplanted by a Savoy cross, the color still remaining the same. This alteration in design of $\frac{1}{2}$ tornese stamp, will, to many of us, recall vivid recollections of the successful part played in the Neapolitan Revolution by Victor Emanuel "of Savoy's race," and Garibaldi "the Hero of Italy." Affairs in the Neapolitan provinces having assumed a little more of their wonted aspect, there appeared in 1861 a new series of stamps, bearing the head of the King of Italy in white relief, and, with the exception of one stamp of the value of $\frac{1}{2}$ tornese, all retaining the "grani" currency. This last-described emission clearly indicates an event of importance in Neapolitan history, viz., the annexation of Naples to the Kingdom of Italy.

History is clearly traced in the postage stamps of Luxembourg, Portugal, Prussia, and Saxony, all of which will, to the meditative collector, prove interesting reminiscences of "bygone times." Of the stamps just mentioned, those of Portugal, issued during the reign of Queen Donna Maria, are among the most rare, and consequently the annexed engraving of the 25 reis will doubtless prove of interest to our readers.

A more fitting instance of the use of stamp collecting, as an aid to the study of history, can hardly be found than in the stamps emanating from the Sandwich Islands. Eighty-four years have elapsed since the death of Captain Cook on the shores of Owhyhee, at which time the natives of that and the surrounding isles were blood-thirsty anthropophagi; but since that time, we find, through the exertions of the missionaries, that the islanders have embraced the Christian religion, and "not a stone has been left unturned" to promote the welfare of the recognised kingdom of Hawaii, even to the introduction of the postal system and its interesting appendages—postage stamps.

The Russian stamps were noticed in our last paper, as among the most beautiful on account of their being printed in two colours. We give an engraving of the 20 kop.

FORGED STAMPS: HOW TO DETECT THEM,

BY EDWARD PEMBERTON.

XIII. MOLDAVIA.

WE have lately received from Brussels forgeries of the oldest series of Moldavia. We are unable to give minute descriptions of them, not being able to procure genuine copies to compare them with, but the following details have been furnished by a gentleman who possesses them.

ARMS.—Bull's head, over horn containing value, with words "porto scrisorei" (?) round; 54 paras, blue impression on green paper; 81 paras, blue impression on blue paper; 108 paras, blue impression on pink paper. In these forgeries the head is slightly different in each stamp, the horns in the 54 paras are curved inwards, in the 81 paras outwards, and in the 108 paras are nearly straight. The ring of the horn containing the 54 is short and thick, that of the 81 short and thin, and that of the 108 is long and thin. The forgeries are very clearly and neatly executed, whereas the genuine ones are blotchy.

The 81 paras of the second set has also reached us, forged, from Brussels.

GENUINE.—The bull's head does not touch the horn. 81 paras closely printed and leaning to the left. The first S in scrisorei is upright; all the printing is small and wide apart; the star has six points.

FORGED.—The bull's head touches the horn. 81 paras widely printed and upright. The first S in scrisorei leans to the left; the printing is thick and close; the star has five points.

XIV. BUENOS AYRES.

Forgeries of the old Buenos Ayres have also arrived from Brussels, (that place so fertile in forgeries).

1 peso blue and brown, 3 p. green, 4 p. brown and red, 5 p. yellow.

GENUINE.—The white space in the corners is large; the sun has rays; the wavy ornament in the corners above and below the ship is thin and neat; on the top of the left mast there is a horizontal stroke. The stamps are coarsely executed, but very distinct.

FORGED.—The white space in the corners is very small; the sun has no rays; the wavy ornament in the corners above and below the ship is thick and blotched; on the top of the left mast there is no stroke. The stamps are very coarsely executed and indistinct. The genuine 5 blue has "cin," but the forgery has "cinco."

XV.

PACIFIC STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY.

A Dealer in London, is selling the undermentioned forgeries. Not having a genuine specimen at hand, we cannot give accurate descriptions; but the forgery is very coarsely executed, the oval surrounding the ship is a blue ground with irregular white dots here and there. The N is almost touching the border, whilst the other letters are further from it.

XVI.

ARGENTINE CONFEDERATION.

1861. 5 c. red, 10 c. green, 15 c. blue, name, arms, (rising sun, with cap of Liberty on a staff,) coloured impression on white paper.

Genuine stamps of this issue are now of a high value, and the forgeries have been consequently largely, and, to the makers, profitably sold. These stamps have been forged for a long time, and the differences between the real and false ones are striking.

GENUINE (as mentioned above) has a staff held by two hands, and surrounded by what goes by the name a cap of Liberty, the shape of which is very suggestive of one of the long night caps which Mr. Pickwick patronised. The glory round the head is rather straggling than otherwise, and the colours although bright are not remarkably so.

FORGED.—The cap of Liberty and the staff supporting it are wanting. The glory round the head is thick and rather bushy, and the face in the sun is “of a cheerful countenance.” The colours are very bright.

XVII.—SANDWICH ISLANDS.

1860. Name (Hawaiian Postage), and figure indicating value.

These stamps are so simple in design that, as may be supposed, the differences are very minute; so they will require great care to detect them. These stamps are used for interinsular postage; the 1 c. blue, and 2 c. black, are not now in use; the colours being reversed to 1 c. black and 2 c. blue. In the 1 c. blue, genuine, the C in Cents is very broad, and all the letters are thin and neat in appearance; whereas, in the forgery, the letter C is not remarka- bly broad; the letters are thick and smudgy looking. In the genuine 1 c. the figure 1 is firm and neat, the stroke at the top of it is thick and rather long; whilst in the forgery it is not so clearly defined, and the stroke at the top is both thin and short. The 2 c. black is as difficult to distinguish from the forgery as the 1 c. is.

GENUINE.—The figure 2 is well done; the letter C in “Cents,” (as in the 1 c.,) is very broad, and after “Cents” there is a large full stop.

FORGED.—The figure 2 is wretchedly done, being bad in shape. The letter C in “Cents” is not remarkably broad; the full stop after “Cents” is small.

Leaving the interinsular stamps, we take those used for foreign postage. The only one of which we have seen a forgery is the 5 c. blue, with the bust of King Kamehameha III. There is a photograph of this stamp in circulation; the colour, however, betrays it, being brownish black, instead of blue.

The forgery (from the die) and the genuine differ as follows:—

GENUINE.—The letter S in “Cents” is perpendicular. The whole face dotted, except the nose. The leaves on the King's coat are long, and at a proper distance from each other. At the side of the leaves is a row of six buttons white, and very distinct. The collar is loose, and open in front. There is a dark blue triangular space between the two ends of the collar and the chin. On the King's right arm is a white spot, all the rest of the arm being shaded off. On the blue line above the words "Five Cts." are two little blue dots, one just over the end of the F, and the other between the T and S.

FORGED.—The letter S falls over to the left hand. There is a white space free from dots under the left side of the mouth. The leaves are shorter, and very close to each other. The buttons are very indistinct, only three or four can be counted with certainty. The collar is tighter, and nearly closed in front. No such triangular space. On each arm there is a distinct white line, in strong contrast to the background, where it touches it. No such blue dots to be seen.

The genuine one from which this description is taken, is that on blue paper; the one on white paper is much different, being more like the forgery than that on blue. The one on white will be found to agree with the forgery in two or three of the above-mentioned differences, (or rather what are differences between a false one and a real on blue). But as there are many important differences between a genuine 5 c. on white, and the above-mentioned forgery (which is also on white), a little care will enable the collector to distinguish "which from which."

(In our next the Spanish 1 cuarto, Granada Confederation, and Naples, will be treated of.)

THE CANADIAN POSTMASTER GENERAL'S REPORT.

THE following is a resumé of the Postmaster General's Report for the year ending the 30th September, 1862:—"During last year 32 new post offices were established, and nine offices closed. The number of post offices in operation on the 30th of September, 1862, was 1,858. During the year there were added to the service 319 miles of new post route, and 137,463 miles of annual mail travel. The increase in the number of letters passing by post was comparatively greater in 1862 than has been observed for several past years. The number has exactly doubled since the year 1854.

"The correspondence between Canada and Europe by the Canadian steamers continues to increase, the number of letters carried in the year 1862 having been 800,000, showing a comparative advance of nearly 20 per cent.

"Five hundred and twenty thousand letters are estimated to have passed through the mails last year, being in excess of any previous enumeration. The number in 1856 was 35,000; in 1857, 150,000; in 1858, 450,000; in 1859, 450,000; in 1860, 480,000; and in 1862, 520,000. There are twenty-seven cases of alleged losses or abstraction affecting registered letters during the year 1862. In 1861 the number of such cases was 37.

"The number of parcels forwarded by mail during the year at parcel post rate is estimated to have been somewhat over 5,000. This is an advance upon the result of last year."

THE ARRANGEMENT OF A COLLECTION OF POSTAGE STAMPS.

The best method of arranging a collection of postage-stamps is open to some discussion. One writer, who advocates a geographical system, seems to consider that those who do not adopt his views, must needs be entirely ignorant of history and geography. He is very severe upon the separation of the stamps of the same sovereign or of a given language into different parts of an alphabetical catalogue; but regards with self-satisfied complacency the scheme which, laying claim to admiration and imitation for its geographical accuracy, disposes of Malta and the Ionian Islands between Sierra Leone and New South Wales; puts Liberia between the Danubian Principalities and the Sandwich Islands: and places New Zealand in juxtaposition with British Guiana, and Portugal with Greece. The truth is that no plan has yet been devised entirely free from difficulty; and whether a catalogue of stamps be finally placed in an album in an alphabetical, dynastic, or geographical order, or in any combination of them, no obstacle need be derived from the plan of this Catalogue. My object has been to furnish collectors with a descriptive list succinct, intelligible, convenient, and easy of reference, without determining in what order the collector must necessarily arrange the stamps in his album.—Mount Brown's Catalogue.

REVIEW.

Catalogue of British, Colonial, and Foreign Postage Stamps, by Mount Brown.—Fourth Edition.—London, F. Passmore.

The fourth edition of this valuable Manual will be hailed with pleasure by all classes of stamp collectors, and is certainly deserving of all the success which has attended its publication and the large circulation it has attained.

Each edition has been an improvement upon the previous one, but the whole make-up and arrangement of this one are really admirable. It is printed upon a much better paper, in bold clear type, and the names or inscription of the various stamps are now printed in small capitals, rendering them more conspicuous. The descriptions also are in many instances more accurate as in Liberia, Spain, Hong-kong, &c. The work is, without doubt, a compendium which should be in the hands of every stamp collector, and those who have it not should speedily possess themselves of a copy.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

W. E. THOMAS.—The blue impression on the envelope you send is merely the official stamp used by the Post-office at Buenos Ayres.

JAS. MC ARTHUR. (Greenock).—We have received stamps from Denmark with perforations round their edges, from which we infer that the Postal Authorities there have also adopted the system.

W. E. B. (Southampton).—It is not at all necessary for subscribers to be present at the ballot for prizes. The stamps you mention are Austrian Bill-stamps.

DOM PEDRO.—We have noticed the two varieties of blue 25 reis Portuguese stamps, and find that Mr. Brown does so in his fourth edition; the difference is in the ground pattern, outside of the oval containing the head. They will doubtless belong to different emissions.

CONSTANZE.—The "Lire Dieci," Mr Brown informs us, is the Sardinian Passport Stamp. The last issue of $1\frac{1}{2}$ sch., Mecklenburgh envelopes, are printed a lighter shade of green.

W. F. COOKE.—We have not seen the Italian essays you name, and shall be glad to engrave them, if you can forward them to us for that purpose.

 Orders for Advertisements, as well as all other communications, should reach us as much as possible before the 6th of each month.

BY THOMAS WILLIAM KITT.

PART I.—CHAPTER IV.

POSTAGE STAMPS IN A NUMISMATIC
 POINT OF VIEW.

PAST, but not least, of the uses accruing to the practice of postage-stamp collecting, may be mentioned—its liability (if the term may be so applied), to impress its votaries with a knowledge of foreign currency, and that to an extent by no means limited. Postage stamps, which are continually augmenting in number and to which the apposite remark may be applied “their name is legion,” present, not only peculiarities in design, but also, in many instances, in the denominations of value which they represent. Many persons previous to their collecting postage stamps were totally ignorant of the fact, that there are specimens bearing such low values as one centime (not quite two-fifths of a farthing), or even one half-penny; while on the other hand, they had doubtless then never heard of a stamp representing so high a value as 5s., or even 16s. 8d., which latter, to anyone not interested in the pursuit, would appear an almost incredible price for a postage stamp. The stamps bearing the lowest money value are the one centime of France and Belgium, which would indicate a very low rate of postage in the countries from which they emanate, and doubtless cause many of us to ask, "Why could not England adopt a similar tariff?" Those bearing the highest value are the well-known Pony Express, 1, 2, and 4 dollars; New South Wales, 5s.; Papal States, 50 baj., and 1 scudo; Hong Kong, 96 cents; United States, 90 cents; Italy and Tuscany, 3 lire; and lastly, the Ceylon and Victoria, 2s. But the values more frequently met with range from the equivalent of an English penny to a shilling. The value when new of many stamps forming a collection, may be ascertained from the following table of "Foreign moneys and their English equivalents," which has been prepared with much care, and will doubtless prove of some utility to our readers:—

CONCLUSION.

Before closing an article on the use of postage-stamp collecting, a few words on "rarities," which form so important a feature in a collection, may not prove uninteresting to our readers. The scarcity of many varieties comprised in a collection of postage stamps, may be attributed to various causes. Several specimens have become difficult to obtain in consequence of their having been in circulation but a limited period, as were those of the revolted provinces of the Romagna and Schleswig Holstein, and the provisional governments of Modena, Naples, and Parma. Another cause of rarity arises from the stamps having been obsolete for some years, and for the most part being destroyed or cast on one side by their possessors, are at the present time scarcely to be met with, either "for love or money," but are only observable in the albums of a chosen few. Among this class may be mentioned the early issues of British Guiana and Spain, together with several other specimens equally rare and difficult to obtain. A third cause of rarity arises from stamps being only temporarily issued, and after a small circulation being replaced by others; as for example, the "wood-block" series of the Cape of Good Hope. But the term "rarity" may not only be applied to obsolete stamps, but also in some few instances to those in present use. The specimens emanating from Dutch Guiana, Luzon, and the Sandwich Islands may be described as belonging to this class, for in consequence of few of these stamps, franking the postage of letters to this country they (especially the two former) are exceedingly difficult to obtain, and consequently form great desiderata with all collectors. The French Colonies, unfortunately so meagre in the production of postage stamps, have furnished the collector's album with three of the rarest specimens yet catalogued. New Caledonia, an island situated in the South Pacific Ocean, is sixty-six leagues in length, (a French league is equal to $2\frac{3}{4}$ English miles,) and ten in width; was discovered by Captain Cook in 1774, and occupied by the French in 1853; its capital being Port-de-France. The stamp emanating from this island was issued in 1860, and, as will be seen from the accompanying engraving, was evidently copied from the French Empire stamp bearing the same value, but in a manner which sadly betokens the want of a good draughtsman in the New Caledonian capital. It is very roughly executed, and is printed in grey on white paper. For two other interesting specimens of French Colonial stamps, we may turn to those of Reunion, a small island situated within a few miles of the well-known British colony of the Mauritius. The design of these stamps is most singular for, as is shown by the annexed engraving, that of the 15 c.

is formed by a peculiarly shaped star, surrounded by what are not unlike fettlers, and in the 30 c. by very intricately curved lines. These stamps were issued in 1862 (three of them are described in a catalogue published some few months since, but doubtless erroneously,) and are printed in black on blue paper.

Some very rare specimens of obsolete stamps have been furnished by the British possessions of the Mauritius and Van Diemen's Land, the old blue 1d. of which latter island is daily becoming more scarce, and will doubtless soon be virtually unattainable.

The vast continent of America, so fruitful in curiosities for the stamp collector, has also furnished varieties, the possession of which will greatly augment the value of a collection. Essay stamps, the collection of which is equally interesting, but more difficult than that of bona fide specimens, have a singular representative in the New Brunswick 5 c. chocolate, which has for the device the head of Connell the Postmaster General of that colony at the time of its issue, and for the appearance of which stamp Mr. Connell was compelled to forfeit his situation.

Among the most curious of the

posing the first issue of which country are now rare. They are very coarsely executed, and are printed in colour on white paper. We append engravings of the 180 c. of this series.

The newly-issued stamps of Costa Rica (almost faultless in design and execution) must at present be ranked among the rarities; but, like all specimens first introduced, they will become commoner as their circulation increases.

Adverting to those stamps which are less rare, it may be remarked, that specimens which at the present day are comparatively common will, doubtless, in a few years (i.e., if stamp collecting still holds its sway,) be almost unattainable, especially those varieties issued by the various German States, of which the annexed engravings are able representatives.

FORGED STAMPS: HOW TO DETECT THEM.

BY EDWARD PEMBERTON.

XVIII. SPAIN.

1 cuarto, bronze—Correo Interior, bear climbing a tree, in an octagonal shield.

As may be supposed this stamp is one of great value. The majority of the specimens in collections are forgeries; genuine ones being so rare as to cause comparison nearly impossible, and, therefore, collectors are at the mercy of those dealers who are unscrupulous enough to sell them. This forgery comes from Brussels, and is, consequently, well done. The principal differences between the real and false stamp are in the wreath and crown, as follows:

GENUINE.—The top bunch of leaves on the right side in the wreath contains three long leaves, the second and third bunches have each four leaves; on the left hand side the lowest bunch contains three long leaves. There is a small cross on the top of the crown; only one of the bear's fore feet is visible; the foliage is dark on the right side and light on the left.

FORGED.—The top bunch on the right-hand side contains three short and thin leaves, the second and third bunches have three leaves each, and the bottom one on the left-hand side has four leaves. No cross on the top of the crown; both the bear's forefeet are visible; the foliage is equally shaded throughout.

XIX. NAPLES.

Provisional Government. October, 1860. $\frac{1}{2}$ Tornese, blue; arms—three legs, head, and fleur-de-lis.

It has been explained in a previous number that on the change of government at Naples, the then existing stamp ($\frac{1}{2}$ grano) had the G partially erased, and a T engraved in its place; therefore, in all genuine ones, the G can be clearly traced under the T. Besides this there are the following differences:

GENUINE.—In the bottom white line, nearly under $\frac{1}{2}$, is a small G, possibly the engraver's initial (as is the B on the French Presidency stamps). At the juncture of the three legs is a Medusa's (?) head.

FORGED.—Both the small G and the head are wanting.

This stamp is a great rarity, it having been only used during October, 1860, and superseded in November by $\frac{1}{2}$ Tornese, blue; arms—Savoy Cross.

For this stamp the die made for the last has been used, having had the whole of the previous arms (legs, &c.), partially erased, so that in genuine specimens the legs and fleur-de-lis of the October issue are partially discernable under the cross.

GENUINE.—Has a small G in the white line under $\frac{1}{2}$, and has the T over the G as in the October stamp.

FORGED.—The ground of the cross is quite clear and white, no traces of legs, &c., being visible; the letter T is quite distinct, having no G appearing through it, and the little G under $\frac{1}{2}$ is missing.

The ground of both the October and November stamp has a dull blue appearance, but in the genuine it is of a pure white.

XX. GRANADA CONFEDERATION.

1861. Name, arms in shield, with words Estados unidos de Nueva Granada, in oval, and in the bordering the words Correos Nacionales. $2\frac{1}{2}$ centavos, large, black.

GENUINE.—Nine stars under inscription, letters of inscription thin and equal, and the shield is divided into three compartments, the middle one only being white.

FORGED.—No stars under inscription, the letters of inscription thick and unequal, and the three compartments of the shield are all white.

This hardly deserves to be called a forgery, as it is an engraving of the stamp, which has been cut out of some work. The real stamp is somewhat valuable.

THE STAMP MANIA.

FIRST used, as many of our readers will remember, in 1840, the postage-stamp has only just passed out of its years of minority; and yet at this present moment there are no fewer than fifteen hundred different postage-labels in existence, and the number is increasing every month. Now that the postage-stamp has become an institution with us, people are beginning to inquire who was the author of so convenient an arrangement, and the discussion has served to exemplify the truth of the saying of the wise man: 'The truth that hath been, it is that which shall be; and there is no new thing under the sun.' The idea of a post-paid envelope originated early in the reign of Louis XIV. with a M. de Velay, who, in 1653, established under royal authority a private penny-post in Paris, placing boxes at the corners of the streets for the reception of letters, which should be wrapped up in certain envelopes. Some of these envelopes are still extant, and one of them we have ourselves seen.

On this idea, later suggestions may or may not have been built. Dr. Gray, of the British Museum, claims the merit of having suggested that letters should be prepaid with stamps as early as 1834. Before that time, Mr. Charles Knight proposed a stamped cover for the circulation of newspapers. Of course, no steps were taken in respect to either of these recommendations till the period of penny postage. The credit of suggesting the postage-stamp has consequently to a considerable extent fallen to Sir Rowland Hill; but the best inquiry we have been able to institute would hardly bear out the usual assumption; and indeed this public benefactor, crowned with so many well-won laurels, may easily afford to dispense with the adornment of this single one.

Mr. Hill's famous pamphlet on Post Reform went through three editions rapidly; in the first edition, which was issued privately, the author makes no mention of the use of stamps—though prepayment of letters was always a principal feature in his proposals—money payments over the counter of the receiving-office only being suggested. Immediately afterwards, the members of a royal commission on the Post-office, which had been sitting since 1833, called Mr. Hill before them, as also the officers of the Stamp-office, and Mr. Dickenson the paper-maker, with several others, when the subject of letter pre-payment was discussed. In the second edition of Mr. Hill's pamphlet, the prepayment of letters by means of stamps or stamp envelopes is definitely recommended. When the committee of the House of Commons met to investigate the merits of Mr. Hill's penny postage scheme, they were required to express an opinion as to the desirability or otherwise of prepayment by means of stamps. Again, a favourable opinion was given of the measure, and when the government brought in and passed the penny-postage act, a clause for the use of stamps formed a component part of it. Though all agreed that stamps of some sort would come into use with the advent of cheap postage, it was by no means easy to hit upon a definite plan, or when a number of plans were submitted, to decide upon the particular plan to be adopted. Stamped paper representing different charges was first suggested. Folded in a particular way, a simple revenue-stamp would then be exposed to view, and frank the letter. Another suggestion was, that a stamped wafer, as it was called, should be used, and, placed on the back of the letter, would both seal and frank it at the same time. The idea of stamped envelopes, however, was at first by far the most popular, and it was decided that they should be the prepaying medium. Plans and suggestions for the carrying out of the arrangement being required at once, the Lords of the Treasury issued a somewhat pompous proclamation, dated 23rd of August, 1839, inviting 'all artists, men of science, and the public in general,' to offer proposals 'as to the manner in which the stamp may be brought into use.' So important was the subject, that Lord Palmerston, the then Foreign Secretary, was directed to apprise all foreign governments of the matter, and invite suggestions from any part of the civilised world. Three months were allowed for plans, and two prizes of two hundred pounds and one hundred pounds were to be allowed for the proposals on the subject 'which the Lords may think most deserving of attention.' The palm was carried off by Mr. Mulready, R.A., who designed the envelopes now known by his name. These envelopes, which allegorically celebrated the triumphs of the post in a host of emblematical figures, were of two colours, the one for a penny being printed in black, and the other, for the twopenny postage, being in blue ink. They gave, however, so little satisfaction, and were found to be so inconvenient, that at the end of six months they were withdrawn from use. The Mulready envelopes are regarded as great curiosities by stamp-collectors, and as their value came to be about fifteen shillings, a spurious imitation has at length found its way into the market, usually to be had for half-a-crown. Last year, stamp-dealers were shocked by the Vandalism of the government, who caused many thousands of these envelopes to be destroyed at Somerset House.

Before the postage-envelope was finally withdrawn from use, the Treasury issued another prospectus, offering a reward of five-hundred pounds for the best design and plan for a simple postage-label. It was made a condition that the stamp should be simple, handy, and easily placed on paper, and of a design that would make forgery difficult, if not impossible. About a thousand designs were sent in, but not one was chosen. Eventually, the ugly black stamp, said to be the joint production of some of the officers of the Stamp and Post offices, were decided upon, and brought into use. Two years afterwards principally with a view to make the obliterating process more perfect, and the better to detect the dishonesty of using old stamps, for the same reasons the colour was again changed to red, and so it has remained to the present time. The twopenny stamp has been from the first blue. Up to this date, at different intervals, six other stamps have been issued, as the necessities of the inland or foreign postage required them. The tenpenny stamp, of an octagonal shape and brown colour, is now scarcely ever used, if it be not even withdrawn from circulation. The list comprises, besides the stamps we have mentioned, the sixpenny (lilac), the shilling (green), the fourpenny (vermilion), the threepenny (rose), and the ninepenny (yellow). The last two were issued only two or three years ago. The whole of the English stamps bear the impression of the head of Queen Victoria, and are all of the same size and shape (if we except the tenpenny stamp), the sole difference being in the colour, and the various borderings round the Queen's portraits. Besides these distinguishing marks, however, they all tell the tale of their own value.

Our colonies issue their own stamps, with different designs. Some of them are emblematical: the Swan River Territory using the design of a 'Swan,' and the Cape of Good Hope choosing that of 'Hope' reclining; but they are gradually adopting the English plan of a simple profile of the sovereign. The portrait of our Queen appears on two hundred and forty different varieties of stamps. Nearly all the stamps used in the colonies, and even some for foreign governments, are designed engraved, printed, and embossed in London, and many of them are much prettier than the products of our own Stamp-office. The principal houses for the manufacture of colonial stamps, are Messrs. De la Rue & Co., and Perkins, Bacon, & Co., of Fleet Street.

Soon after the introduction of Postage-stamps, stamped envelopes were again proposed. This time the proposition was a very simple one, only consisting of the usual kind of stamp embossed on the right-hand corner of a common envelope; the stamps to be oval, round, or octagonal, according to the value of the envelope. For the envelopes themselves, a peculiar kind of paper was prepared by Mr. Dickenson, and was considered on all hands to be the best possible preventive of forgery. This paper, which was manufactured with lines of thread or silk stretched through its substance, has been used ever since. Russia, in adopting the stamped envelope, guards against forgery by means of a large water-mark of a spread eagle running all over the envelope. The English Stamp-office affords every facility in the matter of stamped paper and envelopes, and private individuals may indulge their tastes to almost any extent. The officers of the Stamp-office will place an embossed stamp, for merely its nominal value, on any kind of paper or envelope which may be sent to them for that purpose.

ANSWER TO MR. W. F. COOKE'S CRITICISM ON MESSRS. LEWES AND PEMBERTON'S WORK.

TO THE EDITORS.

GENTLEMEN,—In answer to Mr. Cooke's Letter in No. 6 of your publication, we beg to say that we have never described from hearsay. We have been accused of omitting descriptions of some forgeries, and in most cases have done so because we could get only hearsay accounts of them, which are generally too dubious to be worth anything. Not having the advantage of friends at Ravenna, we asked Mr. Cooke to let us see some specimens of his genuine glazed Romagna, we find they agree in every respect with the forgeries from which our descriptions were taken, and therefore can hardly be expected to conform to his theory, more especially as Wilhelm Georg from whom our specimens came, admits the same to be forged. We can buy the same Romagna that Mr. Cooke sells as of the first issue—but which are really forgeries—for twopence each, from a Hamburg dealer. Mr. Cooke maintains that the first, and consequently the rarest issue was on glazed paper. Now, the 6 baj, which was only used at the first for a short time (probably a few days), must, according to this statement, be on glazed paper, but it is not. This is of itself a sufficient refutation of Mr. Cooke's statement. Mr. Cooke has not yet questioned our correctness about the Swiss 2½ rp. Poste Locale, and yet he is selling the forged ones as genuine. We cannot agree with Mr. Cooke about the Geneva 10 c. Cantonal and Local, being a genuine stamp. From the personal experience of one of us (who has resided in Switzerland many years), we know that a Cantonal letter cannot cost more than 5 c.; then where is the object of a 10 c.? Mr. Cooke has forwarded us a specimen of this stamp which he affirms to be genuine, but it happens that anyone who knows the Geneva stamps would at once see that it was a forgery. We have sent our specimen of the 5 c. Post Local to Mr. Cooke, for comparison with his 10 c., and he writes us that our 5 c. is certainly different from those composing the double stamp (10 c.), but that the 5 c. Local and 10 c. Post Cantonal were not made from the same die. Now, up to this moment, the whole plea for the genuineness of the 10 c. has been that the 5 c. and 10 c. are the same stamps, but that the 10 c. being rarely used, was cut up, and the 5 c. stamps composing it were used separately for Local letters. Mr. Cooke does not agree with this, but maintains them to have been made as different stamps and at separate times. If Mr. Cooke can show genuine specimens, every one will be glad to have the matter settled, and to be able to believe in the existence of the stamp, certainly not otherwise. Mr. Brown is so convinced of its being a humbug, that he omits all mention of it in his fourth edition.

As to the statement that we wish to make people believe that Mr. Ritzau has swindled us, when such was not the case, we will merely quote Mr. Ritzau's price list, "Denmark Essay, 4, 8 sk. at 1s, or 12s. per dozen." We have corresponded with Mr. Ritzau for more than a year, and can shew his letters in which he asserts that the Danish Essays are real. To mislead us, Mr. Ritzau was in the habit of sending us these forgeries of his, and two others from the same die, but a deep reddish ground, which latter he marked "falsification" in large characters, of course leading one to suppose that the others were genuine.

From all these circumstances, it looks as if Mr. Cooke was well aware that the glazed Romagna, and the double Geneva are forged, but it of course suits him to dispose of them as genuine ones; and we presume it was that object which induced him to write the very curious letter to which this is the reply. Mr. Cooke will oblige by mentioning the other erroneous descriptions he has noticed in our "Forged Stamps."

EDWARD L. PEMBERTON.
THORNTON A. LEWES.

P.S.—Correspondence with his friend at Ravenna, does not seem to have taught Mr. Cooke that Romagna is merely a contraction of Romagnese (the adjective), and that the real name is Romagna.

AUSTRIAN STAMPS.

TO THE EDITORS.

GENTLEMEN,—Permit me to point out that the Austrian new issue has just appeared: they are in shape and device similar to the Prussian; in colour they are the same as the old style of Austrian, excepting the 5 krs., which is magenta instead of red. The values are the same as heretofore, viz. :—2, 3, 5, 10, 15 krs.—Yours truly,

WILLIAM FREDERIC COOKE.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

C. STEADMAN.—Your Mobile is not a genuine stamp.

ROBERT LYON.—All the stamps lately issued by Baden, are on white paper and correctly described by Mr. Brown. We think the best plan to discover whether the old Wurtemberg or Baden stamps have had the figure on them inverted is to soak in water.

EDWARD S. ADENEY.—In answer to your queries, 1—The Prussian stamps with eagle are embossed, we know of none otherwise done. The one you sent is an adhesive stamp. 2—The letters, L.H. on the Bergedorf stamp stand for Lubeck and Hamburg, we cannot say as to the P. A. in bottom corners. 3—The orange 6 pfen Prussian (head) was the only issue of that value previous to the late one. 4—We understood the Too Late and Registered stamp of Victoria are obsolete.

L. R. WRIGHTSON.—Your letter enclosed no cheques as stated.

W. H. G.—Your Nova Scotia stamps are India proofs pasted on cardboard, the originals were engraved in the United States. We should scarcely make any distinction between the two terms essay and proof. The other stamps are engraved in the present month.

 Orders for Advertisements, as well as all other communications, should reach us as much as possible before the 6th of each month.

Look before you purchase. C. K. Jones, 59, Barlow-street, Ardwick, near Manchester, sends stamps of all countries, both old and new issues, on inspection, cheaper than any in the trade. Agents wanted in France, Belgium, Germany, Switzerland, Bremen, Hamburg, London, Birmingham, Oxford, Cambridge, Staffordshire, Bath, Dublin, Yorkshire, Queens-town, Glasgow, Aberdeen, and all the schools in England and on the continent. Commission allowed 15 per cent. P.S.—C. K. J. buys stamps at any amount.

Stamps given away! Send three stamps for J. & A. Menlove's priced list, and you will receive gratis a 3 pf. Saxony, or 4 pf. Prussia, or 2 cents. Luxemburg, all unobliterated. Address J. & A. Menlove, 23, Upper Baker-street, London, N.W. All applications to be made by letter.

Just Published, post free, 1s. 1d., Forged Stamps: how to detect them; containing full accounts of all false stamps. 1.—Forgeries from genuine stamps. 2.—Stamps, which never existed, except in the imagination of the originator. 3.—Unintentional forgeries. 4.—Addenda: Stamps of which no definite information can be collected. May be had from Edward Pemberton, Beaufort-road, Edgbaston, Birmingham.

7th Prize.—Set of Bergedorf Stamps.
11,997. Miss Montague, G. C. Cole, Esq., Sevenoaks, Kent.

Any of our subscribers wishing to satisfy himself of the bona fide nature of the Prizes will, we doubt not, receive every information required from any of the persons in the foregoing list, on sending a stamped directed envelope for reply.

With the present and each following number of the Review, will be given an unused foreign or colonial Postage Stamp; and we shall still do all that lies in our power to render it attractive and useful in other respects, by providing reliable information, and engraving rare or newly-issued varieties of stamps.

We hope still to be favoured with the support already so liberally accorded to our publication, particularly from dealers, who will find in our widely-circulated columns a valuable medium for their advertisements.

Advertisements will be inserted at the following moderate charges:

Under 20 words	1s. 0d.
" 40 "	1s. 6d.
" 60 "	2s. 3d.
" 80 "	3s. 0d.
" 120 "	4s. 3d.

On orders for six insertions a reduction will be made in the charge, with liberty to change the advertisement.

BY THOMAS WILLIAM KITT.

PART II.—ITS ABUSE.

“Doubtless, the pleasure is as great
In being cheated, as to cheat.”

HOWEVER seemingly inexplicable this distich may appear, if we take the trouble to examine a few only of the numberless cheats which are daily practised, and the intense eagerness with which the most improbable and even impossible projects have been listened to and enthusiastically embraced as orthodox, it does certainly then seem that the above sentence, by that brilliant wit—Samuel Butler—is to some extent true; and ergo the pleasure of cheating, and being cheated, are in many instances synonymous. Postage stamp forging—the great stumbling-block to the votaries of stamp collecting—must be looked upon as an exception to this rule. In this evil now so unfortunately prevalent lies the abuse of a practice at once interesting and useful. An inordinate love of gain has induced several dishonest persons to prepare and put into circulation forgeries or imitations of many of the rarer and obsolete stamps, which being for the most part simple in design offer an easy conquest to any postal “Redpath” who may deem it sufficiently profitable to copy them. As will be readily perceived, the appearance of these fictitious stamps has rendered the forming of a collection of genuine specimens still more difficult, and it consequently behoves every collector, especially the tyro, to steer clear of them. But the stamp collector is not left wholly at the mercy of these unprincipled postal forgers, for it must be borne in mind that the process of copying necessarily entails differences (sometimes marked) between the genuine and fictitious specimens, which if known to the collector would enable him to at once repudiate these soi disant postage stamps. Certain it is that there are many collectors who are totally indifferent as to whether their collections contain forged or genuine specimens, but this cannot be occasioned by an irremediable lack of knowledge of the differences just mentioned, and now so ably and accurately described in that most useful work—“Forged Stamps: how to detect them”—the compilation of Messrs. Lewes and Pemberton. Another mode of testing the genuineness of postage stamps, but one little resorted to, is an examination of the post marks which obliterate the different specimens. Few only of the fictitious stamps now in circulation are used, but the collector will do well to take notice of the post marks of all specimens that fall in his way, that have any pretensions to rarity. Postage stamp water marks also should not be left wholly unnoticed by the stamp collector; for when known that they should be and are present in specimens they will at any time dispel all doubts as to the stamp's authenticity. As a preventive of forgery many countries issue stamps with one or more horizontal lines of coloured silk woven in the paper on which they are printed, and which, if absent, would give ready evidence to the fact of their being spurious. To some few collectors another test of genuineness presents itself in the quality of the paper on which the stamps are printed—a mode of testing the particulars of which must be thoroughly understood to render it of any real use to the stamp collector. Such is a slight insight into the various means by which these fictitious stamps may be detected, and which for the benefit of the reader are more fully detailed under the following heads, viz :—

- 1—Postal Obliterating Marks.
- 2—Postage-stamp Watermarks.
- 3—Prepared paper for Postage-stamps.

POSTAL OBLITERATING MARKS.

Post marks, or postal obliterating marks or cancelling marks, present as great a diversity in shape and design as the stamps which they often so hopelessly and unmercifully disfigure and obliterate. Like the stamps themselves they vary in design from the quaint old style to the more modern improvements, as exemplified by the simple pen stroke found on many old specimens, and the more elegant circle with inscription which may be found on those of later issue. The reason why these postal disfigurements should be regarded as a test of genuineness is obvious. The postage stamp forger, to obviate the suspicion occasioned by the offering for sale of an unused specimen of a very rare kind, will make the deception more passable by obliteration; but, in many instances, from an imperfect knowledge of the post mark, one entirely imaginary will be produced, which would enable the collector, if acquainted with the details of the original, to at once discard the imposition. We first take the obliterating mark of ANTIGUA.—The post mark in use in this colony is a slight variation in design from one of those used in England. In form it is a transverse oval, composed of three parallel lines at top and bottom; a curved and straight line on each side; in the centre a letter and figures.

ARGENTINE CONFEDERATION.—The post mark principally in use appears to be a transverse oval with inscription, "CORREOS NACIONALES, FRANCO &c."

AUSTRIA.—Post marks of various forms but principally circular with name of town (from which the letter is dispatched) and date (day, month, and year) in figures. The obliterating mark on some of the "Gazette" stamps is the Imperial eagle crowned.

AUSTRIAN ITALY.—One of the first obliterating marks appears to have been simply the word "VENEZIA," and date,* without bordering. On many stamps of the second issue appear the words, "DA VENEZIA COL VAPORE" and date in figures, inclosed in a square with rounded corners; but the post mark most frequently met with is in shape circular, with name of town and date in figures.

* When not described as being in figures, the month in the date is in letters.

FORGED STAMPS: HOW TO DETECT THEM.

BY EDWARD PEMBERTON.

The next forgeries we notice are the earlier Confederate States, Nashville, and New Orleans; and the 5c. green, now in use. The two first are now very scarce, especially the Nashville. The following differences may be observed:

XXI. NASHVILLE.

1861. Name, stars, and figure indicating value, in oval, encircled by words "W. D. M'Nish, P. M., Tenn." 5c. crimson, 5c. grey, and the same on blue paper.

It is possible that all but the 5c. crimson are quite fictitious, no collectors seem to have seen a genuine grey one.

GENUINE.—The word "Paid" is in long letters, close together; all the letters in "Tenn" are uniform in size; the star to the right of word "Paid" is on a level with the word, and the top star is just over "ai" in "Paid," and all the stars are thick. The border is one narrow white line. It is printed indistinctly, and has rather a smudgy appearance; the ornaments in the corners are well-done and rather bold.

FORGERY.—"Paid" is in short letters, farther apart; and in the word "Tenn" the letters "nn" are smaller than "Te." The star to the right of word "Paid" is rather above the word; the top star is more over the "a" than the "i" in "Paid;" all the stars are thin. The border has one very thin and another very broad white line. It is clear and distinct, especially the corner ornaments, which are rather more elaborate than in the real stamp; they are badly done and look scratchy. It is much larger than the original.

XXII. NEW ORLEANS.

1861. Figure, indicating value, in centre, encircled by "New-Orleans Post-office," and bearing the name "J. L. Riddell," at top and bottom, 5 cents brown.

GENUINE.—The hyphen joining "New-Orleans" touches the "O;" the ornament at left-hand bottom corner has only three points; the white ornament under the letter "P" in "Paid" looks like a horse's head and neck; the word "Post" and "ce" of "Office" touch the line above them, and the right-hand top ornament has five dots inside.

FORGED—The hyphen does not touch the "O;" the ornament looks like an arm with four fingers; the ornament is a badly-formed crescent; none of the letters touch the line above, and the right-hand top ornament has no dots.

The forgeries are printed on white paper and on blue; the latter are altogether fictitious.

2 cents blue, 2 cents red (device as 5 cents).

All the printing is thick and coarse, and the whole stamp is indistinct. The colours of one is a pale greenish blue, and of the other dull red. The central figure 2 is in a circle, perfectly round.

The false one has the printing thin and neat, and looks extremely clear. The colors are a bright blue and bright vermilion respectively. The figure 2 is in a well-defined oval.

XXIII. CONFEDERATE STATES.

1861. Name; head of Jefferson

Davis to right, in oval, 5 cents green, 5 cents blue, 5 cents red, 5 cents black.

GENUINE.—The hair on the head does not go up to the words above, there being a space (in some places broad, in others narrower) all round; the words "Postage" and "Five Cents" are in stout compact letters; the background is composed of very fine close lines, looking almost solid;

the "C" in "Confederate" and the last "a" in "America" are on a level with the mouth; portrait of Davis very like, the face is long and the expression one of intense energy; face is dotted all over.

FORGED.—The hair on head goes up to "Confederate States of America;" from "D" to "S" of "Confederate States" it almost touches the letters; the words are in thin letters, rather wide apart; the background is coarse, the lines wide apart and distinct; the "C" in "Confederate" and the last "A" in "America" on a level with the nose; the face is round and looks stupid—no particular expression. The face is oval, dotted on the right of the forehead and right cheek, and a little on the left cheek.

The following Confederate are also found forged: Memphis, paid, 5 cents, pink; Mobile Post-office, 5 cents paid, blue; Baton Rouge, 5 cents. P.O., J. M'Cormick, red and green; M. C Callaway, paid, 2 cents, blue; Confederate States, 10 cents, pink and blue.

These are all coarsely executed, and any collector would at once reject them. The paper is either very white or very blue; the originals are all on dingy blue paper. The very scarce Charleston 5c. blue does not seem to have been forged at all. The peculiarity about these forged Confederates is that they are always unused, they are never forged with a post mark.

STAMPS LATELY ISSUED, AND RARE VARIETIES.

THE new series of stamps issued respectively by Saxony, Austria, Venetia, and Lubeck, have most probably been seen by most of our readers. For the benefit of those, however, who may not as yet be in possession of them, we append a description of them.

All appear to be executed upon the same plan as the new Prussian—

I. SAXONY.—Shield and crown embossed in white, surrounded by a coloured ground—word Sachsen above—value beneath—adhesive 3 pfen green, $\frac{1}{2}$ neu gro. scarlet, 1 n.g. rose, 2 n.g. blue, 3 n.g. brown, 5 n.g. lilac; env. 1 n.g. rose, 2 n.g. blue, 3 n.g. brown, 5 n.g. lilac.

II. AUSTRIA.—Embossed eagle, in white, on rose coloured ground—2 kr. yellow, 3 kr. green, 5 kr. rose, 10 kr. blue, 15 kr. brown—both adhesive and envelope—also 25 kr. violet envelope.

III. VENETIA.—Same as Austria in colour, design, and number, value as usual in Soldi.

IV. LUBECK.—Arms embossed in white, on colour—name above—value beneath in words, and figures at sides, $\frac{1}{2}$ sch. green, 1 sch. scarlet, 2 sch. rose, $2\frac{1}{2}$ sch. blue, and 4 sch. brown; both adhesive and envelopes.

The Northern States of America have also issued a 2 c. adhesive stamp, head of Lincoln, which is a very model of ugliness.

We give an engraving of one of the Italian essays—they are seven in number, viz., green, lilac, black, blue, carmine, violet, and yellow. We can gain no positive information in regard to their adoption at present.

The old Sardinian has now become a rarity—the series comprised three, viz., 5, 20, 40 c., of which the 5 c. is extremely rare and very difficult to obtain.

We also engrave a specimen of the Diligencia stamps of South America, about which opinion seems so much divided as to whether they belong to Monte Video or the Argentine Confederation; we certainly incline to the latter belief and are not alone in our opinion.

THE STAMP MANIA.

A recent concession which has been made may be regarded as one of the latest novelties in the advertising world: under this arrangement, the Stamp-office permits embossed rings, with the name of a particular firm, to be placed round the stamp, as a border for it.

In 1844, after the exposé of the letter-opening at the General Post-office, Mr. Leech gave in Punch his 'Anti-Graham Envelopes.' This satirical postage-envelope, afterwards engraved by Mr. W. J. Linton, and widely circulated, represents Sir James Graham sitting as 'Britannia.'

For eight long years, the English people may be said to have enjoyed a complete monopoly in postage-stamps. Towards the close of 1848, they were introduced into France, and subsequently into every civilised nation in the world. The royal portrait is in most countries the prevailing design; exceptional cases occur, in which eagles, crosses, caps of liberty, and coats of arms appear. In a few cases, the stamp simply bears in figures the value of the label. Only this year has the postage-stamp penetrated into the Ottoman empire, where, as Mohammedan usage will not admit of his portrait being presented, the stamps are designed so as to shew a facsimile of the Sultan's signature.

All the postage-stamps used in this country are manufactured at Somerset House; and the entire establishment, which is distinct from the other branches of the Inland Revenue Department, is managed at the annual expense of thirty thousand pounds. Of this sum, nineteen thousand pounds is the estimated cost for the present year, 1863-1864, of paper for labels and envelopes, and for printing, gumming, and folding. About five thousand pounds will be necessary to pay the salaries of the various officers, including five hundred pounds to the supervisor, and one hundred pounds to the superintendent of the perforating process. Mr. Edwin Hill, a brother of Sir Rowland Hill, is at the head of the department. Little is known of the way in which the stamps are made, nor is it thought desirable that their manufacture should be generally understood. Paper of a peculiar make is used for their manufacture—the stamps are of course printed in sheets—all the stamps of a sheet are struck from the same die or punch—the blocks used are of first-class quality, and only subjected to a certain number of impressions, after which they are entirely relieved from duty. After printing, the sheets are covered with a gelatine matter, to render the stamps adhesive. Drilling the sheets is the last process before the stamps are fit for use. This process consists simply of puncturing the narrow spaces round each stamp with a number of small round holes, so that one stamp may be torn from the other with ease and safety. We say simply; but it was not a matter of easy arrangement, when we reflect that the numerous holes made on a sheet of stamps are not such as may be made in any printer's establishment, for the pieces of paper forming the circles require to be cut completely out. For a number of years, in fact, till very recently, stamps had to be separated from each other by knives or scissors. The invention of the perforating apparatus was attended with considerable labour and ingenuity, and the inventor received from the government the sum of four thousand pounds for the exclusive use of his patent.

Of course, great precaution is taken in the printing of the stamps to provide against forgery. All the lines and marks, as well as the initial letters in each corner, mean something, and the whole affair is regarded as almost inimitable. Take a penny stamp and look at it narrowly: running up each side we have a narrow slip of prettily carved trellis-work; in the two corners at the top, there are two small figured spaces, with the word 'Postage' between them; and at the other two corners, two more square spaces, each containing a letter of the alphabet. No one of the two hundred and forty stamps in a sheet will exhibit the same two letters, but the changes on the alphabet are rung throughout the series. This mystic arrangement of the letters of the alphabet is supposed to constitute the great check on the forger; but we think we see far greater difficulties in the way of this pest to society than that—the forger would not only have to engrave his own die and cast his own blocks, not only have to find his drilling machine—not his least difficulty—but he would have to make his own paper, and even his own ink. If we look at the back of our postage-stamps, we will find that each die has been struck on a piece of paper bearing the mark of a crown, impressed on the paper as a water-mark at the time of its manufacture. The ink also with which postage stamps are printed; differs from ordinary printers' ink, not only in colour, but in being soluble in water. More, however, than even its execution, the fact of the stamp being a government article, and only obtainable in any large quantity from the Stamp or Post offices, makes any attempt on the part of the forger to put a spurious article into circulation exceedingly difficult. Stamps, while they do duty for coin, are used almost exclusively for small transactions, and generally among people well known to each other.

When postage-stamps were first introduced in England, it was little thought that they would become a medium of exchange, and far less that they would excite such a furor among stamp-collectors. The same stamp may do duty in a number of ways before it comes to be affixed to a letter, to have its countenance disfigured, and then transported for miles away. It may have been previously used in discharge of some small debt, or sent to pay a charitable subscription. The advertising columns of a newspaper will shew the reader many of the thousand and one ways in which he may turn his spare postage-stamps to account. Therein some public benefactor promises to reveal a secret that will bring its happy possessor within reach of an easy competence, for the small acknowledgment of half-a-crown's worth of stamps. Thirteen Queen's heads will secure you exemption from all the ills that flesh is heir to. 'Send a dozen stamps,' says another, 'and a specimen of your handwriting, and the advertiser will disclose to you the mysteries of your own mind and capabilities, and will put you in a position to make the most of the faculties you possess.' For the same quantity of stamps, another will tell you who will win the Derby, 'as surely as if you stood at the winning-post on the very day.' 'Stable Boy' promises all subscribers of twelve stamps that if they do not win on this event, he will never 'put his name in print again.' Of course all this is quackery, or worse; but the reader needs not to be told how in an immense number of bonâ fide cases the system of postage remittances is exceedingly handy for both buyer and vendor, and how trade is fostered by it. As a social arrangement for the poorer classes especially, we could not well over-estimate its usefulness. While the use of postage-stamps in this way has never been discouraged, and even owned to be useful, as a means of helping to put a stop to the transmission of coin in letters, the Postoffice authorities have recently made provision for taking postage-stamps from the public, when such stamps are not soiled or not in single stamps. This arrangement is already in force at the principal post-offices in the country, and will ultimately extend to all. The commission charged on these exchanges is at the rate of sixpence in the pound. In America, as the reader will remember, postage-stamps have formed the principle currency of small value, since the breaking out of the present fratricidal war. Recently, the United States government has issued the stamps without gum, as it was found inconvenient to pass them frequently from hand to hand, after they had undergone the gelatinising process. Under a recent act, 'Postage Currency, July 17, 1862,' the Federal authorities have issued stamps printed on larger-sized paper, with directions for their use under existing circumstances.

Most of our readers will have heard something of stamp-collecting, but few will be aware of the extent to which the timbro-manie, or stamp-mania, has been carried. The scenes in Birchin Lane last year, where crowds congregated nightly, to the exceeding annoyance and wonderment of policemen X—where ladies and gentlemen of all ages and all ranks, from cabinet-ministers to crossing-sweepers, were busy, with album or portfolio in hand, buying, selling, or exchanging, are now known to have been the beginnings of what may almost be termed a new trade. Postage-stamp exchanges are now common enough; one held in Lombard Street on Saturday afternoons is largely attended. Looking the other day in the advertisement pages of a monthly magazine, we counted no fewer than sixty different dealers in postage-stamps there advertising their wares. Twelve months ago there was no regular mart in London at which foreign stamps might be bought; now, there are a dozen regular dealers in the metropolis, who are doing a profitable trade. England is not the only country interested in stamp-collecting. As might be expected, the custom originated in France, and has prevailed there for a number of years. In the gardens of the Tuileries, and also to some extent in those of the Luxembourg, crowds still gather, principally on Sunday afternoons, and may be seen sitting under the trees, sometimes in a state of great excitement, as they busily sell or exchange any of their surplus stock for some of which they may have been in search. The gathering of a complete set of postage-stamps, and a proper arrangement of them, is at least a harmless and innocent amusement.—Chambers' Journal for June.

THE POSTMASTER GENERAL'S ANNUAL REPORT.

The number of letters delivered in England in 1862 was 497 millions, in Ireland 51 millions, and in Scotland 57 millions; being, for England, 24 to each person; for Ireland, 9 to each person; and for Scotland, 19 each person. As compared with 1861, the total shows an increase of 12 millions; and, as contrasted with the year previous to the introduction of penny postage (1839), an increase (omitting franks) of 529 millions; making the present number of letters very nearly eight-fold the number in 1839. In the London district alone the number of letters is now nearly double that which, before the adoption of penny postage, was delivered in the whole of the United Kingdom, London included. There is an immense increase, it seems, in the number of printed circulars which are posted. In relation to the Lambeth election, there were as many as 40,000 circulars posted in a single day. Nearly half a million letters passed through the temporary post-office in the International Exhibition. The number of registered letters passed through the London office has increased by 37 per cent., while there has been a great diminution in applications for missing letters containing coin.

POSTAGE STAMPS.

Admitting the British colonies into our calculation, there are more than 40 modifications of Queen Victoria's portrait, in several different shades of colour. The postage stamp of the lowest money value at its ordinary rate is the centime of France, worth a fraction less than two-fifths of an English farthing; the highest being the four-dollar California Pony Express, representing the sum of 16s. 4d. For beauty of form and hue, the postage stamp of France and Greece, and among our own dependencies those of Nova Scotia, bear away the palm; while the English penny postage stamp and the stamps of Belgium are about on a par, as far as ugliness is concerned. Liberian stamps are of the largest size issued; and those of Mecklenburg-Schwerin take rank as the smallest. For scarcity and daily increasing value, the old issues of the Isle of Bourbon, and New Caledonia, and those of Spain, Portugal, British Guiana, and Van Diemen's Land, may be specially particularised. So may the stamps of the Sandwich Islands, Nicaragua, and the Phillippines, which are extremely rare, as are those of the Italian Duchies. Such of our readers as may wish to turn "an honest" future "penny" should hasten forthwith to make a large investment in Roman Pontifical stamps, which are with good reason expected, at no very distant date, to attain an almost fabulous value.—

 AND MONTHLY ADVERTISER.

No. 10.

SEPTEMBER 15, 1863.

PRICE 2d.

TO OUR READERS.

With the present and each following number of the Review, will be given an unused foreign or colonial Postage Stamp; and we shall still do all that lies in our power to render it attractive and useful in other respects, by providing reliable information, and engraving rare or newly-issued varieties of stamps.

We hope still to be favoured with the support already so liberally accorded to our publication, particularly from dealers, who will find in our widely-circulated columns a valuable medium for their advertisements.

Advertisements will be inserted at the following moderate charges:—

Under 20 words	1s. 0d.
„ 40 „	1s. 6d.
„ 60 „	2s. 3d.
„ 80 „	3s. 0d.
„ 120 „	4s. 3d.

On orders for six insertions a reduction will be made in the charge, with liberty to change the advertisement.

BY THOMAS WILLIAM KITT.

PART II.

POSTAL OBLITERATING MARKS.

BADEN.—The post mark on all the stamps of the issues with “figure indicating value,” appears to be four smaller circles enclosed in a larger; the middle one containing the number. This post mark also appears on some of the stamps with arms, but not so frequently as one composed of a single lined circle with number in centre.

BAHAMAS.—Post mark similar in design to that of Antigua, but having two curved lines on each side.

BARBADOES.—The post marks found on the stamps of this island most frequently present a blotched appearance, which renders it difficult to ascertain their form, but which would seem to be identical with the No. IV. English, engraved on page 42 (No. 5) of this Magazine.

BAVARIA—The post mark which appears to have been first generally used in this country, is a circle with projecting points, and number in centre. This is now superseded by squares and circles enclosing name of town and date.

BELGIUM.—The stamps of the first issue of this country are obliterated by a circle composed of black parallel bars, with square left in the centre for the number. This post mark is still in use, but with the bars wider and further apart.

BERGEDORF.—The mark used for the obliteration of these stamps is the word Bergedorf in large letters, overarching the date (day and month only) in figures.

BRAZIL—The post marks on most of the stamps composing the former issues of this country, would seem to consist of merely a series of blotches in red ink, devoid of shape or design; but on the stamps now in use may be observed a number of black dots, and in some cases an oval.

BREMEN.—The word BREMEN in an oblong, with or without date, is the post mark generally in use.

BRITISH COLUMBIA & VANCOUVER'S ISLAND.—The cancelling mark principally in use is a circle enclosing name of town and date.

BRITISH GUIANA.—The post marks used in this colony are various. One of the oldest is a circle enclosing name of town and date, while a second is circle enclosing three curved lines above and below, one on each side, and the number in the centre. (See engraving.) There are also several others, among which may be noticed one similar to that used in the Bahamas. The mark used for the obliteration of the newspaper labels, consists of a number of wide black bars placed in the form of a square.

BRUNSWICK.—A single post mark only appears to have been used in this country up to the present time, and which may be described as follows:—diamond-shaped figure composed of parallel black bars, and having a square left in the centre for the number.

BUENOS AYRES.—With but few exceptions, the primitive mode of obliterating with dots is adhered to.

CANADA.—Many of these stamps are obliterated by means of a spiral oval, but there is also a square post-mark composed of black bars.

CEYLON.—An oval composed of black bars appears to be the only post mark in use in this colony.

CHILI—The post mark principally used in this country is a transverse oval, composed of four lines above and below, and a curved line on each side with inscription in the centre. There is also a mark composed of a circle enclosing three others of smaller dimensions, the centre one of which contains the date in figures.

CONFEDERATE STATES OF AMERICA.

—The name of town (from which the letter is despatched) and date encircled, is the post mark usually found on these stamps.

COSTA RICA.—The mark used for the obliteration of these newly issued stamps, is an oval containing inscription, which latter is generally very indistinct.

DANUBIAN PRINCIPALITIES.—The postage stamps of Moldavia and Moldo-Wallachia are obliterated by means of a circle enclosing name of town and date in figures.

DENMARK.—A circle enclosing two others of smaller dimensions, and the centre one of which contains the number, is the cancelling mark used in this country.

DUCHY OF SCHLESWIG-HOLSTEIN.—Post mark, in form, oval, and composed of black bars, with oblong space left in the centre for the number.

DANISH WEST INDIES, Islands of St. Thomas and St. Croix.—Post mark similar in design to that used in Denmark, but composed of four circles instead of three.

FRANCE—The first French post mark, and the one most frequently found on the stamps of the Republic, is that known to collectors as the gridiron. It is diamond shaped, and composed simply of crossed lines. (See engraving.) This post mark was at length superseded by one of similar form, but consisting of dots surrounding a number, and which mark is still used to obliterate the stamps on letters to England. A third change in the obliterating mark was the omission of the number in the centre, and, at the same time, the Central Post-office altogether discontinued using the diamond-shaped post mark, replacing it by a six-pointed star, entirely composed of dots. (See engraving.) This latter, in its turn, gave place to one which in ugliness and simplicity can hardly be equalled, being merely composed of five large square dots arranged in a rectangular form, one being placed at each corner and one in the middle.

There are many variations of the post marks just described, both in the diamond and star pattern; but there is also a perfectly distinct mark which requires a more than passing observation. This consists of an anchor, surrounded by a diamond shaped figure composed of dots, and is used by the Levant Post-office, by the French Transatlantic Packets, also by the armies of the East, the army of Italy, and by the expeditionary forces to China, Cochin China, and Mexico.

FRENCH COLONIES.—A diamond shaped figure composed of dots, and with or without number in centre, appears to be the post mark used for the obliteration of these stamps.

NEW CALEDONIA.—The long disused and very rare stamps of this island are obliterated by means of a small oblong enclosing P.F., the initial letters of Port-de-France, the capital.

REUNION.—The cancelling mark found on these most rare and singular stamps, appears to be the outline of a plume.

FORGED STAMPS: HOW TO DETECT THEM:

CORRECTIONS AND ADDITIONAL NOTES ON THE FORGERIES OF THE GENEVA CANTONAL STAMPS.

BY EDWARD PEMBERTON.

SINCE printing the description of the Geneva stamps in No. 3, I have had numerous opportunities of studying the variations these stamps are subject to. I find that there are two distinct genuine varieties of the 5 c. light green, but that both are subject to great variations, which caused me to make some slight errors in describing the forgeries last February. These errors, it is my purpose to correct in the present article, and I am glad to be able to give in addition some slight clue towards detecting the forgeries of the 5 c. dark green.

GENEVA.

5 c. light green, Cantonal.

VARIETY I.—Space between “de” and “Geneve;” glory thicker on the left hand, and not true, scarcely touching the lettering above; band, containing inscription, hangs down lower on the right hand than on the left; “Post” and “Lux” scarcely legible; eagle seems covered with hair, head bald, tail very indistinct, and wing pointed straight upwards; there is a space (about sixteenth of an inch) between the eagle’s wing and the side of the shield; key ornamental about the handle, being very large; leg of eagle not clear, claws small, and five in number.

VARIETY II.—No disproportionate space; glory equal, rays going up to a level with “e” in “de;” band hangs equally, but touches the border on the right hand side; “Post” and “Lux” clear and bold; eagle looks natural, head well done, tail clear, wing not pointed, but inclined outwards; eagle’s wing nearly touches the side of shield; key with a large ornamental handle, but not so large.

as in the other; leg very straight and clear, five very large toes, not claws.

Variety I., and its forgeries—

GENUINE.—Neck as dark as the rest of the body; IHS small, and not in the centre of the oval; wing of eagle comes up to a level with top of head; leg indistinct; toes five in number; top stroke of the 5 (on the left side) rather thin and long; scarcely any space left between the eagle's foot and tail; the toes all but touch the tail; wing of the eagle proportionate, though a trifle small; colour, a light yellowish green.

FORGERY.—Neck lighter than other parts; IHS bold, and printed straight; tip of wing level with the beak; leg indistinct, and toes cannot be counted; top stroke of the 5 short, and very much curved; a wide space is left, the toes are quite an eighth of an inch from the tail; wing very small indeed, much out of proportion; colour, a dull green, very ugly.

Variety II., and its forgery.—The forgery here described is sold for the light green 5 c., but is a forgery of the dark green, printed on lighter paper. It is so exceedingly like the dark green in every respect, that no one knowing the chief points of difference (as noted below) between the dark green 5 c. and the light green 5 c., could accept it as the latter. The eagle is crowned; the glory goes over the name in the false one, but does neither in the real stamps.

Differences between Cantonal 5 c. light (variety II.) and 5 c. dark green—

DARK GREEN.—Glory extends beyond the name nearly to the border of the stamp; JHS printed in a transverse oval; H has a circumflex accent; band, containing inscription, compact; does not hang down much, and the band is folded again after words "Post" and "Lux;" eagle's head small, insignificant, and crowned; wing drawn with each feather separate, as on the Prussian stamps; the top feather points upwards and nearly touches the border at top; three toes on the foot; leg is feathered; and there is scarcely any tail visible; key large, handle shewn by double lines all round, making the handle in colour, as well as the whole of the key; the part of the band containing word "Tenebras" is curved in the centre and at the ends.

LIGHT GREEN.—Glory in the highest part only comes to "e" in "de" of the name; IHS in a small badly defined oblong; no accent over the H; band long and hanging down considerably, touching the right hand border; the band is not folded again after the words "Post" and "Lux;" eagle's head large and bold, and not crowned; wing drawn naturally; top of the wing, inclined outwards, nearly touching the side; five toes on the foot; leg bare and long; tail of a good size; key rather small, handle shewn by a single line, making the handle black, and the rest of the key in colour; that part of the band lies in a straight line with the top of the shield, almost touching it; it is only curved very slightly at the ends.

Differences between the dark green 5 c. and forgery No. 1—

GENUINE.—“Post,” in inscription, clear in every letter; the end of the band containing “Post” has a lower fold to it, every line of which is clear; “Lux” quite clear; lettering of the inscription thin; “Post” in smaller type than “Tenebras;” “Lux” in larger type than “Post,” and in rather smaller type than “Tenebras;” glory round JHS regular throughout; the rays can be counted with a little trouble, (there are close upon fifty of them); each one is distinct from its neighbour, and its whole length can be readily traced; JHS printed uniformly in type slightly larger than the word “Tenebras” is; figure 5 on the left side has the top dash perfectly straight; dot after C on the right, very small; eagle has a well defined square shoulder; the three toes of the eagle are shaded, shewing much lighter in the middle; the toe nearest the tail is turned round towards it; whole stamp lightly and well printed; execution very good.

FORGED.—In the inscription you can only see “Pos;” the end containing “Pos” has a lower fold, but so badly done, that you cannot tell where one fold begins, especially the last one; can only decipher “ux,” “Tenebras,” in large clumsy letters, “Pos” and “ux” in thin small type; glory very much thicker and very close over the word “de” in the name; rays cannot be counted except at the extreme points and half-way down, being too close towards the “roots” to be easily distinguishable; JHS in thick awkward letters, S farther off the H than the J, and the S is printed crookedly; top dash of the 5 curved strongly; dot after the large C of a proper size; eagle’s “shoulder” slopes away, and is not at all square; the three toes are the same shade throughout—deep black; toe nearest the tail turned inwards, i. e., away from it; whole stamp thickly printed, execution coarse but good. It is an excellent imitation, for as will be seen the differences are all of the minutest description. If printed with better ink it would look far more like the real thing.

The next forgery is a splendid one, and is printed very well. I anticipate some difficulty in describing the differences, they are so minute. I believe myself that the forgers have by some means got hold of the original die, but have altered it in some manner, for it would be impossible to make such an imitation. There is one line in the glory which touches the last “e” in Geneve, this line is slightly curved; it is so too, in the forgery under hand. Again, one or two other lines are just curved in the slightest possible degree, it is the same in No. II. forgery. The following is the best description I can give. It will be noticed, that in all the light green 5 c. Cantonal, the "roots" of the glory, and about a sixteenth of an inch of the rays (which are pointed downwards) are plainly visible above that part of the inscription band containing the word "Tenebras." In the genuine 5 c. dark green, that part of the band containing "Tenebras" comes up in the centre close to the "roots" of the glory, leaving only specks to be seen in the place of the parts of rays visible in the light green stamps. Now, in No. II. forgery, there is a good deal of the "roots" visible, though they are not nearly a sixteenth of an inch in length. In the genuine the figure 5 on the left hand, has the top stroke quite straight and square; whilst in the forgery it is not at all long, and is curved at the end. The dots are differently placed in the false one, but they would be too difficult to describe; there are more dots in the real one than in the forgery. This No. II. forgery is printed in three ways:—1. As above, and passing for the dark green stamp. 2. On light green paper, and passing for a 5 c. light green. 3. On white paper, in green ink, and passing for the 5 c. Cantonal green on white. The description of the 5 c. green on white will be found on page 21, No. 3, of this Magazine. My opinion that the 10 c. Geneva Cantonal and Local, is a complete fiction, has not altered in the slightest, and I have never had any reason to think otherwise.

STAMPS LATELY ISSUED, AND RARE VARIETIES.

WE now present our readers with an engraving of the new envelope stamp issued by the Northern States of America, value 2 cents—it is printed in black.

We also engrave the new adhesive Stamp of Nova Scotia, value 2 cents, printed in mauve on white, as will be seen it is similar in design to the 1 cent and 5 cents of the same country.

Holland has issued a stamp for use in her Indian Settlements, which may be thus described:—Carmine on white, with head of William III. to the left, 10 cents at top, and in a scroll at foot of stamp POST ZEGEL. On the left side is a star and word NEDER, and on the right side another star and the word INDIE. In the upper corners there are a tropical flower and a dolphin.

Two new stamps, both in value and design, have been issued by British Guiana—6 cents blue, 48 cents pink. We hope to engrave them in a future number.

In America the rate of postage is affected, among others, by the present state of affairs. Mr. Hussey, the well-known proprietor of the "Special Message Post" in New York, says, in a recently issued circular, "In view of the necessary increased taxation caused by the war to establish the union, I will, on and after July 1st, charge two cents for the 11 a.m. delivery." The former rate was 1 cent only. Accordingly his stamp has been altered to the value of 2 cents, and at the top has been placed the date 18—63, in the two corners.

We have received, by way of Canada, what appears to be a fac-simile of a new Confederate stamp—Richmond postage, five cents, in an oval surrounding the Confederate flag, green on white.

We engrave a specimen of the earliest issue of Brazil. These stamps have attained an almost fabulous value now.

POSTAL REFORM.

In a country where the minutest acts of the Government are subject to searching criticism, not always of the most benevolent nature, it is a matter for gratulation to find that one institution is all but unanimously regarded as being in admirable working order, and offering the slightest possible grounds for detraction or complaint. Liberals and Conservatives have not yet made the internal administration of the British Post-office a party question. There have been from time to time squabbles as to the bestowal of postal contracts, but celerity and safety in the transmission of letters destined for abroad have never been sacrificed to political differences. Since the first and most unworthy slight passed on the Father of Postal Reform by the Government of Sir Robert Peel—a slight followed, however, by the speedy and permanent reinstatement of Sir Rowland Hill—successive Cabinets have striven rather to strengthen than to weaken the hands of the ablest postal administrator the world has seen. Reforms and ameliorations have followed one another in quick succession. The extension of money-order offices, the establishment of post-office savings banks, the generous facilities offered by the book post, and the diminution of rates upon prints, maps, printers' proofs, and authors' manuscripts, have proved that a discriminating liberality towards the public does not necessarily tend to the detriment of the revenue. Our Post-office is, indeed, eminently a paying concern. The tradesman's doctrine of small profits and quick returns has been triumphantly vindicated in its progress, and the undertaking, as a commercial one, grows more remunerative every year. The Post-office is nearly the last of the monopolies enjoyed by the Crown, but it is a monopoly which few feel inclined to grudge. We do not claim the merit of absolute perfection for this important public department. There may be, few and far between, some Post-office grievances. There may be halcyon days to be hoped for, when letter carriers shall be better paid, and ordinaries of Newgate shall no longer deem it necessary to rap double knocks at the postman's conscience with a view of deterring him from risking his condemnation to a long term of penal servitude by abstracting a marked sixpence from a letter. Still, take it or all in all, her Majesty's Post-office performs its duties with a singular absence from blundering and corruption, and it is an institution of which we may reasonably be proud.

It would be unjust to foreign countries to deny their general willingness to foster this vital element in civilisation; and it is gratifying to us to know that the organisation of our Post-office has been adopted as a model by the majority of Continental states. The enthusiasts in the latest of manias, the collection of postage stamps, are aware that the matrix of all the elaborate timbres poste and francobolli which adorn their albums is to be found in the natty little "Queen's Head" first engraved for English use four-and-twenty years since. So it is with the travelling post-offices on the railway, with the nets and hooks for landing or detaching letter bags from trains in motion—with money orders, and with registered letters. All these things came from England; and that there are many more details in English management deemed worthy of imitation abroad is sufficiently proved by the resolutions agreed to by the International Postal Convention lately held in Paris. Our vivacious aldermen, under the direction of their indefatigable sovereign, and the shrewd and ready men he has gathered round him, have already done wonders in the reform of their Post-office; and when the present central bureau is removed from its narrow and inconvenient quarters in the Rue Jean Jacques Rousseau to the new and magnificent hotel shortly to be erected we may look for yet further strides in advance.

Still it should not be forgotten that in measure, as countries recede from the great centres of civilisation, the postal system continues to be conducted on the rudest and most primitive principles. In country towns in Germany the postman frequently expects a gratuity for bringing you a prepaid letter which should have been delivered the day before. In Russia, if you ask if anything to your address be lying at the Poste Restante, you are asked to walk into a room where a sack of letters is emptied pell-mell on a table, and you are requested yourself to search among the chaotic mass, thus offering a direct temptation to the stupid and dishonest to adopt Handy Andy's plan, and take a couple of letters addressed to somebody else in lieu of their own which has been mislaid. In Rome, so far as the public convenience is concerned, the Post-office is almost a non-entity; and even in constitutional Italy the deliveries are few, and the officials lazy. In Austria you get very few letters at the proper time; but you can procure, en revanche, any number of dingy forms, decorated at the top with the double-headed eagle, which you are quite at liberty to fill up with complaints, without the remotest chance of obtaining redress. We presume that some of the members of the Paris Postal Convention have been penetrated with the evils we have hinted at, and that they were duly impressed with the necessity for abrogating the powers of that most solemn and cumbersome impostor—the Old Man of the Sea of the German Post-office—the Prince of Thurn and Taxis. The regulations the convention have pledged themselves to introduce are, on the whole, very English—that is to say, very practical. The prepayment of postage is to be at the option of the sender; but unpaid letters are to bear a moderate additional charge; and when letters are insufficiently prepaid, the stamps originally affixed are to be allowed for. Registered letters, which must in all cases be prepaid, are to be divided into two categories—those of which the value is declared, and those of which the value is ignored. When a declared registered letter is mislaid or destroyed, each office will be held responsible for the acts on its own territory, and in the service of which it has received a premium of insurance. The entire value contained in the letter, or a sum in proportion to the amount abstracted, will be restored to the owner; while for a non-declared registered letter fifty francs will be allowed. The metrical decimal system, “being that which best satisfies the demands of the postal service,” is to be adopted for international postal relations, to the exclusion of every other system. Corrected proof sheets, business papers, and other written documents not of the nature of letters, samples of merchandise—limited, however, in weight and devoid of monetary value—printed matter of all kinds in sheets stitched or bound, sheets of music, engravings, photographs, drawings, maps, and plans, are to be transmitted at low rates; but all articles in bands must be prepaid.

TO THE EDITORS.

Will you please insert the following in your valuable Magazine, it may be useful to other dealers. Some time ago, I sent a large number of obsolete stamps, most of which were rare, to a Mr. W. R. Cross, 6, Walker-street, Hessele-road, Hull, for the purpose, as he said, of selling them for me. I have written to him twice since, but have received no answer, nor had the stamps returned, and certainly consider that such dishonesty deserves to be exposed. I remain, &c..

PRICE 2d.

TO OUR READERS.

WITH the present and each following number of the Review, will be given an unused foreign or colonial Postage Stamp; and we shall still do all that lies in our power to render it attractive and useful in other respects, by providing reliable information, and engraving rare or newly-issued varieties of stamps.

We hope still to be favoured with the support already so liberally accorded to our publication, particularly from dealers, who will find in our widely-circulated columns a valuable medium for their advertisements.

Advertisements will be inserted at the following moderate charges:—

Under 20 words	1s. 0d.
„ 40 „	1s. 6d.
„ 60 „	2s. 3d.
„ 80 „	3s. 0d.
„ 120 „	4s. 3d.

On orders for six insertions a reduction will be made in the charge, with liberty to change the advertisement.

BY THOMAS WILLIAM KITT.

PART II.

POSTAL OBLITERATING MARKS.

GERMANY—Northern States.

The post mark principally used for the obliteration of these stamps is a circle containing three others of smaller dimensions, the centre one of which contains the number. This is undoubtedly the oldest, but there is a mark of later introduction consisting of a circle enclosing another of smaller dimensions, the name of the town being (at the top) in the space between the two, and the date in figures in the centre.

GERMANY—Southern States.—A mark similar to the first described Northern States appears to be the only one used up to the present time.

GRANADA CONFEDERATION.—These stamps seldom bear any other post mark than the name of the capital, Bogota, in large black letters.

GREAT BRITAIN.—An ably-written and very lengthened account of these post marks appeared in No. 5 of this magazine.

GRENADA.—The postage stamps of this island are obliterated by a mark precisely similar to that used in the Bahamas.

HAMBURG.—A post mark consisting merely of black bars is used for the obliteration of the stamps of this city.

HANOVER.—One of the first marks used by the postal authorities of this country appears to be a circle, enclosing name of town and date in figures. This was succeeded by an oblong, containing the same inscription, but the post mark in present use is a circle containing another of smaller dimensions, the name of the town being at the top, in the space between the two, and the date in figures in the centre.

HOLLAND.—A circle enclosing name of town and date in figures is the only mark used.

HONG KONG.—A post mark (frequently in blue ink) similar to that used in the Bahamas, is found on the stamps of this colony.

INDIA.—The stamps composing the first issue of this country were obliterated by means of a square composed of black bars, and also by a diamond-shaped figure composed of dots, having the number in the centre and at the upper angle a letter. There are also diamond and octangular-shaped-marks entirely composed of black bars and dots, but the one in present use is a circle enclosing name of town and date.

IONIAN ISLANDS.—The principal obliterating mark used in these islands is a transverse oval containing the word Franca, but many of the stamps are cancelled by means of two crossed lines stretching from corner to corner.

ITALY.—The first post marks found on the stamps of the kingdom of Sardinia, included under this head, consist merely of a square composed of black bars or dots. The stamps of the second emission are obliterated by means of a circle enclosing name of town and date, while the cancelling mark on those of subsequent issues, and now in use, is a circle containing another of smaller dimensions, the name of town being at the top in the space between the two and the date in the centre.

NEAPOLITAN PROVINCES.—Postmark similar to last described Italian.

JAMAICA.—A post mark similar to that used in the Bahamas is most frequently found on the stamps of this island, but there is also one composed of a circle enclosing name of town and date.

LIBERIA.—The stamps of this Republic are obliterated by a circle (principally in blue ink) containing the name of town above and Liberia below.

LUBECK.—A post mark of black bars, and similar to that of Hamburg, is used in this city, as also one composed of a circle containing another of smaller dimensions, having the name Luebeck at the top in the space between the two and the date in figures in the centre.

LUXEMBURG.—The cancelling marks found on the stamps of the first issue of this Grand Duchy is a circle composed of black bars. The marks in present use are a circle enclosing three others of smaller dimensions, and a circle containing another of smaller dimensions having the name of town at the top in the space between the two and the date in the centre.

MALTA.—In consequence of this stamp being used only for intra-insular postage (i.e. franking letters to Gozo and other adjacent islands) post-marked specimens are in England seldom if ever met with. English stamps are used for higher rates of postage and are obliterated by a mark similar to that used in the Bahamas.

MAURITIUS.—The cancelling mark first used in this colony was a transverse oval composed of four parallel lines at top and bottom, and three curved lines on each side. This mark is still used, together with two others, viz., a circle containing four others of smaller dimensions, and a circle enclosing the word PAID.

MECKLENBURG SCHWERIN.—Post mark, the name of town and date encircled.

MEXICO.—Post mark^s of various forms, but principally a circle containing another of smaller dimensions, the name of town being at the top, and that of the state (of the Republic) at the bottom, in the space between the two and the date in the centre.

MODENA.—A post mark of black bars is most frequently found on the first stamps of this Duchy; but on those of the Provisional Government a circle enclosing name of town and date.

MONTE VIDEO.—A circular post mark is found on many of these stamps; but that generally used is composed of two transverse ovals, interlinked and containing the inscription ABM. DE CORREO, name of town, &c. This mark is frequently in coloured ink.

NATAL—NEVIS.—Post marks similar to that used in the Bahamas.

NEW BRUNSWICK.—An oval composed of black bars is the cancelling mark generally used in this colony.

NEWFOUNDLAND.—A transverse oval composed of black bars.

NEW SOUTH WALES.—The post marks used in this colony are various. That most frequently met with is a transverse oval, containing two others of smaller dimensions, the middle one of which encloses the letters NSW. In common with many others of the British colonies there is also an obliterating mark in use similar to that described under the head of "Bahamas." In addition to those already mentioned, there is a circular post mark composed of dots, and having the number in the centre, and also a circle containing name of town and date.

NEW ZEALAND.—The postage stamps of this colony are obliterated by means of a transverse composed of black bars, and having the number in the centre.

NICARAGUA.—The stamps are cancelled by two coloured pen-strokes, stretching from corner to corner.

NORWAY.—A circle enclosing name of town, and date in figures, is the obliterating mark used in this country.

NOVA SCOTIA.—Many of these stamps are obliterated by means of two crossed pen-strokes, stretching from corner to corner; but the mark most frequently used is a transverse oval composed of black bars.

OLDENBURG.—The post mark first used in this Grand Duchy, was an oblong, containing name of town, and date in figures, but which is now superseded by a circle containing a similar inscription.

FORGED STAMPS: HOW TO DETECT THEM:

BY EDWARD PEMBERTON.

SANDWICH ISLANDS.

Head of Kamehameha III., 2 c. pink,
5 c. blue, 13 c. vermillion.

Since the printing of my previous description of the forged Sandwich Islands, I have met with a fresh forgery of the 5 c., together with counterfeits of the 2 c. and 13 c. I believe they are meeting with a good circulation, so give the following descriptions, hoping they may save some of the numerous readers of this magazine from being victimised. To make this paper more complete I have written fresh descriptions of two other forgeries of the 5 c. Forgery No. 3 is the last issued, and the one which I allude to above—the forgeries of the 13 c. and the No. 3 of 5 c.—are not at all boldly executed; there is an uncertain “touch” about many of the lines, and the whole engraving has an indistinct unfinished look. Now, in the genuine 5 and 13 c. every line is clearly and boldly drawn. The forgery of the 2 c. is an excellent imitation: every little line is copied (or attempted) in a manner praiseworthy to the forger’s perseverance, but trying to that of the detector. The color of the real 2 c. is of a warmer tint than this forgery, for whilst the genuine one is of a pale pink color, the counterfeit is more red than pink. In the following descriptions, when I have said “the left arm,” I mean the arm on the left side of the stamp; or, “the right row of leaves,” the row to the right side of the stamp. I have thought it better to mention them as they really appear, to prevent confusion of ideas. In all the genuine 5 c. which I have seen, I have noticed that on the blue line above the words FIVE Cts. are two little blue dots, one just over the end of the F, and the other between the T and S. The 5 c. is therefore evidently printed from the same die as the 13 c., for the portrait of the king and the word Postage, &c., are exactly the same in both stamps; these two dots in the 5 c. are evidently the ends of these two lines in the 13 c. which enclose the words "Honolulu, Hawaiian Is.," and which being imperfectly erased, showed after the die was re-engraved for the 5 c. The genuine 5 c. is on very thin paper; 2 c. is on paper of an average thickness; and the 13 c. is on very thick paper. The forgeries are as follows: 2 c. on thicker paper than the real one; 5 c. Nos. 1 and 2, both on thick paper; No. 3 on thin very blue paper; 13 c. on rather thin dirty white paper, the genuine 13 c. is on a partially cream-tinted paper.

1861. 2 c. pink; inscription "Uku leta, Elua Keneta;" bust of King Kamehameha III.; value in top corners. Col. imp.; rect.

GENUINE.—Fig. 2 is quite straight. Shading of "Uku leta" done by a simple outline outside the letters, which are beautifully clear. The leaves forming the border on the left side are well done, two of them exceed the others in size, they are thin but not remarkably so. The shading of them is distinct in every line. The eyebrows seem to run into each other, but there is a very distinct white mark on the right eyelid. Hair is distinctly parted at the right side; hair shews white only on the top of head, just over right eye. The face is rounded, though a little square. Nose not much marked, but shading under the left eye and on the left cheek much deeper than elsewhere. Beard done better than in forgery, and can hardly be distinguished from the coat. Mouth not very clearly defined. Forehead has the shading lighter on the extreme right-hand (close to the hair) than elsewhere. Background is fine, but everywhere distinct.

FORGED.—Fig. 2 in left top corner not quite in the centre of the space; tail of 2 nearly touches the line at side. Shading of "Uku leta" looks coarse and indistinct, especially at the bottom. The letters are shaded by a simple line round them which runs into the letters in some places and causes the above coarse look. The leaves forming the border on the left side are poor in appearance, they are all much the same size, and are rather thin; the shading of them is not very distinct. There is a distinct space between the eyebrows, and there is no distinct parting to the hair; and the hair to the left looks white, also on the top of the head and on the right side. Face, where the hair meets forehead, quite square. Nose straight, marked on the left side by shading. Beard is well done, but looks very white; contrasts strongly with the coat on which it falls. Mouth very clearly defined. Forehead shaded all over, uniformly. Background fine, but indistinct in places.

FORGERY, No. I.

This forgery was made before the two which follow it.

GENUINE.—Figure 5 scarcely any, if at all, larger than the letters of the word Postage. Side spaces much narrower than the bottom one. Letters ii in Hawaiian are quite distinct. Forehead shaded all across. The whole of the face is shaded, except the nose. Epaulettes distinct and well marked. Hair is drawn naturally, without any spaces. Background of lines very dark and close to each other. Arms clearly traceable, and only a slight space, no strongly contrasting ones. Lines forming shading (which goes across the breast) are drawn straight across, and not slanted at all. It is on blue paper.

FORGED.—Figure 5 in top corners much larger than the letters of word Postage. Spaces at sides containing name, same size as space at bottom containing value; lettering at sides consequently larger than in the genuine. The letters ii in Hawaiian look like an n, and are not dotted. Forehead shaded only at sides. White spaces on several parts of the face. Epaulettes only shaded by four indistinct lines, not at all clear. Hair indicated by a few small curved dotted lines, leaving white spaces; one is especially large over centre of forehead. Background coarsely done. King's arms cannot be clearly traced where nearest the body; on each arm there is a white space, contrasting greatly with the dark background. Lines forming coat are drawn from left to right, slanting a good deal downwards. Forgery is a sixteenth of an inch wider than the genuine, and is on white paper.

FORGERY, No. II.

GENUINE.—Letters in Postage larger than in the forgery, and very distinct. S in I^s and CTS both printed straightly. Shading of forehead neatly done by dotted lines; dots are rounded; shading under right eye formed by crossed lines, and not dots. King's nose formed on the left side by a curved line. The whole face is shaded, except the nose, leaving no space anywhere else, though the shading is lighter in some places than others. Six buttons can be counted on either side of the leaves on the King's coat. Breast of coat—that part between the two rows of leaves—scarcely, if at all, lighter than the rest of coat; the lines are nearly as clear on either side the rows of buttons as between the leaves; these lines, as mentioned before, run straight across the breast. Both arms are alike in size. The shading is rather lighter on the outer margins of both arms; but there are no such white spaces as in the forgery. Background of dark lines very close together.

FORGED.—Letters in Postage not very clear, and badly shaped; S in I^s printed crookedly, and the S in CTS too. In the lines of dots on forehead forming shading, the dots are not round, and they look coarse and undecided. The shading of right cheek is badly done, the mouth and shading run into each other. King's nose formed by dots. There is a small white space, free from dots under the mouth, to the left. Only three or four buttons of the row on each side of the King's coat can be counted with certainty. Breast of coat is much lighter than the rest of the coat; the lines which are so distinct between the two rows of leaves cannot be distinguished after they pass the row of buttons on either side. The lines are a little sloped from left to right, though not nearly so as in No. I. forgery. Left arm not the same size as the other. On either arm there is a white space, largest in the right arm, which contrasts very strongly with deep blue shading below; the left arm curves strongly inwards, whilst the right is square and true. Background of dark lines drawn too widely apart, giving too white an appearance to the back of the stamp.

FORGERY, No. III.

GENUINE.—The second O in Honolulu is a trifle larger than the other. Lines forming shading quite regular, they are everywhere close and unbroken, and the eyebrows are well executed. Six buttons can be counted on either side of coat.

Epaulette on left shoulder has four distinct pendants, and one other partially visible. The edge of collar is white, but very distinct and clear. The line down the breast, though formed of two other lines, has no perceptible space between, there is only a very slight curve; this line comes direct from where the collar meets, and not from either side. The edge of the collar is therefore light, and the mark down the breast is dark, seeming one line, though really it is of two excessively fine ones. Leaves are scarcely more than outlined, consequently are very plain. No white spaces, although the shading is rather lighter on the outer margins of both arms.

FORGED.—There is a slight space between the second a and ii of Hawaiian, and the last u in Honolulu is a trifle larger than the other. Lines forming shading of face very much broken, leaving unequal and rough-looking spaces on the forehead and cheeks. The King appears to be without eyebrows, and has in fact only apologies for them. Buttons on coat are indistinct, and cannot be counted with any certainty. Of the pendants or pieces of fringe on the left shoulder epaulette, two only are distinct; there is one other which is indistinct. The edge of collar of coat is white, though rather narrow; at the place where the coat meets over the breast there is a mark which is formed of two blue lines, with a distinct white space between; this line is curved half way down in an awkward manner, and seems to be the continuation of the edge of the collar from the left side. Leaves on coat shaded at edges, more especially the row on the right side; this makes them indistinct. The leaves are not uniform; king's arms narrow, a white space on the right one, and a smaller one on the left.

13 c. vermilion Inscription Postage Hawaiian, 5 c. United States, 8c. Honolulu, Hawaiian Is., 13 c. Bust, &c., as last.

GENUINE.—The whole face is shaded, except the nose, leaving no space anywhere else, though the shading is lighter in some places than others; nose formed on the left side by a curved line. Same as 5 c., as regards line down coat. Both Epau-lettes strongly shaded by deep lines of colour. Both rows of leaves very clear, buttons very distinct; no buttons on the right side till the same level as the second leaf; the leaves, though in pairs, are not exactly opposite, especially in the right row. The figure 8 is broad and substantial, and is the same size as the S preceding it. Background very dark; is just as deep in colour as the background to the word postage. Colour, very deep vermilion; on a very slightly cream tinted paper.

very coarse appearance. Line down breast of coat same as in the forgery No. III., of 5 c. Right epaulette is scarcely shaded at all, the left one is shaded with a few poor-looking lines. Left row of leaves straight and smaller than the right row, which is curved; left row of leaves and buttons clear, right one indistinct. Figure 8 on right side very thin and attenuated, it is rather larger than the S immediately preceding it. Background is lighter than the colour against which the word "postage" shews up in white. Colour poor, rather a washy brick red, on white.

STAMPS LATELY ISSUED.

We have great pleasure in being able to present our readers with engravings of two entirely new stamps; one already in use, the other, we are informed, not yet issued to the public of the country whence it emanates.

The first named we have received from Norway; we cannot give the exact date of issue, but it must have been quite recently, we presume the 1st instant. It is printed in brown on white paper.

The second one is a beautiful specimen of engraving, and comes from Jamaica; a description is quite unnecessary, as the representation is a most faithful one. It will therefore be sufficient if we inform our readers that it is printed in green on white paper, with perforated edges, like the other stamps of the same island. A writer in Cassell's Paper speaks of "a label, not yet we believe in circulation, which is designed as a 3d. stamp," and gives an illustration of one with which many collectors are familiar, viz., the 3d. bill stamp of Jamaica, this we need not say is entirely erroneous.

We have also to notice the issue of the long-talked-of French 4 cents, which we engrave. It is, as will be seen, quite similar to its predecessor, the 2 cents, differing only in the figure and colour, which in the last issued one is grey.

A new local stamp has also appeared in St. Petersburg, value 5 kop., printed in black and grey on white paper.

POSTAL REFORM.

The rates upon international correspondence will be adapted to one scale of weight, and one tariff of charges will be the same in all countries; and the wearisome and disgusting variations between Italian and Austrian, Belgian and Prussian, Swedish and Danish rates, at once and for ever got rid of. International postal accounts are to be simplified as much as possible, and offices of exchange are to be abolished, except for the correction of errors in the despatching office. Finally, the parties joining in the convention will be called upon to determine the standard of weight and scale of payment, which, when once settled, will not be departed from; and, "as high transit charges upon correspondence present an insurmountable obstacle to the establishment of an international system of correspondence upon conditions advantageous to the public, the transit charge for each country shall never be higher than one-half of the interior rate of the transit country; and, for countries of small territorial extent, the transit charge shall be even less." Thus, if we can send a letter five hundred miles abroad for four-pence, it will no longer be competent for some petty German principality to charge eight-pence for the transmission of the letter through its Lilliputian territory.

Such is a brief summary of the leading features in this remarkable scheme, which we hope to see ere long carried to maturity. Whether the Pope's co-operation can be relied on is, of course a delicate question. Nor is it certain how the Sultan will receive the plan, or in what manner it will be appreciated by the Roumain Prince Couza, whose post-masters have hitherto been distinguished more by a propensity for stealing letters than for delivering them. The Russians, on the other hand, when they get anything within their own borders, are ordinarily inclined to deal with it according to their own notions; and Muscovite notions respecting the sanctity of private correspondence are peculiar. It is in all sincerity, and with an earnest wish for the success of the plans laid down by the Paris Postal Convention, that we warn them against certain rocks ahead, which, if not carefully avoided, will assuredly cause the shipwreck of the entire enterprise. The foreign Post-offices must abandon not only their cumbrousness and their sluggishness, but their mean and shabby and fraudulent ways. The "international" public must be guaranteed, ere they place confidence in "international" postal reform, against the villanous tampering with private letters, and the scandalous detention of newspapers, which are at present the scandal of every Continental Post-office from Paris to Pesth. A reform in the last respect might usefully begin very near home—to wit, in the big Hotel des Postes his Majesty Napoleon III. is about to build. It would be as well, also, if the clerks appointed under the new international system were compelled to come to their duties a little earlier, and to attend to them a little later. Post-office clerks, like other people, have a right to eat and to sleep; but there should be relays in official life; for it is not pleasant to be told abroad, when you wish to prepay a letter, that Herr This is having his Mittag-essen, or that Signor That has retired to his siesta; and, in conclusion, we might suggest to the eminent gentlemen on whom the task of organising the new system will devolve, the propriety of having in every important bureau de poste restante at least one clerk who can speak French or English. Thousands of Smiths would be eternally grateful for this last trifling provision; and thousands of Smiths are continually travelling.—Daily Telegraph.

Orders for Advertisements, as well as all other communications, should reach us as much as possible before the 6th of each month.

BY THOMAS WILLIAM KITT.

PART II.

CHAPTER I., concluded.

POSTAL OBLITERATING MARKS.

TTOMAN EMPIRE.—A mark composed of black dots is used by the Turkish post office.

PARAGUAY.—These stamps, although generally recognised as essays, have been found obliterated by a diamond-shaped post-mark composed of dots, and having the letters L P in the centre.

PARMA.—A circle enclosing name of town, and date in figures is the post mark frequently found on the stamps of this Duchy.

PERU.—The obliterating marks found on the first issued stamps of this country are a circle enclosing another of smaller dimensions, having the name of town at the top in the space between the two and the date in the centre; and secondly, an oval composed of dots, having a space (same shape as mark) left in the centre for the name of town. Black crossed bars are now used.

PORTUGAL.—One of the first marks used by the postal authorities of this country was a circle composed of black parallel bars and having an oval space left in the centre for the number. A mark of later introduction is an oval composed of dots, and having the number in a square in the centre.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND.—The postage stamps of this colony are obliterated by an oval composed of black bars.

PRUSSIA.—The mark most frequently found on the stamps composing the two first issues of this country, is a circle enclosing three others of smaller dimensions, the middle one of which contains the number. This appears to have been superseded by an oblong, containing name of town and date in figures. The mark last described is still in use, together with a circle enclosing a similar inscription.

QUEENSLAND.—The post mark principally used in this colony is an oval containing two others of smaller dimensions, the middle one of which encloses the number (in some cases the latter is wanting). In addition to the mark already described, there are in use two others, viz., a circle composed of dots, and a large oblong enclosing the word PAID above and the name of town below.

ROMAGNA.—These stamps are obliterated by a diamond-shaped post mark composed of black bars, and, in some few instances, by a circle enclosing another of smaller dimensions, having the name of town at the top in the space between the two, and the date in the centre.

RUSSIA.—Circular and oblong post marks composed of dots, with a space (same shape as mark) left in centre for the number, are used for the obliteration of these stamps.

FINLAND.—Many of these stamps are cancelled by two crossed pen-strokes, stretching from corner to corner, while others bear the imprint of a circle enclosing date, &c.

POLAND.—Post mark a circle enclosing three others of smaller dimensions, the centre one of which contains the number.

ST. HELENA.—The postage stamps of this island are obliterated by a transverse oval containing another of smaller dimensions, which latter encloses the date, and at the top, in the space between the ovals, is the name ST. HELENA. Many of the stamps are obliterated by a series of blotches in red ink, totally devoid of shape or design.

ST. LUCIA.—The post mark used in this colony is a transverse oval composed of three parallel lines at top and bottom, a curved line on each side, and the number in the centre.

ST. VINCENT.—Post mark similar in design to that of St. Lucia, but having two curved lines on each side.

SANDWICH ISLANDS.—Post mark, a circle enclosing the name SANDWICH ISLANDS, overarching the date.

SAXONY.—The first post mark used in this country was a circle composed of crossed lines. This mark was afterwards altered; a small circular space being left in the centre for the number. Many of the stamps are obliterated by a circle enclosing another of smaller dimensions, the name of town being at the top in the space between the two, and the date in figures in the centre.

SIERRA LEONE.—Post mark similar in design to that of St. Vincent.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA.—The post marks principally used in this colony are an oval composed of black bars, with diamond-shaped space left in the centre for the number, and a broken circle enclosing name of town and date.

SPAIN.—The rare old Madrid stamps (the first issue in Spain) appear to be obliterated, with but few exceptions, by two crossed pen-strokes stretching from corner to corner. The mark most frequently found on the stamps composing the issue of 1850, is composed of black curved lines, and in design is somewhat confused. From 1851 to 1854 an oval of black bars was the principal post mark used, and in the three subsequent years, the stamps appear to have been obliterated most frequently by a circle containing another of smaller dimensions, which latter enclosed the number. On the stamps of 1853, and those now in use, may be found a circle enclosing another of smaller dimensions, having the word CORREO at the top, and the name of town at the bottom in the space between the two, and the date in the centre.

CUBA, HAYTI, AND PORTO RICO.—One of the first marks used for the obliteration of these stamps, was a transverse oval composed of crossed lines, and having stars at the angles. (See engraving.) A circular post mark is found on some of the stamps, but that now in use is composed of black bars.

ISLAND OF LUZON (Philippines).—The post mark principally found on the now very rare early-issued stamps of this island is composed of dots; but that now in use is a circle containing another of smaller dimensions, having the name of town at the top, and that of the island LUZON at the bottom in the space between the two, and the date in the centre.

STATES OF THE CHURCH.—Post marks of various forms, but principally diamond-shaped and composed of black bars.

SWEDEN.—A circle containing name of town above, date in figures below, and number in the centre, is used for the obliteration of stamps on letters to foreign countries, while those used for local postage are cancelled by a circle with projecting points or rays, and enclosing the number.

SWITZERLAND (Cantonal Administration): BASLE.—A post mark of black bars was used for the obliteration of these stamps.

GENEVA.—These stamps were obliterated by a cross surrounded by curved lines. (See engraving.) The impression is generally in red ink.

NEUCHÂTEL.—Post mark similar to that of Basle, both in black and blue ink.

VAUD.—The post mark found on these stamps is, in design, somewhat similar to that of Geneva, but is without the circular ornament in the centre, instead of which, the lines meet at that point.

ZURICH.—The mark used for the obliteration of these stamps is, as will be seen from the accompanying engraving, a variation of that of Geneva, and is found impressed both in black and red ink.

GERMAN AND FRENCH CANTONS.—These stamps are generally found post marked by the letters PD in black ink.

SWITZERLAND (Federal Administration).—The old stamps with "white cross on red shield" are obliterated by black bars. A circle enclosing name of town above, inscription BRITFEXPEDITION below, and the date and number in the centre, is found on the stamps of 1854 and 1855; while for the obliteration of those now in use, a circle containing another of smaller dimensions, having the name of town at the top in the space between the two, and the date and number in the centre, is used.

TASMANIA.—The rare old blue 1d. stamps of this island are obliterated by an octangular post mark containing the number. The marks now in use are a transverse oval composed of parallel straight and upright curved lines. (See engraving.) And also a mark of similar shape consisting of four parallel lines at top and bottom, and three curved lines on each side, the number being in the centre.

TRINIDAD.—Post mark similar to that of St. Vincent.

TUSCANY.—The letters PD in an oblong, with rounded corners, is the post mark found on many of these stamps. The bordering appears to have been at one time dispensed with, several specimens exhibiting the letters only. There were also in use a circle containing merely the date, and a circle containing another of smaller dimensions, the name of town being at the top in the space between the two, and the date in the centre.

TWO SICILIES: NAPLES.—These stamps were obliterated by an oblong containing inscription.

SICILY.—The post mark found on these stamps is, perhaps, one of the most pleasing which has up to the present time been in use. It may be described as a double-lined ornamental oblong (see engraving), and is usually found impressed on the stamps in an upright position.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.—The post marks found on these stamps are various. One of the first used was a circle enclosing the name of town overarching the date. This was succeeded by a circle enclosing another of smaller dimensions, which latter is surrounded by a number of projecting points not contiguous to it. Many of the stamps are obliterated by a circle composed of black bars, while others exhibit a circle enclosing another of smaller dimensions, the name of town being at the top in the space between the two, and the date in the centre. A mark of recent introduction is a circle divided into a number of triangular compartments, by blank spaces left for that purpose. (See engraving.)

These marks are subject to many variations, and are frequently found in blue ink.

VENEZUELA.—These stamps are obliterated by a circle containing another of smaller dimensions, having the word CORREO at the top, and a star on either side dividing it from the name of town at the bottom in the space between the two, and the date in the centre.

VICTORIA.—A mark of early introduction in this colony, was a crown surmounting name of town and date, and arranged in the form of a circle. This was at length superseded by a transverse oval composed of three parallel lines at top and bottom, three curved lines on each side, and the number in the centre. A variation of this mark is frequently met with, the three curved lines on each side being dispensed with, and the name VICTORIA inserted in the place of the number. The following marks are also found on these stamps—an upright oval with projecting points, enclosing the number above, and V the initial letter of the colony below, and also a circle enclosing name of town and date.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA.—The mark used in this colony is a circle composed of black bars, with space (same shape as mark) left in the centre for the number. This is frequently in coloured ink.

WURTEMBERG.—A circle enclosing the name of town overarching the date, was the first mark used in this country, and is frequently found in coloured ink. A similar mark is still used, but having the date surrounded by an inner circle.

FORGED STAMPS: HOW TO DETECT THEM:

BY EDWARD PEMBERTON.

XXIV. BAVARIA.

The figure 3 is solid throughout, without veining in it. The word "Drei" is at the right hand, "Franco" at the bottom, and "Kreuzer," at the left hand. This is a wretchedly executed lithograph, and an impudent forgery. No such stamp ever existed. There is also a photograph of the old 1 kreuzer in circulation.

XXV. CAPRERA.

The following barefaced forgery is now being sold in London as a Caprera stamp. It hardly necessary to say that there never have been stamps for that island. We borrow the description from Dr. Gray:—"It was a water-colour drawing, somewhat like the Tuscan arms and crown; but the frame was inscribed, 'Postal Caprera Italia', (which means nothing, the literal translation is 'Postal Caprera Italy') 1 scudo, and dated 1.8.60. in the angles. The letters are painted on with white lead, instead of being left white by the printing, as they would be in a real stamp."

* (See No. 3, page 26.)

XXVI. NICARAGUA.

1862. Mountains, with cap of liberty
5 centavos black.

A person in London has been selling at 1s. each representations of this stamp. Although he tells everybody that they are merely fac-similes, and not the real stamps, we cannot but help thinking that he is acting wrongly; for less scrupulous dealers than himself will sell them as genuine; thus collectors will have to examine each Nicaragua stamp they may get, very carefully. Again, these imitations, as such, are by far the best executed of any we have seen. The regularly forged stamps are wretched in comparison with these, and, therefore, all the more caution will be required to detect them. We give the difference:—

GENUINE.—Figure 5 in the corners, short and very broad. The letters "C" in "Cinco" are exactly like the "C" in "Centavos." Front mountain lower than the second, black one. The tip of the cap hangs over without touching the rest of the cap. The letters are all very thick, and the "N" and "i" of "Nicaragua" touch each other.

FORGED.—Figure 5 in the corners is longer and narrower than in genuine stamp. The top of the "C" in "Cinco" is singularly elongated. The front mountain is almost on a level with the other. The tip touches the cap. The letters are thinner than in original and do not touch each other.

STAMPS LATELY ISSUED.

SINCE our last notice under this heading, we have received information of the issue of a larger number of new stamps than we have ever had the pleasure of laying before our readers.

We subjoin a descriptive list only, but hope in our next to give engravings of some specimens.

BAHAMAS.—1s. green, impressed on white paper, diademed head of Queen Victoria to left in an oval, name at the top of stamp and value at the bottom.

CAPE OF GOOD HOPE.—Square stamps, value 6d. and 1s.; color and device unknown as yet.

HONG KONG.—(Issued August, 1863,) 4 c. blue-green, 6 c. lilac, and 30 c. vermilion. These stamps are watermarked with a crown.

MAURITIUS.—(Issued 1st Sept., 1863,) 3d. vermilion, and 5s. violet, same design as those already in use.

NORWAY.—8 sk. rose, similar in design to the 24 sk., engraved in No. 11 Review.

ST. HELENA.—1d. and 4d. struck from the same die as the 6d. blue; in brick red for the 1d., and carmine for the 4d. stamps, respectively. The word "sixpence" is partly obliterated by a black line, above which is the value in black letters.

ROLLING POST-OFFICES FOR THE RAIL.

THE latest novelties on the South-Western Railway are the improved rolling post-offices. They are superior large passenger carriages in point of size and workmanship, and are fitted up with letter-boxes, stamping benches, writing desks, moveable seats, and brilliant swinging lamps. To prevent injury to the clerks and sorters, in case of a collision, the ends are padded, and they also open, and platforms can be let down to form a communication between two offices. Letters and newspapers between the times of posting and delivery have to be examined, charged with postage if necessary, recorded if registered, sorted, counted, and placed in bags; but, owing to the vast amount of correspondence, there is not room in the ordinary post-office for such operations. On the South-Western line, between London and Weymouth, there are about twenty post towns. Formerly, when a mail train started from Waterloo Station, it had a bag for each of those towns, and one of these was dropped, and bags for all succeeding post towns taken in at each station, so that by the time the train was half way on its journey, there was an accumulation of a hundred bags or so in the train. The rolling post-offices prevent this accumulation. Each post town sends but one bag to the train, and the correspondence for the next post town is picked out of this bag by the time the train reaches the station. It is not even necessary now to stop at each station for postal purposes, apparatus having been invented by which a bag can be dropped, and another taken in, while the train is in rapid motion.

HAMBURG FORGERIES.

Messrs. Spiro Brothers, extensive Stamp Dealers in the above town, have addressed a circular on the subject of forgeries to their correspondents in this country, the following extracts from which we place at the disposal of our readers, to whom the information will doubtless prove interesting.

"On forwarding the annexed circular we avail ourselves of the opportunity to call your attention to a new species of counterfeit, the manufacturers of which we regret to say reside in this town. They are those of value not indicated;

and easily recognizable by the smaller print of the characters, as well as the uniformity of the colours and lithography in all the three sorts.

1861.—Nevis. Two editions, roughly executed, bad lithography, not perforated, the printed characters too large in the one and two small in the other.

1855.—Norway. "Frimarke" and "4 skilling," small and indistinct; the colour light blue ultramarine, instead of blue verditer, lithography instead of hylography.

Commission fur Retourbrief.

Lithography, the print black and blotted and too small characters.

It is much to be lamented, that the wicked mania of counterfeiting is carried on to such an extent in this place, that one day or another we run the risk of seeing Hamburg stigmatized by all collectors of stamps. Yet it must be acknowledged that this dishonourable practice is encouraged chiefly by the want of caution on the part of foreign dealers, in forming connections, mostly placing their confidence in young men, many of them just escaped from school and finding it easy to make money by dealing in stamps."

ORIGIN OF POSTAGE STAMPS.

FOUR-AND-TWENTY years ago penny postage was unknown; but the propriety and practicability of the plan was being freely discussed, and chemical and artistic ingenuity, as well as the ingenuity of the financier, was busily occupied in devising labels which should recommend themselves to adoption by artistic beauty, and baffle the nefarious manufacturers of counterfeits by changes of colour under chemical tests, rigidly kept secret from all but the initiated. These experiments arose soon after Mr. (afterwards Sir) Rowland Hill proposed, in 1837, the penny postage system. A royal commission was appointed, but nothing came of the result of its deliberations; then the House of Commons was besieged with petitions—320 in number, bearing 38,709 signatures; then a committee was appointed to examine the merits of the question, and reported favourably on the change proposed; then a London mercantile postage association was formed, and subscriptions poured in; then came meetings and the issue of tracts and pamphlets, and the getting up of 2,007 petitions, bearing 262,809 signatures; and finally, Parliament declared in favour of the scheme.

But it must not be supposed that Rowland Hill was the only man who ever contemplated cheap postage labels. In 1830, Mr. Charles Whiting, a printer, suggested to the post office authorities what he called go-frees, which should frank letters passing through the post, after the same style as is done by our modern postage stamp. Mr. Stead, of Yarmouth, at a later period, counselled the employment of stamped paper in lieu of money payment to the post.

Rowland Hill's original proposition was that of stamped letter-paper; this was succeeded by a stamped envelope; the third suggestion being the adhesive postage label now so commonly in use.

The first stamped cover was presented to Parliament by Mr Hill, on the 7th of February, 1838. It was proposed that two sorts of envelopes should be used. The first was that of a printed design, bearing the post office stamp, and printed on the half-sheet of letter-paper, so as to admit of the paper being folded with the printed design outside, space being left for the name and address. The second was the envelope, commonly so called, the paper being cut and gummed together to a convenient size to contain the inclosure.

After the covers of Mr. Rowland Hill, those of Mr. Whiting were submitted to the committee of the House of Commons. The paper bore the impression of an engraved vignette, printed in colours. The inscription which one of these covers bore was, "Post-office, printed matter under one ounce, price 1d.;" another, "Post-office, written matter under one drachm, price 2d." Mr. Whiting recommended the use, in printing, of two or more colours.

Mr. Whiting subsequently suggested a moveable stamp. This was a square label, printed in blue, on white paper, and covered in parts by four red rays, forming a Maltese cross, and four others forming a

St. Andrew's Cross. In the centre was royal crown; to the left and right the initials, "V. R.;" in the upper portion of the surrounding circle, "Principle suggested;" below, "Beaufort House;" and at the corners, "A 3," and "C. W."

To be continued in our next.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

W. S. EVERETT.—The 5 c. New York (See engraving) was we believe a Government

Stamp, though local, and therefore we think Mr. Brown is in error in classing it with the special or private postage stamps of the United States.

E. PARKER.—The stamp you mention is an "essay" to swindle confiding collectors. The manner in which it is executed is sufficient to condemn it as fictitious.

W. S. PEARSON.—We have seen the essays of the new American 2 cents stamp, printed in five colours, viz.; drab, brown, slate, pink, and orange.

R. LEFEVRE.—The 2 reales Spain of the present issue is frequently printed on pink paper, as also are some of the other denominations of the same country.

FRANCO BOLLO.—We observe a recent provision made by the Papal Post Office, fixing 2 bajocchi as the uniform rate of postage in the Papal Dominions.

MISS EDWARDS.—A description of Essay Stamps with several engravings appeared in number 5 of this Magazine. We have lately seen a 5 c. New Brunswick printed in blue.

A COLLECTOR.—We describe the stamp you name in the present number.—The 1s. Trinidad is now a puce color.

E. GASCH (Rostock).—You had better advertise your Collection as for sale, stating a price.

J. W. LEWIS (Wellington).—We have in our possession, English Newspaper Stamps, value $\frac{1}{2}$ d., 1d., $3\frac{1}{2}$ d., & 4d.

HENRY L.—You are right, in supposing your New Orleans and Nashville to be merely fac-similes.

G. F. GEORGE.—We know there exists five different shades of colour of the 10 cents Italian stamp. There are two distinct shades of the 10 cent Tuscany.

S. A. TAYLOR (Montreal).—There are about half-a-dozen firms in this country who use embossed stamps, with address printed round their edges. Collectors, however, do not generally look upon them as separate varieties.

 Orders for Advertisements, as well as all other communications, should reach us as much as possible before the 6th of each month.

STAMP-COLLECTORS' REVIEW

AND

MONTHLY ADVERTISER.

No. 13.

DECEMBER 15, 1863.

PRICE 2d.

TO OUR READERS.

IN issuing the last number of their volume, the publishers of the Stamp Collector's Review, desire to thank their subscribers and contributors for the kind support they have received.

Though the circulation of the Magazine is by no means inconsiderable, yet the increased desire now manifested for the collection of Postage Stamps, inclines them to hope that this circulation will be doubled during the year that is to come. They will still endeavour to make it worthy of support by affording the earliest and most reliable information upon topics interesting to collectors, and engraving rare and newly-issued varieties.

An unused stamp will still be presented gratis with each number.

Advertisements will be inserted at the following moderate charges:—

Under 20 words	1s. 0d.
" 40 "	1s. 6d.
" 60 "	2s. 3d.
" 80 "	2s. 9d.
" 120 "	4s. 0d.
" 200 "	6s. 0d.
" 300 "	8s. 6d.

On orders for six insertions a reduction will be made in the charge, with liberty to change the advertisement.

BY THOMAS WILLIAM KITT.

PART II.—CHAPTER II.

POSTAGE STAMP WATERMARKS.

WATERMARKS, now so extensively adopted for the prevention of forgery in the manufacture of papers representing a money value, and for divers other purposes, are found peculiarly adaptable for the protection of the postal authorities in the preparation of their postage stamps. The watermark, (now no recent introduction) is, as a collection of postage stamps will show, largely patronised by the governments of the world. It is to the stamp collector in every instance where present an important clue to the genuineness of doubtful specimens, and is therefore deserving of some attention. The designs employed are varied and frequently curious, but consist principally of some emblem peculiar to the country in whose stamps they may be found. That emblem of regal power, a crown, is a watermark frequently met with, and may be observed in the English 1d. labels, also in the stamps of Denmark, St.

Thomas, and several of the British Colonies. The "figure indicating value" is a mark equally common, and appears in the stamps of Chili, Ionian Islands, New South Wales, Tasmania, and other countries. The value of the stamp is also sometimes watermarked in words, as exemplified by the Victoria 1d, green (head to left, no devices in corners.) Many of the British colonial stamps are watermarked by a star, of which design Ceylon and St. Lucia furnish specimens. The post-horn, a device very common in Germany is found watermarked in some of the stamps of Brunswick, while specimens of the early issues of Prussia exhibit two branches of laurel, which are crossed at the bottom, and at the top turned inwards, so as almost to meet. The watermark is in some few instances the only distinction between stamps of different issues as shown by two respective emissions of Spain and Cuba. The stamps issued by those countries, in 1855, and two following years, are in design precisely similar, and can only be distinguished by a slight examination of the paper on which they are printed. The specimens issued in 1855, will be found to bear the watermark in curves, those of 1856 have the watermark, lines crossed diagonally, while those of 1857 are without watermark, thus clearly showing that these stamps form three distinct emissions. The watermarks not yet alluded to consist of curved or crossed lines (Tuscany furnishes specimens of the former) and various other simple designs, including circles, squares, and ovals, of which latter Great Britain and Switzerland have issued varieties.

CHAPTER III.

PREPARED PAPER FOR POSTAGE STAMPS. The prepared paper used in the manufacture of postage stamps may be divided into two classes, viz., that bearing the watermark, which, being a subject of importance, has been noticed in a separate chapter, and that in which is inserted the coloured silk thread. The silk thread system, at one time adopted by England and several foreign governments, has at the present day but few patrons, it having been in many instances superseded by the watermark. Among the early advocates of this now almost abandoned system may be mentioned England, and the revolted duchies of Schleswig-Holstein. The well-known "Mulready" envelopes and covers, and the more recently issued embossed stamps of the former country have these lines of silk thread woven in the paper of which they are made. The "Mulready" cover, value 1d., has two horizontal lines of rose-coloured silk thread inserted in the paper at one flap, while in the other is inserted a single line of blue silk. In the twopenny cover, two additional lines of silk are added, there being three rose-coloured in one flap, and two blue in the other. The Schleswig-Holstein stamps have a thread of silk woven in the paper, from top to bottom, of the same colour as the ink with which they are printed. Bavaria and Switzerland also furnish specimens of stamps made on the Dickinson plan, i. e., having the silken thread woven through them, and the colours of silk employed are varied. The quality of the paper is, with many stamps, a sufficient proof of genuineness, but in subjecting doubtful specimens to this test, great caution is necessary. The Sandwich Islands and Swiss cantonal stamps are specimens to which this paper test may be applied with safety. The genuine stamps of the Sandwich Islands, will be found to have the quality of paper on which they are printed, as follows: 2 c., ribbed paper of an average thickness; 5 c., very thin paper; 13 c., very thick, slightly cream-tinted, paper. With but few exceptions, the genuine Swiss cantonal stamps are printed on yellowish and not pure white paper, and on comparing them with fictitious specimens, the difference in this, as in other respects, will be apparent.

CONCLUSION.

The various modes of detecting forged postage stamps having been described in the preceding chapters, nothing now remains but to make a few remarks respecting two additional species of counterfeits, known under the titles of "chemically changed" and "imaginary" labels. The chemically changed specimens comprise a somewhat extensive class of forgery, and as their cognomen will lead us to infer consist of those genuine stamps which are changed in colour by chemical agency or other causes. The stamps subjected to these chemical changes are generally the commoner specimens, and the following are the principal alterations in colour effected by the process:—

- Blue to black or drab,
- Green to blue or yellow,
- Pink to white or drab.

On reference to a catalogue of postage stamps, where are described all bona fide specimens, the uninitiated collector will be at once enabled to repudiate these impositions. The "imaginary" labels comprise a much smaller class of counterfeits, and, to use the words of an experienced writer on the subject, consist of "stamps entirely fictitious and which never had an existence except in the imagination of the originator." These specimens usually make their appearance in the shape of "new issues" and frequently as obsolete varieties "just discovered," but like all other counterfeits introduced by the forger to the detriment of the unwary, by dint of a little trouble (productive of an increased experience) on the part of the collector, the imposition will be made apparent.

AN anonymous author circulated in 1838 or 1839 a printed note, without either address or date, in which he declared that envelopes were unnecessary; that letters should be written on a sheet of stamped paper, or that a stamp should be used having an adhesive reverse, which should be attached to the letter, and should be obliterated in passing through the Post Office. The stamps were to be square; to be printed in black on white paper. Four were suggested, bearing respectively the following inscription:—"Post Office, under half oz. weight. 1d.;" "Post Office, under one oz. weight. 2d.;" "Post Office, under two oz. weight. 4d.;" "Post Office, under three oz. weight. 6l."

While the proposition of stamped paper was under discussion, the paper makers very naturally became alarmed. Under Rowland Hill's original plan, a large part of the trade would have become the monopoly of Government. The paper was to be prepared and sold by the Government; everybody who wrote must write on Government paper. This was the occasion of serious opposition; and it is obvious that the plan of cheap postage would have failed if this monopoly had been permitted. Moveable adhesive stamps were the remedy, and to the adoption of these public attention was directed. Various designs were suggested as appropriate for these labels; among the rest the following:—

Within the square is enclosed an oval, crossed by six red rays; on the bordering, are the words, "Post Office permit, to carry matter not exceeding in weight," and in the centre, " $\frac{1}{4}$ ounce, 1d."

Another is printed in colours on a white ground. We are acquainted with four examples of this stamp. 1d, red ground blue letters; 2, black ground, red letters; 3, blue ground, red letters; 4, green ground, red letters. The design is waved or engine-turned, and comprises an oval contained in a square; the inscription, "Not to exceed half ounce;" in the centre, "1 penny." At the four corners the numeral "1d.;" to the right and left, "V.R."

The system of the penny post having been finally adopted, the Lords of the Treasury offered premiums for the best methods of carrying out the plan, and about three thousand competitors entered the field. Each of these, or nearly so, submitted designs for postage labels. The following examples are among those submitted:—

Printed in green on white paper, intended as the stamp for a cover of 1d. postage. Printed in black on white paper, bears in an oval the effigy of the Queen crowned, the head turned to the left. In the bordering above, is the inscription, "Postage, 1d., half oz.;" and below is a small bouquet, formed of the rose, thistle, and shamrock. An example of this stamp is in existence, printed in sky-blue on white paper.

Printed in marone on white paper. It bears the effigy of the Queen, crowned, the head turned to the left; on the bordering is the inscription, "Postage, one penny." Examples of this stamp are to be had, printed in red-brown.

In the various propositions laid before Parliament for the working of the penny postage system, that of the employment of "covers" was, at the outset, the most generally approved. Mr. Whiting recommended that the covers used should be printed in two or three different colours, and that the design and execution should be especially directed against the possibility of fraudulent imitations. An engine-turning machine, producing effects similar to those on engine-turned watches, was suggested, and a complicated but graceful design was published by Mr. Whiting as a sample of what he proposed. The vignette, which appeared in the "Post Circular," April 30, 1839, was printed in lilac, and others in bright green. The interior of this cover contained a warm appeal in favour of postal reform. The designs bore in the centre of the upper part the initials 'V. R.;" to the left, the words "Post Office," and to the right, "Permit;" below the inscription, "Price One Penny; matter not to exceed in weight half an ounce."

The cover suggested by Mr. Wyld (1838-9) consisted of half a sheet of paper, made up in the form of a letter; one face was left white, the other presented in the centre an engraved vignette, printed in chamois colour, or clear bistre. The space reserved for the address was enclosed within a double framework; the first formed by foliage, the second by a vine-leaf, upon which were represented four female figures; above, in white embossed letters, "Postage prepaid." A postage stamp, adhesive, was to be applied to that portion of the cover on which were the words, "Postage prepaid." This label, circular in form, had in the centre the royal initials, and around it, "Cancelled, post-paid." The letter written on this stamped cover was to be labelled by the Post-office authorities, and pass free.

Various other samples were submitted, some of them remarkable for beauty of design, and others conspicuous only by the absence of everything approaching artistic grace; the main object in both instances being to baffle the forger, as it was expected that diligent delinquency would be turning a dishonest penny by the postal alterations. These apprehensions were groundless. With the introduction of the simple postal label—the profile portrait of the Queen,—the dread of imitation apparently disappeared, and the circulation of letters increased enormously.

The number of letters circulated in 1839 was 75,908,000; in 1840 it rose to 160,768,000; 1841 to 1850, 277,392,000; from 1850 to 1860, to 469,532,000; and from 1860 to 1861, to 593,240,000.

The increase in the decennial period, 1851 to 1860, over that of 1841 to 1850, is 69 in the 100; and 1861, compared with 1840, shows an increase of 250 on every 100. The population of the United Kingdom in 1861 was 29,031,164; the average to each person of letters forwarded, 20 in 1861, and 16 in 1854. The proportion as to countries was, England and Wales, 24; Scotland, 18; and Ireland, 9. Correspondence also marks the progress of commercial and intellectual activity in different parts of the country. The proportion of letters received by each person in London during the year, is 47; Edinburgh, 43; Dublin, 40; Bristol, 33; Manchester, 31; Birmingham, 30; and Liverpool, 26.

STAMPS LATELY ISSUED.

THE new Italian stamps are to come into general use on 1st January, 1864. They number eight specimens, two of which we engrave, viz: 1 centesimo figure, dark green; the other seven bearing head of Victor Emmanuel, in oval to left, 5 centesimi, greenish slate; 10 c., brown; 15 c., light blue; 30 c., brown; 40 c., carmine; 60 c., mauve; and 2 lire scarlet, all printed in color on white and perforated.

Hanover issues a new variety of the 3 Pfennige on New Year's Day.

It will be noticed that instead of being inscribed "Ein drittel Silbergroschen" (one third) it reads "Drei Zehntel Silbergroschen" (three tenths). The color of the specimen we furnish an engraving of is green.

Special postage stamps are about to be issued, we hear, in Egypt, for franking letters in the interior of the country. They are to be manufactured in England, by a firm which supplies such articles to many of the states of Europe.

We are just in time to notice that the New Italians are already in use, a letter having been franked with them to us.

We hope in our next paper to furnish our readers with descriptions and engravings of numerous expected emissions which are to take place on New Year's Day.

FORGED STAMPS: HOW TO DETECT THEM:

BY EDWARD PEMBERTON.

THE following forgeries have been in circulation for some time past; they are both different from those of the same country previously described in No. 4. of this magazine.

SWITZERLAND.

1850. Ortsport, value $2\frac{1}{4}$ rap., used for the German Cantons.

GENUINE.—Printed on unglazed white paper. The black curved line in right hand top corner is divided, and its two ends curved and ornamented; they are very thin; the ends are not pointed, but have a dot at each extreme. The end which is turned to the right extends farther than in the forgery. (The curved line in left hand top corner agrees with above description in both the forged and genuine stamp.) The post horn is shaded very light, and is curved outwards.

FORGED.—Printed on slightly glazed white paper. The black line in right hand upper corner is simply divided, its two extremes being pointed. The end which is turned to the right stops just over the S in "Post." The post horn is shaded very strongly; the part to the right hand does not look natural, and it is not curved outwards as in a real horn. There are many minor differences, which however need not be noticed.

POSTE LOCALE.

Value $2\frac{1}{2}$ rappen.

The above description will apply to this stamp, though it is from a different die. We may add that the right end of the post horn, in this forgery, is much higher in level than the left end. In the real stamp the ends are nearly on a level. The postmark on these forgeries is something like that found on genuine Zurich and Geneva, of which engravings were given in this magazine last month.

The following forgery has been sold and warranted genuine by a gentleman, whose opinion is generally thought a good deal of; it is an excellent imitation, but he appears to have been rather premature in pronouncing and warranting it to be genuine.

VAUD.

1850. 4 c., black on white. Small rectangle, white cross on red ground, with post horn.

GENUINE.—Printed on white paper scarcely at all glazed. The horn is large and full at right hand end, and is shaded on the right hand very strongly, but on the left hand or inner side, next the cross, the shading does not extend to top end of horn, which end is consequently left almost all white. The folds encircling the horn, and binding it to the ring containing the cross, come, on the left hand side, up to the middle of the large black dot, which is the top one of four, which are placed in a curve round the label containing value. The part of the horn to the left hand (i.e., the mouth piece) is larger and fuller at the extreme end than the part below it.

FORGED. — Printed on slightly glazed paper. The shading is very strong on the right hand side of the large end of the horn, and extends right across the horn at the top. The shading on the left or inner side of the horn, next the cross, extends up to the top part. The folds encircling the horn, and binding it to the ring containing the cross, do not come up to the large top black dot. The point of the horn to the left hand is scarcely if at all larger than the part lower down. Numerous smaller differences exist, which can scarcely be described.

XXVII. LUZON.

5 cuartos red. Correo Interior. Queen's head to left. Col. imp. rect.

GENUINE.—A full stop is placed after the word "Correos," and a colon after Cs. The ground on which the medallion rests is composed of armour scales, neatly done; there is also a line of dots on the inside of medal, so clear that they may be counted: they are 63 in number. These dots are touched by the Queen's neck.

FORGED.—A colon only is placed after "Correos," but a full stop after Cs. The ground on which the medallion rests is blotched and the scales are not clear throughout; the dots on inside of medal are not so clear as to be counted, and are not touched by Queen's neck.

For above description I am indebted to the kindness of Mr. J. C. Sidebotham.

XXVIII. BRITISH GUIANA.

1, 2, 4 cents for newspapers. Ornaments in border shaped like a spade, with one thick stroke in the centre, and a thin line across it at right angles.

All the genuine newspaper stamps of this issue have the ornaments, composing the border, arranged in the following way: taking the left hand side, there are nine of these ornaments in a row, counting from the top, which point downwards and to the right; the bottom row, taken right across the stamp, contains nine ornaments, of which the first eight turn upwards and to the right, the last one of this row points upwards and to the left, as do the three next ornaments above it which form part of the right hand row; the fourth ornament on that side points down, whilst the four above it are turned upwards; this leaves one more ornament at the very top of the right hand row, this one points downwards to the left, and the seven immediately following it do the same, which brings us to the point from which we started. Also before the P in Postage there two dots.

There are two forgeries of the 1 and 4 cents. The genuine 1 c. is printed on washy red paper, while the former is on paper of a much warmer tint.

The foregoing arrangement of the ornaments is not departed from in any real newspaper stamp of this issue, so that those which differ from it are forgeries. The two forgeries differ in their arrangement of them. The white marks found in the centre of the blue 4 cents, are imitated by chalk in the forgeries, and the red marks on the yellow 2 cents in the same manner.

XXIX. PONY EXPRESS.

Wells, Fargo, and Co., all values and colors.

GENUINE.—“Pony Express,” printed in bold ornamental letters; “Wells, Fargo, and Co.,” in bold plain letters, with a distinct white shadow. The shading from figure 1 does not touch the man's hat, which is immediately below it, and the shading forming the background to the horse, shews up white in many places close to the animal's body. One of the forelegs of horse is in the shading, whilst the other comes beyond the shading into the white ground of the stamp. The space in which the figure of value is placed, immediately over the man's head is not true in shape; on the left side there is a double line as if the engraver's tool had slipped and made a false stroke, and the other line has been meant for a correction. The horse's tail comes to a point. The corner ornaments are compact, apparently only one flower in each corner, but they are not quite clear.

FORGED —“Pony express” is printed with letters scarcely at all ornamented, and letters of “Wells, Fargo, and Co.,” are not at all bold. The shading from the figure 1 touches the man's hat below. Shading forming background to the horse, has no break in it anywhere. Both the forelegs of the horse are in the shading. The space in which the figure of value is placed is drawn quite true in shape, there being no doubled line on the left hand side. The horse's tail is spreading, and has three points all on one level. The corner ornaments of flowers are larger, and each corner contains several flowers, which are pretty distinct.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

VICTOR EMMANUEL, (Torquay)—The new Italian are described and engraved in the present number. The reprints of Moldavian are largely offered for sale just now. You will find the description of forged Moldavian in No. 7 of this Magazine.

ONE WHO HAS BEEN VICTIMISED—We regret that we cannot insert your letter, as we nearly got into difficulties on a similar occasion some time ago. You had better write to some respectable party in the town named, who could personally apply for the amount you sent to be refunded.

E. CLARKE, (London).—Your 1 c. blue, Belgium, has every appearance of having been subjected to a chemical transmogrification—a change from its original green hue.

MERCURIAS.—We think with you that the method of perforation adopted by Saxony, Baden, and Wurtemberg, is much preferable to that of the Bremen, Prussian, Oldenburg, Lubeck, and other German States. The stamps of the former countries are much more easily separated, they having the spaces cut out, and not simply pierced.

EMILY S.—The Danish and Bavarian envelopes have not yet appeared; New Year is spoken of as the date for the issue of the latter.

M. B. WILLIAMS.—Covers for Volume I are in preparation, and will be ready in a few days.

A SUBSCRIBER.—Thanks for your good wishes. We hope to be able to enlarge our issue, 1864, to 16 pages, should advertisers still support us.

Orders for Advertisements, as well as all other communications, should reach us as much as possible before the 6th of each month.

THE
AND
MONTHLY ADVERTISER.

VOL. II., No. 14.

JANUARY 15, 1864.

PRICE 2d.

TO OUR READERS.

THE publishers of the Stamp Collector's Review, in presenting their friends with the first number of a new volume, have much pleasure in announcing that its editorship has been assumed by a gentleman well known to collectors, and thoroughly capable of conducting it; they however leave Mr. Pemberton to speak for himself, and while tendering their grateful thanks for the support accorded to them since they first conceived the idea of publishing a magazine, exclusively for stamp collectors they venture to hope that the same amount of favour will be extended to them in future, to merit which shall be their constant endeavour.

An unused stamp will still be presented gratis with each number.

Advertisements will be inserted at the following moderate charges:—

Under 20 words	1s. 0d.
„ 40 „	1s. 6d.
„ 60 „	2s. 3d.
„ 80 „	2s. 9d.
„ 120 „	4s. 0d.
„ 200 „	6s. 0d.
„ 300 „	8s. 6d.

On orders for six insertions a reduction will be made in the charge.

EDITOR'S ADDRESS.

IN undertaking the editorship of this magazine at the request of the promoters, it is incumbent upon me to say a few words respecting my plans for the year. It was in these pages that I first commenced (in conjunction with Mr. Lewes) the series of articles on the detection of counterfeit stamps, which has been so well received by the stamp collecting public; that series I shall continue in these pages, month by month, as fresh forgeries appear requiring description. "South American Postage Stamps," I hope to make the first of a series, embracing all the stamps in existence, and which series when completed will form the most comprehensive of catalogues. I intend to enumerate the design, colour, value, and full inscription of each stamp, mentioning the varieties where any exist; noticing the forgeries, styles of post-marks, &c., and also water-marks in the paper. In this work I shall be most ably assisted by many of our first collectors; it will be as original as anything of the kind can be, containing many stamps which have not been previously described, and will be illustrated with engravings of the rarest stamps. Next month's number will contain a series of papers on imaginary labels, and an article of great interest is in preparation on the re-issues of rare stamps; besides many interesting papers, by gentlemen who are well known to the stamp-collecting world. In conclusion, I need scarcely say that by all means in my power I shall endeavour to make this the best, as it is the oldest, periodical devoted to the interests of Stamp Collectors. I would draw attention to our "Queries," on page 12, which will be found deserving of the collector's notice.

EDWARD PEMBERTON.

THE vast continent of South America, comparatively little known, and backwards as it is in most things, has, nevertheless, obtained the start of many European countries, as regards the introduction of postage labels for the prepayment of the Government levy on letters.

As early as 1851 (as will be explained further on) postage labels,—certainly the simplest and ugliest in existence,—were issued by our own enterprising colony of British Guiana. We do not allude to the "large rectangular" stamps, but to a previous issue which no one has described except Dr. Gray. - Already this colony

(a second Victoria for alterations and variations) has achieved seven issues of stamps for letters and four for newspapers.

The United States of Columbia have five issues as "things of the past;" the two first issues were for the Granada Confederation, the third issue for the United States of New Granada, the others for the United States of Columbia; thus clearly marking three distinct changes in their government. Venezuela gives us four issues (the last of which is described in the present number). Brazil, Peru, Monte Video, and the Argentine Confederation (now Republic), count three issues each. Buenos Ayres has no less than six, whilst Chili has two emissions. The devices on these stamps are striking, the sun figures on the Argentine, in conjunction with a night-cap on a pole, (we are assured it is a cap of liberty). British Guiana and Buenos Ayres patronise ships—arms figure on more than any—from the complicated shields of Peru, Granada, &c., to the simple lion of Paraguay. Heads are not so much in vogue. We find Columbus (so Mount Brown says) on the stamps of Chili; Emperor of the French on the Cayenne Essay; Queen of Spain's head (probably) on the Corrientes; and that of liberty on the recent Buenos Ayres. The designs of the Dutch Guiana and Brazil issues are very simple; the latter, plain figures, though in three distinct types. The British and Dutch Guiana are examples of dated stamps.

The postage stamps of the South American continent will be found to give the Collector far more trouble, as a whole, than those of any other division of the world. Europe possessing such a vast number more stamps than South America, will not cost the persevering Collector any more time than the latter will. The stamps of Asia, consisting principally as they do of those of our own possessions, do not present insuperable difficulties when the Luzon are all obtained. In Africa, the "Provisional" stamps for Mauritius—those with "fourpence" and "eightpence" printed in black letters over the original values—will leave vacant spaces in our albums for a long time. Oceanica gives New Caledonia as a stumbling-block to completing the series. Of the 10d. Van Diemen's Land there is but one specimen known; its origin is so doubtful, and that joined to its appearance, being villainous in the extreme, makes us more than suspicious of its right to be called a bona fide postage stamp. North America has the 12d. Canada as a virtually unattainable stamp. These stamps are, after all, only single specimens; but, on turning to the countries of South America, everywhere we find priceless specimens mentioned. Take the stamps of the Granada Confederation and Buenos Ayres. A good series of these two is seldom seen, a perfect one we may say never, except in the largest and most complete of collections. The Buenos Ayres old ship will bother the Collector wonderfully, for their execution is so coarse one can scarcely tell what the values are, and when "violently post-marked," the difference between "un" and "cin" on the 1 and 5 p. stamps is not striking. British Guiana possesses specimens of great value in the earliest issues. Dutch Guiana are amongst the rarest of stamps: when they were used (and even where used) however are matters of some doubt. How many large collections are wanting in the 90 of the first issue Brazil? and nearly as many would require the 180 Italics. The stamps of Paraguay, whether essays or not, are of great rarity, and are most beautiful in appearance—we allude to genuine ones. Peru presents some difficulties with the exquisite stamps of the Pacific Steam Navigation Company. The stamps of Chili, Venezuela, and the Argentine Confederation will require a trifling amount of perseverance, especially the Argentine 1860 5 c.

South America rejoices in many mysterious and unaccountable stamps, some so rare, that few collectors know of them, and those few are divided in opinion respecting them. The very rare ones are those of Dutch Guiana and the disreputable looking stamps (the first issued in South America) of 1851. British Guiana. The mysterious ones are those of Cayenne, Corrientes, and the Diligencia stamps, which latter are ascribed on very uncertain grounds to Monte Video. Few collectors have heard of a stamp for Cayenne, those who have mostly incline to think it an essay. The Corrientes 1 real M.C. ranks after the Cayenne essay in value. Let any of our readers try to remember where Corrientes is; we think their ideas of that spot will be remarkably vague. There is such a place in the Argentine Confederation or Republic, on the Rio Plata, near to the borders of Paraguay. It is possible and probable that the town during some of the revolutions for which the South American countries are remarkable, issued stamps, of which we have a precedent in the case of Schleswig-Holstein. It is very difficult to decide whose is the face so rudely portrayed thereon. Everyone believes in the Diligencia stamps (which Mount Brown ascribes to Monte Video), but there is so much mystery about their origin and antecedents, that we might be excused if a shadow of doubt struck us as to whether they are what they pretend to be, if anyone can tell us what their pretensions are. As no stamps are more interesting, or more difficult to understand thoroughly than those of South America, we shall do our best to give some information about each country, taking them in alphabetical order to facilitate reference. It shall be our pleasurable duty to make each of the mysterious stamps appear in as clear a light as it is possible for them to do, and to give to each country a clearer and more complete list of their stamps than has as yet appeared in any publication.

The cause of the rarity of the obsolete South American stamps may be traced to the following sources:—The great numbers of issues which have taken place in a comparatively short time, combined with the limited correspondence between the South American countries (especially La Plata, Guiana, and Granada,) and England. There are so few collectors of stamps in South America, that the English collector's almost only chance of obtaining the rarest obsoletes is by taking them off old letters; and so long as this dearth of collectors exists there, so long will there be a proportionate difficulty in getting the more valuable issues. As collectors increase, with the demand the supply will increase too; then, perhaps, something more may be known about Corrientes and Dutch Guiana, and the authenticity of the Diligencia stamps may be clearly settled, for or against, them.

STAMPS. LATELY ISSUED AND RARE VARIETIES.

VENEZUELA.—Specimens of the new issue arrived just too late for us to describe in last number. The series is of three (as before), the size is rather larger than the first issue; rectangular. Arms (an Eagle with thunderbolt) in circle below seven stars, with "Venezolana" in band below the circle, "Federacion" at top, and at bottom of stamp the value, either medio real un real, or dos reales; coloured impressions, $\frac{1}{2}$ yellow, 1 blue, 2 green. The first issues of Venezuela were about the prettiest South American stamps; this last issue on the other hand is as hideous as can be both in design, execution, and colouring. The appearance of the post-marked specimens (we have seen no others yet) is most wretched.

NEW BRUNSWICK gives us another stamp, 2c., which we engrave. It matches the previously-issued 5 and 10c., in design, the colour however is orange.

DUTCH INDIES.—We engrave this stamp for the benefit of those who may not yet have seen it; a description was given in No. 10.

PARMA.—(Duc di Parma, Piacc, Ecc.) Proof printed in green of the 25c. This is a very handsome stamp and quite an acquisition to the page in our album. It is a stamp of great rarity; we have not met with a duplicate of the specimen we possess.

ST. HELENA.—An engraving is given of the provisional 1d. stamp lately issued, as described in

No. 12. It will doubtless soon be as rare as many other provisional stamps, as we understand the proper values will shortly be struck off in the regular manner.

NATAL.—Mount Brown calls the 1d. stamp "brown;" the 6d., Grenada, which is much the same shade, is called "lake." We have just met with a specimen which is of a deep rich red-brown, but the usual shade is lake; the red-brown is evidently a fresh variety, the edges being perforated.

PORTUGAL.—Head of Queen Donna Maria II., in centre in white relief, rectangular hollowed at corners; "Correio" above, "5 Reis" below, chocolate. This stamp is as different in colour from the usual variety, as the 5r. King Pedro, chocolate, is from the brown one. The specimen before us is embossed a trifle more deeply than is usual in the red-brown stamp.

VICTORIA.—Proof of the "Too Late" stamp before the insertion of the green lettering, the only lettering on it being "Victoria Postage;" coloured impression, lilac. This stamp is curious as shewing that the green lettering "Too Late," "Six-pence" is added after the stamp is finished.

FORGED STAMPS: HOW TO DETECT THEM:

BY EDWARD PEMBERTON.

PONY EXPRESS—Continued.

THESE forgeries are sold at about 9d. each (all values) unused. Seeing them advertised we wrote for a specimen, enquiring how stamps whose original value was upwards of 4s. 6d. each could be sold, unused, for 9d. We were told in reply, that Wells, Fargo, & Co. having failed, their line of route across the Rocky Mountains was discontinued and consequently the intrinsic value of their stamp was nothing. The person added, that he was of opinion that W. F. & Co., finding that their stamps would still sell in England and on the Continent of Europe, continued to manufacture and send them over. All this certainly sounds very plausible; but as long as the original specimens in our possession are so very different in execution and detail to these soi disant stamps, we would stake all our experience that they are false. Supposing, for the sake of argument, that they are printed from the original plates, they are, at best, but "re-prints," (a very vague term, which we shall endeavour to deal with presently,) and we cannot understand how collectors, who are so scrupulous about having a forgery, or even a suspicious stamp in their albums, should receive these. The term, "re-print," seems to have been applied by some ingenious forger of stamps, and if not quite synonymous with the stronger word, is often merely a polite way of putting it. After all that has been said and written about forgeries, one would think that collectors should be more guarded in receiving stamps as genuine without a full insight into the character of the article, and that also of the vendor; the latter often designedly, and sometimes from ignorance or carelessness, 'selling' his customers—as well as the stamps.

But we think there is no excuse for the gullibility of any person who would be taken in by such as the following:—Tahiti, with the head of Queen Pomare, surrounded by a legend in some tongue unknown. Another, called an Egyptian, bearing some more of an unknown language, with engraving of the Pyramids. But, for hieroglyphics, there is the Peking stamp!—triangular, covered with some mysterious characters, but the word "Peking" (as spelt by the maker) in familiar English letters!

There are now very close imitations of the Sicilian stamps in circulation. We have not seen them, but hear that in the 2 gran. blue (and very probably in all the others of the series;) the letters of the inscription are smaller than in the genuine stamp, and that there is a difference in the king's forehead and beard.

The following excellent forgery of the $\frac{1}{2}$ tornese, arms, of the Provisional Government of Naples has not been previously described. It is not of very recent date, having been sold as far as can be discovered for the last three or four months.

October, 1860. Arms—(a horse, three legs joined by a head, and three fleur de lis)—in circle, surrounded by inscription "Bollo della posta Napoletana, T $\frac{1}{2}$."

GENUINE.—Struck from a steel die; horse's fore-legs in the arms, do not touch the line which divides the different compartments, and which is just before the animal. Looking at this stamp with the unaided eye, the fore-legs seem to touch, but a magnifier of good power will clearly prove that there is a space between them and the line; the side parts of the fleurs de lis are quite clear, curved well over, and look sharp at the ends; the centre part can scarcely be called pointed; in the top one of the three fleurs de lis, it is rounded; but in the two side ones, the centre part is angular at the top; lettering of the inscription of a suitable size, and pretty uniform; horse's tail just touches the shading of the circle, and is a long flowing one; the double T.G. is clear; the small initial letter G under $\frac{1}{2}$ is perfectly distinct.

(A good magnifier is indispensable for noticing the small G, and will be found to simplify this somewhat wordy description in other places.)

FORGED (lithographed).—The horse's fore-legs touch the dividing line; this is clear without a glass in the forgery; the fleurs de lis are more spreading; the side parts of each fleur de lis are clear, but not curved over or pointed; the centre parts in all three are pointed; the lettering of the inscription is larger; the B in Bollo is a very bad one, and seems too large for the rest of the word; the horse's tail does not touch the shading of the circle; tail is not so long as in the real stamp, but is more bushy; the T is clear, but the G is smudged; the small initial G under $\frac{1}{2}$ cannot be made out; there is something, but one could not say what it is.

BAVARIA.

GENUINE.—The ornamentation of the central figure 1 is most beautifully clear; the background is excessively fine, but perfectly distinct when looked into. Each of the small corner figures (1) has a line down the centre; it is not so perceptible in some specimens as it is in others. The white outline to the central figure 1 is as clear and unbroken as possible, all round the figure.

FORGED.—The paper on which it is printed is very white; the ink is very black, and is rather shiny. The background and the ornament of the 1 are much coarser than the original, and the background can be made out without much looking at. The corner figures are merely outlined; there is no attempt at shading them. The white outlines are often touched by the “maze-work” of the background: this is especially noticeable at the base of the figure.

There are two varieties of the genuine stamp; in both of them the background and execution are equally good, but one of them has the central figure smaller. The colour, too, is sometimes deep black, whilst other specimens we find approach nearly to slate colour. The above forgery has a coarse appearance at first sight, the lettering, (especially Bayern,) looks very white and distinct.

I have been struck by the number of stamps which have appeared of late, impressed in black, and called, as well as sold as, ESSAYS. The latest are those of Cuba and Liberia. Having given my attention so much to the detection of impositions and frauds, I am naturally suspicious of any old stamp when it appears under a fresh colour; and having heard the following report, think it best to mention it at once, leaving it to the future to decide whether it is right or whether it is wrong. I am informed that by some photographic process fac-similes of stamps can be taken in black, having the appearance of engraving; and that many of the black Essays are these photographs and not real Essays; or, more properly speaking, Proofs. If this is so the forgers have a better source of profit open to them than by making stamps by hand. I hope to be able to give some positive information on this subject next month, and mentioned it now, as it may (if true) save some impositions. I have just received forgeries of 10c. Luzon, and other equally rare stamps; they are too late for insertion in this number.

QUERIES FOR COLLECTORS.

UNDER this heading we intend to propose various questions of interest, to which we trust our readers will send us replies, such replies if for printing in next number, to reach us by the 5th proximo. If our readers will heartily co-operate with us, a great mass of valuable information must necessarily be collected. Without more delay we will proceed to our queries, proposing the following for the consideration of our readers:

- 1.—What is the reason of the alteration in the arms of the Venezuelan stamps, as shown in the last issue, in which the arms are an eagle with a thunderbolt, underneath seven stars? and do these seven stars signify so many towns or divisions in the Venezuelan Confederation?

- 2.—Can any clue be given as to the date of issue of the large Roman figures, and of the Italics, Brazil?
- 3.—Was the 12d. Canada in use as long as the other stamps of the 1861 issue? and if so what cause can be adduced to account for its rarity?
- 4.—Were the stamps of Memphis, Baton Rouge, Charleston, &c., used beyond the precincts of those towns, or were they merely for local purposes?
- 5.—Is there a real 60 crazie Tuscany on pure white paper? or a 9cr. on pure white? (The latter stamp exists in two shades of blue paper.)
- 6.—What is the date of issue of the Swiss stamps 2½rp. Orts Post, and 2½rp. Post Locale, also Neufchâtel and Vaud

DUTCH GUIANA POSTAGE STAMPS

To the Editor of the "STAMP COLLECTOR'S REVIEW."

SIR—The following remarks upon the very rare stamps of Dutch Guiana, may not prove interesting to your readers. The Dutch Guiana stamps were issued in 1861, they are three in number, and answer to the following description; POST ZEGEL, crown between two branches, date indicated, black impression; rectangular, 10c. rose, 10c. dark neutral, 10c. lavender. So great is the rarity of these specimens that there are few collectors who have ever seen them, and still fewer who have them in their collections, which consequently renders them great desiderata.

It would appear from the fact of these stamps having franked the postage of letters from Java, that they are more generally used in the Dutch colonies than has hitherto been supposed. The prevalent idea that they are used solely in Dutch Guiana, I have, after mature consideration satisfactorily refuted, having arrived at the conclusion that their title as postage stamps is "Dutch Colonies," and not that hitherto ascribed to them in our catalogues. The marked resemblance between them and the stamps of the French colonies, and the Danish West Indies, all of which bear the crown, (doubtless signifying a general and not limited circulation among the colonies) will tend greatly to support this opinion. The recent issue of a postage stamp for the Dutch Indies will reduce the number of countries in which the labels under consideration have been used, but they will doubtless still frank the letters from Dutch Guiana, and the Dutch West Indian Islands.

In conclusion may I had that I shall be happy to communicate with any lady or gentleman who may have specimens of these rare stamps for disposal, and beg to subscribe myself—Yours very truly,

THOMAS WILLIAM KITT.

London.

THE
 AND
MONTHLY ADVERTISER.

VOL. II., No. 15.

FEBRUARY 15, 1864.

PRICE 2d.

TO OUR READERS.

THE publishers of the Stamp Collector's Review have great pleasure in announcing that they have determined to enlarge it permanently to sixteen pages, commencing with the present number. No alteration has been made in the price however, and they trust that their friends will enable them to meet the increased outlay necessarily entailed, by extending its circulation as much as possible.

An unused stamp will be given with the present and following numbers as usual, after which it will be discontinued, until an increased circulation will admit of the custom being resumed.

Advertisements will be inserted at the following moderate charges:—

Under 20 words	1s. 0d.
,, 40	,,	1s. 6d.
,, 60	,,	2s. 3d.
,, 80	,,	2s. 9d.
,, 120	,,	4s. 0d.
,, 200	,,	6s. 0d.
,, 300	,,	8s. 6d.

On orders for six insertions a reduction will be made in the charge.

SOUTH AMERICAN POSTAGE
 STAMPS—Continued.

HAVING decided to notice the various countries of the South American continent, in the order of their initial letters, we commence at once with the ARGENTINE CONFEDERATION.

The vast tract of country known as La Plata, or the Argentine Confederation, was discovered in 1517 by the Spaniards, (they discovered almost all out of the way places in those days), by whom it was colonised in 1553, forming a portion of their vice-royalty of Peru until the year 1778, when it was separated from that country and formed into another vice-royalty—that of the “Rio de la Plata.” It subsequently—in 1816—became independent of Spain, establishing itself as a republic, consisting of fourteen provinces. Buenos Ayres was the most important of its provinces, and in 1831 De Rosas (the descendant of an old Spanish family) was made governor of that province. He had previously distinguished himself by his bravery against the Indians, and in the year

1835 he was elected President of the Confederation; but seeking to obtain an undue and preponderating influence for Buenos Ayres, and in consequence of an attack made by him upon Monte Video, he became embroiled with Brazil, and afterwards with France and England. He was defeated in 1845, but persevered in an obstinate resistance until 1850, when the provinces under his rule revolted against his tyrannical and unjust measures. Urquiza was nominated president in his stead; De Rosas still had a party who adhered to his declining fortunes, but in 1851, Urquiza gave the death blow to all his hopes of being reinstated in his lost position, by defeating him so totally and decisively that he was necessitated to fly the country, and seek refuge in England. The upshot of this was, the secession of the important province of Buenos Ayres from the Confederation in 1853. At the present time, therefore, the Argentine Confederation consists of thirteen provinces, of which the nominal government is republican, with the legislative power vested in a junta of forty-four deputies, the half of whom are annually renewed by popular election; and in a senate of two deputies from each department. The position of the country is, the Andes on the west, Bolivia on the north, on the east Brazil, Paraguay, and Uruguay, on the south-east is the Atlantic, and Patagonia is due south. The country may be briefly described as two great plains, wholly devoid of trees, but which, during one portion of the year, are completely covered with verdure, whilst in the heat of summer they are quite dried up. In the South, however, there are immense tracts. The Pampas are clothed with long grass, and it is on this grass that the principal wealth of the country depends, for over these Pampas roam vast herds of oxen and droves of horses, whose hides, wool, hair, &c., form the principal exports of the country—the preparation of which gives occupation to a large proportion of the population. The natural productions of the country are little cultivated. The South produces cotton, rice, indigo, sugar cane, the “fragrant weed,” maize, wheat, &c., but to little extent. The cochineal insect is “cultivated” in some parts; the gardens where these insects are preserved are termed “nopaleries,” from the nopal cactus, on which the insect thrives best. In the forests, the celebrated Chinchona bark is collected, madder (used for dyeing), and Paraguay tea, are objects of culture, in some parts. The beautiful Chinchilla skins come largely from this country: these skins, with other furs, and hides, wool, horns, and horsehair, form the staple exports. Very few manufactures are carried on beyond the making of morocco leather at Cordova. The native minerals comprise coal, salt, sulphur, mineral pitch, &c.; but no silver is found, though the names Argentine and Plata both seem to bear witness to the ancient belief, that this country was a mine of wealth, and that the "Rio de la Plata" rolled over a bed of silver. Though the country is equal in area to seven and-a-half times that of Great Britain, yet the population is but 894,000, scarcely an inhabitant for each square mile.

ARGENTINE REPUBLIC. — Three types, ten stamps, four of the value of 5 centavos, three of 10c., and three of 15c.

TYPE I.—Arms, (rising sun above a transverse oval, which contains two hands clasping a pole, pole surmounted by a cap of Liberty), within a narrow Greek border; lettering Conf^{ca}: Argentina above the sun, with the value followed by word "Centav" below the oval; numeral is larger than word "Centav;" impressed in colour on white paper; size three-quarters of an inch by fifteen-sixteenths; 5 c. vermilion.

REMARKS — This stamp Mount Brown ascribes to 1860 (making it the first issue); but it is so much better done than the stamps of the next type, that (in the absence of any proof to the contrary) we are disposed to regard it as issued subsequently to those of type II. In the present stamp, the rays round the sun are composed of very minute dots, and is not very thick at the "roots." In the hands which clasp the staff, the fingers may be seen and counted; the oval containing the hands, &c., does not touch frame of the stamp; there is a full stop after figure 5 and after word "Centav;" there are eleven loops in the Greek border, both at top and bottom; there are sixteen on the left side, but only fourteen on the right. This type is of much greater rarity than the succeeding one.

FORGERY.—May be told by the absence of the dot after word Centav.

TYPE II.—1861. Arms (as last), within a larger Greek border; lettering as last; but numeral of value is of the same size, with the word "Centav.;" impressed in colour; size as last; 5 c. red, 10 c. green, 15 c. blue, 15 c. lilac.*

REMARKS.—The 5 centav. has a stop after the figure, but not the 10 and 15 centav.; the rays of the sun are composed of larger dots than in the last type; the border has seven loops at top and at bottom, and nine on each side (that is, only counting those which are well defined and perfect—this applies to the last variety); the oval containing hands, &c., touches the frame on both sides; the hands have no fingers, but two gigantic thumbs are very distinct. Whole stamp more coarsely executed than type I. Colour of this 5 centav. is not so rich as that of the other 5 centav.; the ends of the rays are quite square, coming to an uniform length close to the name above them; the 10 and 15 centav. are of some rarity; there is a variety of the 5 c. with two dots after the figure, thus (:) instead of one, and there are some very trifling differences in the design; it is an extremely rare variety.

* We give this stamp on the authority of Messrs. Bellars & Davie; it is possibly merely a faded specimen of the blue 15 c.

FORGERIES.—There are two. The first may be told by the absence of the pole and cap of Liberty in the oval; the second by the fact that the oval containing the hands does not touch the frame on either side, which, as described above, it does in the real stamp.

TYPE III.—Arms (as before, but supported by two branches), in a beaded circle, rayed ground beyond the circle, arched corners of crossed lines; lettering “Republica Argentina” within the circle; numeral of value followed by word “Centavos,” printed in block letters on the rays forming the ground.

1862.—5 centav. red, 10 c. green, 15 c. blue.

1863.—Same design, lithographed; 5 centav. rose, 10 c. emerald green, 15 c. blue.

REMARKS.—After numeral of value there is a comma; the beaded circle containing arms and names is closer to the top of the stamp than to the bottom; the length of 5 and 10 c. is $27/32$ (by $\frac{3}{4}$) of an inch; that of 15 c. is $1/32$ of an inch more; the earliest issue seems to have been on more glazy paper than the last; the earliest issue was printed from a plate; those now in use are printed by lithography, being transferred to stone from the plate, and having the fine work all blocked up; there are, therefore, differences between the two issues, though very slight ones.

POSTMARKS.

1. Simple penstrokes, in black ink.
2. “Franco” in large black or blue letters, sometimes with a large dot above and below the word, most frequently without.

3. “Franco” with a small diamond mark above and below the word in clearer letters, and within a transverse oval, badly shaped, and rather pointed; usually in blue ink.

4. A transverse oval (better shaped and more rounded at ends than 3), about two inches by half an inch, containing “Correo Nacionale” along one side, and “Confed. Argentina” along the other, and with a large dot at each end of the oval; black or blue ink.

These four marks seem confined to the stamps of the two first types.

5. An oval, as last, but with “Republica” in place of “Confed.” black, or more rarely blue, ink. This is used for the stamps of the third type.

In our next number we shall give lists (with particulars) of Brazil, Buenos Ayres, and Chili, with illustrations of some of the more curious issues, and block engravings of some of the postmarks.

FORGED STAMPS: HOW TO DETECT THEM:

ACCORDING to promise, we have investigated the matter of “photographic proofs.” We find that there is little doubt that what we stated in our last number has some foundation. We find that Mr. John Pouncy, of Dorchester, patented a process "for producing photographs in printer's ink," sometime in 1862. He says, by the working of his patent, he can produce a picture direct from a "negative," hitherto unequalled in any system of printing photographs in carbon. Mr. Pouncy previously brought out what he terms his "original carbon process" (in 1858), which "included a process on stone, from which copies could be printed in printer's ink." Other improvements were subsequently made on this process, which resulted in "photolithography," by which prints and maps may be correctly and most closely copied. If prints can be copied so accurately, why may not postage stamps? We fear they have been so copied; but as we really can say nothing positively, it is rather premature on our part to broach the subject at all. (Next number will contain more on this subject.)

There is a photograph now being sold of the very rare 5 c. New Brunswick Essay, Connell's head. It can only be told by the quality of the paper, and a most trifling difference in colour and size, from its priceless original.

There is an excellent imitation of the Basle $2\frac{1}{2}$ rp. offered and sold, by a dealer in Basle as a re-issue, and confirms the truth of the statement in our last, that the term "re-issue" is often merely a polite way of inti-imating "forgery." The dealer from whom these come, is one whom we have often had to stigmatise as unprincipled in his transactions. He makes up a plausible tale about the authorities "having struck off some copies of these stamps in consequence of the repeated inquiries which they have had from dealers who wish to purchase a stock of them," and sends his correspondent these forgeries, asserting them to be a "re-issue." The following are the noticeable points of difference between the real stamp and these counterfeits.

GENUINE — Die-printed; the stroke of the $\frac{1}{2}$ does not touch the figure 2 just before it; the dove is nearly in the centre of shield, its wings are pointed very distinct, and narrow, but they do not touch the line forming the border of the shield; the head of the bird is some distance from the point immediately over it, (say an eighth of an inch); the dove is deeply embossed; whilst the shield is usually depressed, or lower than the rest of the stamp, but not invariably; (this depends more on the quality of the specimen; one that has been in a book some time has the embossed parts much worn down by the pressure, whereas a fresh specimen will be most distinctly in relief); ground colour (i.e., outside the bordering of the shield, in the four corners,) pale delicate sea-green, with the white paper showing through in a distinct diaper pattern; ground colour of the shield is a rich crimson red.

FORGED.—Lithographed; the stroke of the $\frac{1}{2}$ touches the figure 2; in consequence of the dove not being embossed in the centre of the shield, the head nearly touches the point just over it, whilst the tips of the wings touch the border line of the shield; wings rather broad, and not very distinct; the dove is not clearly embossed, and the shield is always on the same level as the rest of the impression; ground colour of the stamp is a dull, dirty green (pale), and diaper pattern is coarser than in the genuine stamp, but well done; the shield is of a dirty scarlet colour.

The following Spanish stamp is offered by Continental dealers, and through them by English ones.

1851. Queen's head to right in central oval (on solid ground); "Correos, 1851, Franco Seis Cuartos" round the oval; small white ornament in each corner; black impression; rectangular.

GENUINE.—In the shading, &c., of the hair at top (i.e., above the wreath), from nine to twelve lines may be counted. (We do not allude to the mysteries of the back hair, they are indescribable to our masculine minds) The shading of the chin and neck is wholly of dots; though they often run into each other, still their granulated appearance is preserved throughout.

FORGED.—In the shading of the hair at top, there are but six lines at most; the shading of the chin and neck is of both dots and lines; all the shading of the different turns of the hair is blacker and deeper than in any original stamp we have seen.

We lately had two of the so-called Cuban proofs in red ink sent to us for purchase, but we most unhesitatingly denounce them as forgeries, and append the descriptions that our readers may not be victimised by them. When a well-executed stamp is sent by a dealer, saying that it is an "essay," or a "proof," or a "re-issue," the inexperienced collector, even if he has doubts, scarcely likes to set up his opinion against the sellers, because these three terms are so very plausible in sound, that they tend to lull the suspicions of the unwary, who are only too glad to get such good additions (as they think) to their albums. Another term patronised by dealers is "variety;" they will send most excellent imitations of the 1 cuarto Correo Interior Spain, and, upon your mildly suggesting that it does not agree with a friend's specimen, will tell you it is a "very rare undescribed variety." Every collector likes to become the possessor of an undescribed variety, for he thinks there can be no doubt of such specimen being a rare one. If collectors would only learn to discriminate a little more than they do at present, many would find themselves possessors of undescribed and curious varieties.

Again, anyone should know that a proof of a stamp must agree minutely with the regular stamp or stamps of the issue, otherwise it cannot be a proof. Knowing this, there are collectors who have acknowledged these as "proofs," differing as they do so completely from the stamps of which they pretend to be the first impressions.

Cuba, red impressions of the $\frac{1}{2}$ and 1 rl. Plata.

GENUINE.— $\frac{1}{2}$ blue and 1 green; the wreath is distinct and lies naturally on the head; the four leaves on the level of the eye look natural, length and inclination of each is different; the three top leaves all but touch the beads of the circle which surrounds the head; ground behind the circle is of scales; ornaments at sides of stamp are clear and well defined; circles in the corner are pretty clear also; beads in the central circle are very clear and well defined.

FORGED.— $\frac{1}{2}$ and one red; the wreath is distinct, but the head behind the wreath rises suddenly and unnaturally; the four leaves on a level with the eye, all point upwards, and are too narrow for their length; there is a distinct space between the three top leaves and the beads of the circle; ground behind the circle is of plain dots; the ornaments not nearly so clear, and the circles in the corners are scarcely discernible; the beads vary in size, the lower ones are much smaller than the higher ones.

STAMPS LATELY ISSUED AND RARE VARIETIES.

VERY little has taken place within the last month to interest the collector as regards new issues. The few there are, we give descriptions of, hoping that next month we may have a greater number to enumerate.

SPAIN.—4 cuartos. Head as in the last issue, and the appearance very similar, but the minute details are quite different, as will be seen by our engraving; a riband goes all round the stamp, turning round at each corner, and almost forming a square, in the centre of which is the head. Lettering, "Correos" above, and value below with date. The colour is rather pale vermillion.

TRINIDAD has lately altered the colour of the red stamp to a much warmer tint, which is a decided improvement.

CONFEDERATE STATES.—The last issued stamp for the Confederate States, is a 2c., green impression on white paper, it has been known to collectors for several months past as a rare stamp; we are enabled to give an engraving, which will render a written description unnecessary.

CAPE OF GOOD HOPE—We hope to fully describe the new issue in our next, though it is said they are square, with the figure of Hope reclining, as on the triangular stamps.

MAURITIUS.—We engrave the three-penny stamp for this Island, which appeared on Sept. 1st, of last year. We have an article in print, which shall be given in our next number, containing a full list of all the Mauritius stamps, to which we refer the reader.

CUBA.—The 2 real stamp is now more vermilion than formerly.

VENEZUELA.—We also engrave the 2 reales of the recent issue of this Republic; the original stamp is not nearly so clear as our engraving, for the colours are so poor they scarcely show. The 2 r is green on white.

HANOVER.—Issue of 1858, 3 pfen-nige. We have seen another variety of this stamp, in which the colored diaper pattern is more intricate and much smaller than on the usual stamp; the color is crimson-red instead of rose.

WURTEMBERG.—1 krz. is now olive green, and the 9 krz., golden-brown, though they may be found in many shades between their original colours of green and stone. These stamps have a thread running through the paper on which they are printed.

We shall in our next notice a rare and undescribed essay stamp of New South Wales.

EXPLOSION OF A SYSTEM- ATIC FRAUD.

A FRAUD of a singularly novel and systematic character has just been exploded here, the facts connected with which are as follows:—Some time in September last, a slim, genteel young man, evidently a stranger in town, called at the shop of Mr. Duncan M'Arthur, stationer, 16, Cathcart-street, and asked the woman in attendance, a daughter of Mr. M'Arthur, to be kind enough to retain for him letters addressed "Joseph Watson, 16, Cathcart-street, Greenock," as he was going upon an excursion to the Highlands, and would call on his way back. He did call as promised, and received a number of letters. He then left a large envelope, addressed "Mr. Joseph Watson, Post Office, Glasgow—to be called for," and asked her to be kind enough to forward any additional letters that might arrive for him during the week. Some half-dozen more letters were received, and were duly despatched in terms of his request. Nothing more transpired on the subject, till lately Mr. R. Cowley Squier, dealer in stamps, residing at the Wellington Hall, Dover, communicated information to Capt. Dewar, superintendent of police here, from which it appeared that in September last he had received a circular letter, of which the following is a copy, printed, with the exception of the first line, which was written in a good clerky hand :—

“16, Cathcart-street, Greenock,

“Sept., 3, 1863.

“Sir,—I have the following stamps (used and unused) for sale at present, viz. :—

PER DOZ.

Antigua, 1d. unused 2s. 6d.

Chili, 5-10c. used 2s. 0d.

France Republic, 10, 20, 25c. used 2s. 0d.

Nevis, 1d. unused 2s. 6d.

New Brunswick, 1c. unused 10d.

Peru, 1 dinero used 2s. 0d.

Portugal, 50 reis used 2s. 6d.

Prince Edward Island, 1d. unused 2s. 9d.

The prices as above marked are only to dealers. All orders must be prepaid in uncut penny stamps. All communications answered within two posts, by your obedient servant,

“JOSEPH WATSON.”

In answer to this circular letter, Mr. Squier had forwarded the said “Joseph Watson” 10s. in postage stamps, with instructions that value was to be returned, within the succeeding two posts, in stamps referred to in the circular; but no such stamps had been returned, and Mr. Squier had therefore been defrauded out of the 10s. Captain Dewar set himself to find out the writer or author of this somewhat ingenious fraud, and, after considerable trouble, traced the young man who had received the letters through Miss M'Arthur, in Greenock, to a writer's office in Glasgow, in which he was employed as a clerk. He proved to be not “Joseph Watson,” which had been an assumed name, but John Ross, a member of a respectable family in Glasgow. Ross was apprehended and brought to Greenock on Friday last, and on Saturday was brought up at the police court before the sitting bailie, where he was charged with devising a scheme by means of the circular letter referred to for defrauding the lieges, and especially Mr. Squier, of Dover.

The prisoner, who seemed greatly depressed at his position, pleaded guilty, adding “that never was any person more sorry for his offence than I am.” He said he had been two years in his present situation in Glasgow, and had been a year previously in another office there. He was willing to repay the 10s. ten times over.

Bailie.—It is a pitiable mess you have got into—a lad of your education and appearance. I would have been glad had I found it consistent with my duty to let you off with an admonition; but I can't do that, and must send you 14 days to gaol.

There can be little doubt that Ross must have sent out a number of copies of his printed circular, and that the letters he received through his innocent agent in Greenock were answers to some of these; but whether he found any other victims besides Mr. Squier we are unable to say. It is pretty evident that the youth of the lad has led him into the adoption of the trick without being fully aware of its heinousness. As it is, however, he has got cheaply off, and has yet ample time and opportunity to retrieve his character.—North British Daily Mail, Feb. 1, 1864.

REVIEWS OF NEW POSTAL PUBLICATIONS.

Standard Guide to Postage Stamp Collecting, by Bellars and Davie. London: John Camden Hotten.

The title of this work, implying as it does, that the authors intend it to be the Guide to Postage Stamp Collectors, makes us look rather more closely into its pages, and find more faults than we should do, had its title been a degree less pretentious. The external appearance must satisfy the most fastidious. Ten colored lithographs adorn the cover, giving it a very tasty look. The catalogue commences with Great Britain, followed by the colonies in alphabetical order. The foreign countries with their colonies (also alphabetically arranged) come next. The catalogue only includes the stamps actually issued and used by the different governments, the Local Stamps, Proofs, &c., form another part; this arrangement is good, and worthy the consideration of other compilers. It is a very carefully compiled work and is, on the whole, reliable, but the editors fall into many of Mr. Brown's errors; for instance, they follow him in mentioning as authentic 2 dollars black Pony Express, and $\frac{1}{2}$ oz. 1 real, brown, Pacific Steam Navigation Company. They also agree with him in calling the Liberia 12c., lilac, and Lubeck 4 sch., black, proofs, they being (without the shadow of a doubt in our minds) both bona fide postage stamps. We have seen the 12c. lilac postmarked, and a specimen of the 4 sch. Lubeck black, has passed under our notice, which was purchased at the Lubeck office, the first day the stamps were issued to the public, the black 4 sch. were however used only for a few days, giving place at the end of that time, to the well known green ones. The list of some of the countries are superior to those in Mount Brown; we would instance in particular, as especially good, Trinidad, New South Wales, and Victoria. They give a 5 pence blue New South Wales, a stamp we have never seen mentioned elsewhere; it is catalogued as a very rare stamp, having been employed only in postage to the Mauritius. But we cannot compliment them on having at all cleared those puzzling Peruvian varieties: their list is about as clear as Mr. Brown's, but not so complete; neither have they succeeded in making the Genevese stamps any clearer, in fact, they rather complicate them by giving a Local 5c. green, on white paper, (to match the 5c. Cantonal green, on white, which is an envelope stamp). We only believe in those we have authority for, namely, the one double stamp, three varieties of Cantonal light green, one dark green Cantonal, on Local (light green), and one green one white (or envelope stamp), no others. The Standard Guide mentions all these, but does not discriminate between the different types of the Cantonal stamps, separating them only by the colours, and making more varieties than ever had any official existence. They ignore the existence of 6 bai. Romagna; they have hopelessly muddled the 1861 issue of adhesive Venetians and they omit the envelope 10 soldi of 1859. They attempt what no other compiler has done, to give the degrees of rarity of the various stamps, but the values of all stamps fluctuate so wonderfully, that it would be impossible to make a list which should be reliable at the expiration of a month or so, from the date of making. In our opinion, they have given the Prov. stamps of Parma and Modena a much lower degree of rarity than they merit. For instance, they make the 1 scudo Rome, to be of greater rarity than either the 15 or 80c. Prov. Modena! We think too that the Italic Brazil 180 should have been marked as equal in value to the 90 of that issue, and the 90 large figures, merits their mark for "excessively rare," or else the 30 and 60 of that issue should have been placed on a lower scale and not equal to the 90, one of the collectors' greatest desiderata. We are rather surprised they should regard the "Berlin Stadt Express" and the "25c. Texas" as anything but humbugs, they have catalogued them as real. Though we have found fault with some things in the catalogue, there are many things in it which please us. One great feature is giving the exact lettering which appears on each stamp, they have done this very faithfully, carefully copying the characters which appears on the Russian and Polish stamps, and with equal exacttude the lettering on others. In conclusion, we would counsel the investment of a shilling in the "Standard Guide," for there is much valuable information in this work, calculated to assist in clearing off some of the collector's doubts and difficulties.

Postage Stamp Album and Catalogue of British and Foreign Postage Stamps, by Henry Whymer, (forming the Third Edition to Oppen's Album and Catalogue) London: Benjamin Blake.

The present edition is a vast improvement on the second one. The only improvement we can now suggest, is more room being left for some countries, and the supply of a few loose leaves (which could readily be gummed into the book), for the additional issues which have occurred, and which will occur, since publishing this. The catalogue (contrary to most album catalogues) is a very faithful one, many curious English essays are described at length, the Geneva stamp 5c. green upon white, is called an envelope stamp, which is its proper description; the catalogue follows Dr. Gray in calling the Vaud stamps Lausanne. Dr. Gray is most probably correct. There is no direct proof that these stamps were issued only for Vaud. There is also mentioned, as a British Guiana newspaper stamp, the very rare, green 8 cents, round, this is undoubtedly an adhesive stamp for letters (the first issue of the colony), and not a newspaper stamp, we have two other values of this rarity to describe when we come to Guiana, in our list of S. American stamps. The external appearance of the album, magenta and gold, is very pleasing, and there is a sheet of engravings of rare and curious stamps, copied with Mr. Whympster's usual fidelity. We can strongly recommend the album to all in want of one in which their stamps will shew to advantage, and wish it the success which will render a fourth edition necessary.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

A. H. LEWIS—The 2 cents New Brunswick stamps are engraved by the American Bank Co. New York.

W. R. B., Glasgow—We have heard that the 1862 issue of Spanish stamps, were extensively imitated, the 4 cuartos being the principal one which was circulated. This will explain why the government there has only called in that value as yet; they are now invalid for prepaying letters, but will be exchanged for the new ones, when a sufficient quantity of the latter have been prepared; all the other denominations are still valid.

W. GREY, Reading—We consider Moen's Album superior to Oppen's, though it does not provide space for essay stamps. M. P's franks are of no value now. The total number of postage stamps in existence including essays, will not fall short of 1-00. The 10d. Van Diemens Land. New Caledonia, Connell essay of New Brunswick and Dutch Guiana, are amongst the rarest stamps known.

ELIZA S.—The Danish envelopes have not yet appeared, nor those for Bavaria. We engrave the new Spanish 4 cuartos in the present number.

Advertisements should reach the office not later than the 6th. of the month.

SOUTH AMERICAN POSTAGE STAMPS—Continued.

E find that if we give long accounts of the various countries (as of the Argentine Confederation in last number) we should require much more space than can be allotted us, and be too long a time in completing this series of papers. We have, therefore, ventured to alter our proposed plan in this number, and merely mention the different stamps of the various countries. Should it be deemed advisable, we may, on the completion of these papers, revert to the histories of the different countries, giving a short sketch of each; we trust this will meet with our readers' approbation, and with an apology for the alteration of our original plan, will proceed, taking next

BRAZIL.

This country furnishes us with three distinct issues, four different types of stamps, and twenty-two different specimens.

TYPE I.—Large upright numerals of value, upon a finely-engraved and intricate background; no lettering; shape transverse oval, within an oblong of one fine line. Black impression on white paper; 30, 60, 90.

REMARKS—This issue contains one of the collector's most highly-prized specimens; the 90 is alluded to. The 30 is a valuable stamp, fetching from eight shillings upwards. The 60 is the one most frequently met with, but is seldom procurable under six shillings. The paper these stamps are printed upon varies considerably, being both dirty-white, cream-colored and dull bluish-white; the cream-coloured paper is perhaps the best looking of them all.

FORGERIES.—There are two. First, the 90 is counterfeited by means of a genuine 60 of the same issue: the 6 (in 60) is neatly cut out, reversed, to appear like a 9, and fastened down again. This is so far a good imitation that some little care must be exercised to detect it when cleverly done. It is of no use to immerse the stamp in water, under the delusion that the figure will be loosened and fall out—(exposing the fraud, as may be seen in the 6 and 9 kr. Baden, whose figures have been reversed)—the figure is fastened down by pitch, upon which water has no effect. In this counterfeit (by the reversion of the figure) the shading of the two figures will be found to differ; the one being shaded to the right, the other to the left. We first heard of this counterfeit from Frankfort, and afterwards from Bordeaux. The Second Forgery is a lithographed imitation, bad in execution compared with the originals. All real ones have a fine line round the shaded part of the figures; between this line and the figure the engine-turned ground shows clearly; in the forgery between the line and figure is a white space. The deep black shading (clearest in lightly-printed specimens) is formed of a network of oblique lines, crossed on a black ground; in the forgery it is a solid black shadow. The genuine is die-printed and beautifully executed; the figures 0 vary in shape in each of the genuine: in 30 it is rounded, in the 90 it is more oval, and rather square at the top left side; in the 60 the 0 is between the other two.

TYPE II.—Smaller sloping numerals (Italic, or nearly so) on an intricate ground; corners hollowed; shape oblong and very small; impressed in black on white paper. 10, 30, 60, 90, 180, 300, 600.

REMARKS.—These stamps vary in the tone of the paper, as the last do; some are much clearer in detail than other specimens: some being very black, whilst others seem more of a slate colour. The 180 seems the rarest stamp of this issue; the 90 is scarcely any commoner; the 600 and 300 come next, followed by the 10 and 30; the 60 is the one most easily met with. The prices vary from half-a-crown or so for the 60, to a pound for the 180.

TYPE III.—Still smaller upright figures (Arabic, or nearly so) on a waved oval network ground; extreme background (seen only at the corners) is of crossed lines. Impressed in black on white paper; smaller size than last.

1861. 10, 20, 30, 60, 90, 180, 300, 600.

REMARKS.—These stamps vary greatly in their style of execution; the earlier ones are die-printed and dark, whilst later issues are lithographed and much lighter. For newspapers there are the 10 and 30 printed in blue ink TYPE IV.—Upright figures of value (as last) upon an oval of lace work, extreme background of the stamp of horizontal lines; oblong; in colour on white paper. 280, vermilion; 430, gamboge.

REMARKS.—The colour is laid on very thickly, and is quite raised from the surface of the paper in places. Whether these stamps are employed for letter postage, or for what they are used we do not know.

POSTMARKS.—The study of the postmarks on the earlier stamps has raised much speculation in our minds as to their date of issue. We are enabled to engrave two different marks, and submit them to our readers. Respecting the first mark, on examining about a dozen of the large 30 and 60 (all we were able to get a sight of) we find this lettering on two-thirds of them, the others show the same design, but with the words "Correo" and "Santos" in the outer circle, the word that should come between these two (as "Geballa," in the No. 1 mark) we have not been able to make out. The figures in centre seem to us to indicate date, "29 day of 8 month of 1844;" but this does not make them very ancient for stamps; many think that the date cannot be meant, and as a proof, adduce only a part of a mark (though a smaller and different one) on an italic 60, which have the figures 43 in the same position as we find them on No. 1 mark; as there can be no doubt that the italics are the issue succeeding the large figures, 43 cannot mean the date, as that would make them anterior to the larger figures. We however are inclined to think the figures must refer to the date in the first mark, and as a proof, we engrave a specimen of the large 90 Brazil; that the date is referred to in this one, cannot be doubted for a moment, it is too clearly June, 1844, to leave any ground for speculation. The examination of these marks is far from easy, owing to the value of the specimens and the consequent limited number of copies procurable; those in collections too, are usually chosen with regard to their clear appearance, and freedom from all cancelling marks. The marks on the italics are red ones, not clear enough to describe or engrave; those of the last issue are obliterated by means of square black dots. If any of our readers can help us to elucidate the curious questions of the dates of these issues, we shall feel greatly indebted to them. We believe the words Correo Geballa Corte to mean "Geballa local post;" this may be some clue to the rarity of the stamps of the first issue. The stamps are often placed on the flap of the envelope, instead of upon the same side as the direction; they are thus often overlooked by the post-office.

CHILI.

One type, eight stamps; one of the value of 1 centavo; three of 5 c.; three of 10 c.; one of 20 c. Three issues, distinguished by the paper.

FIRST ISSUE.—Head to left (said to be of Columbus) in central circle; ground within the circle of circular crossed lines; ground without the circle lighter and different; lettering within the circle, Colon, above head; below it, Chile; lettering outside circle, above, Correos Porte Franco; below, numeral of value followed by Centavos; impressed in colour on blue tinted paper.

1860. 5 c. red-brown; 10 c. deep blue.

SECOND ISSUE.—As above, on a paper tinted same as the ink with which the stamp is impressed.

1861. 5 c. red-brown; 10 c. blue.

THIRD ISSUE.—As above on white paper; 1 c. yellow; 5 c. orange-red; 10 c. blue; 20 c. green.

REMARKS.—All these stamps have as a watermark, figures the same as the value of the stamp. The 5 c. of the last issue varies in colour.

POSTMARK.—Seems invariably four circles, with seven lines within the centre one, in black ink, same as our engraving.

CORRIENTES.

These stamps, we may safely say, are equal in value to any of the other rarities of the South American Continent. We are enabled to give a good account of these stamps, having had eight undoubtedly genuine specimens in our hands very lately. These curious stamps are even more rudely executed than the stamps of New Caledonia, and like them, no two specimens seem exactly alike. There are two distinct types, and of each type, numerous varieties are known. We have given those we are acquainted with.

TYPE I.—Rudely executed head of liberty in central beaded circle; very rude Greek border at sides; star (or something like one) in each corner; lettering above head, Corrientes, in capitals; below, 1 real M.C. also in capitals, impressed in black on indigo.

VARIETIES: I.—Lettering larger and longer; wreath on head rather different to any of the others; this is a very distinct and curious variety. II.—Lettering as the type, but thinner; wreath very clear; at bottom of wreath there are six leaves. III.—Lettering smaller than the type; word Corrientes in block letters; wreath very clear, with six leaves at bottom. IV.—Has the lettering rather between Nos. II. and III., and the letters in Corrientes much spread out; bottom leaves of wreath are five in number, and arranged in the shape of a fan; at the top of the wreath there are three leaves which are very clear in this variety, and point upwards; in the others they are not near so clear, and they incline rather to the left hand side.

TYPE II.—Same stamp, without indication of value.

VARIETIES.—I. matches the No. II. variety of the other type. II. has smaller lettering, and five leaves at bottom of wreath. III. is rather like the last, but with the beads in circle very indistinct.

REMARKS.—These stamps are usually cancelled by a pen-stroke, in those with value, the words "1 real M. C." are generally crossed through and a pen-stroke taken over the head. It would seem that those with value (1 real M. C., or Moneda Corrientes, current money), were used for foreign postage, those without value, being for the interior. In a letter from Corrientes, of December last, mention was made of a new issue being in preparation; and we noticed in the January number of a new publication,* amongst new issues these of Corrientes; we copy them as below, but as we have never met with them ourselves, we cannot vouch for their authenticity.

"Inscription; "Correos de Corrientes." Head of new President to the left, coloured on tinted paper. 2 c. blue, "5 c. lake, 10 c. puce, 15 c. green, 20 c. black."

In the following number of the same magazine, we read of the (1 real M. C. and no value), Corrientes, as follows:—

* The London and New York Stamp Collector's Review.

"This stamp would be as common as the 5 c. Argentine are, had not the people of Corrientes (repudiating the Argentine government) elected their own president, and issued stamps bearing his effigy." We confess this argument does not strike us as having anything to do with their rarity, simply being the reason for their being issued. And again, "These stamps are perfectly legal in Corrientes and her dependences; but, when letters arrive at Buenos Ayres for transmission to France and England prepaid therewith, they are repudiated and the letters are forwarded as unpaid." The argument here, is, that letters prepaid with these stamps, are forwarded from Buenos Ayres as unpaid; as the letters are forwarded we do not see how this can effect the rarity of the stamps, when the postage as far as Buenos Ayres is prepaid by the Corrientes stamps. Both these passages have some information in them, but the writer's meaning is very misty. It reminds us of the passage in the Standard Guide, in which it is stated that the portrait on the Mexican stamps can scarcely be that of Santa Anna, because he had a wooden leg which disfigurement is not given in the portrait; as the Mexican portrait is little more than the head, the wooden leg—supposing the original to have possessed one—could hardly be introduced with propriety.

FORGERIES.—Both types are forged, and it is only these forgeries that are to be had, the market being full of them; they are from Brussels. The real stamps have three distinct leaves at the top of wreath; in the forgeries these leaves are not clear enough to make out, we may almost say they are wanting.

Note.—The Buenos Ayres stamps, we have been unable to give in this number, owing to a difficulty in obtaining reliable information; next month, however, will contain a clear, and reliable list.

FORGED STAMPS: HOW TO DETECT THEM.

It is seldom that so many forgeries have passed through our hands as during this last month; the stamp market is literally flooded with them—from Hamburg they come, from Basle, from Brussels, from everywhere. In such a state of affairs it is necessary to exercise the greatest caution in purchasing rare stamps, or, in fact, all stamps, for even the comparatively common ones are now imitated. Those who have exercised caution, should now exercise the more vigilance, and those who have not been cautious must now commence, or their pages will soon be filled with worthless fac-similes. With all these forgeries about, one cannot be too cautious in receiving stamps said to be newly issued or resuscitated. How the editor of the Stamp Collector's Magazine likes to speak so positively about the newly discovered (?) Prince Consort essays, without having any conclusive data for their authenticity, we cannot understand; as it is to the interest of the dealers to puff them up, we are not surprised at their doing so; but we think an editor should not admit any stamp as real without the fullest and most undeniable proofs;—these are the principles upon which we endeavour to act. From the numbers of the new forgeries, we can do little besides mention them very briefly; many are not exactly new forgeries, but we have not yet described them.

VENEZUELA.

The new issue of $\frac{1}{2}$, 1, and 2 rls. are already forged, which is of itself a proof of the care that must be exercised if one is not to be victimised. In the forgeries, the inscription touches the border in more places than one; whereas, in the genuine stamps, they touch nowhere. The neck and body of the eagle are thick and clumsy in the forgery, the Z in Venezolana differs, and the folds of the end of the label which contains word Venezolana, on the left-hand side of the extreme end, is not very clear.

CORRIENTES AND BRAZIL.

See the description in South American Postage Stamps of the present number.

VAUD.

For the forgeries now sold we would refer the reader to the December number.

BAVARIA.

See January number. There is, however, a lithographed genuine one, as well as the die-printed one, from which the description was taken in that number. The genuine lithograph is printed on a dull cream-tinted paper, and is beautifully executed, which, indeed, applies also to the forgery, though the latter is coarsely printed, and in bad ink. The genuine one is very rare, whilst the forgeries are sold for one shilling or less.

HAMBURGH.

9 schilling yellow.

GENUINE.—There is a stop after word schilling.

FORGED.—There is no stop after schilling.

Those in various colours are from another die (of course forged). The greatest difference between the forged and the genuine is in the ornament between N of Neun and H of Hamburg.

BERGEDORF.

3, 4 sch. The heads of eagle are straighter in the forged than in the genuine stamp; background of wavy lines is different; the horn below is badly done.

LUBECK.

$\frac{1}{2}$, 1, 2, $2\frac{1}{2}$, 4 sch. old issue. The heads of eagle are smaller and not so near the wings as in the genuine stamps; dots behind the eagle are arranged in oblique lines in the genuine stamp, but they are not so regular or well done in the forgery. The small ornament below the word Lubeck is more compact in the genuine than in these forgeries.

NEW GRANADA.

20 c. large issue (1861), rhubarb brown. The forgery is bright vermilion; shield is very pointed; the top compartment is totally unlike that in the real one; there are eight stars in the oval round shield, (in the genuine there are nine stars). The letters S in the real stamp are very flat, almost as broad as long; the C too, in Nacionales, the same: in the forgery these letters are the common long ones. Postmark, "Antioquia," in capitals, badly printed; the real postmark is usually "B," or "Bogota," in large bold letters.

LIBERIA.

6, 12, 24 cents. These forgeries are most excellently done; they have even the perforated edges like the originals. The following are the descriptions of the forgeries:—

6 c. pink, has scarcely any clouds visible; point of one of Liberty's feet is as near the border as it can be without touching (at first sight it does seem to be in contact with) the border line; sails of the ship are not every one clear in detail; C in Cents exactly under LIB of Liberia.

12 c. dark blue. The point of foot is different (more like the real stamp); ship is well done; C in Cents under LI; clouds pretty well done; staff of spear merely an outline throughout the entire length.

24 c. pale green. The ship has no pennant to it; clouds almost entirely wanting; C in Cents as in the 6 c.; staff of spear same as the 12 c.; point of foot as in the 6 c.

In the genuine 6 c. the ship is most distinct, (but without pennant); C in Cents under IB of Liberia; point of foot some distance from the border line; spear shaded only at top, not at all at bottom. Genuine 12 c. has the foot, the ship (with pennant), spear, and letter C, as in the 6 c.; clouds are elaborately done. Genuine 24 c.—Ship as last (with pennant); foot all but touches the border line; C in Cents under BE of Liberia.

These are perhaps as well executed forgeries, as any we have yet seen.

STAMPS LATELY ISSUED, AND RARE VARIETIES.

CAPE OF GOOD HOPE.—These long-expected stamps are at length in use. Our engraving will render a description unnecessary. We have only seen the 6d. and 1s. as yet.

HOLSTEIN AND LAUENBURG.—We have just received the new 1½ sch., blue on white paper, issued on 1st March, by the Commissioners of the "Deutcher Bund" in Holstein, for use, we are informed, there and in Lauenburg, and which we en-grave. In these stamps there is a curious watermark visible; in the white centre and over the value is a letter P, surrounded by very distinct dots; it is curious and well done.

HAMBURG.—The Stadpost of Hamburg, as administrators of the Danish post-office in that city, have issued a new stamp, value 1¼ sch. The design, as will be seen from our engraving, is a trifle different to that of those in present use. It is for the postage of letters to Denmark, Holstein, Lauenburg, and Schleswig, and is printed in two shades of purple. We understand, that, though at present printed from a lithograph, the stamps will be done from a die, in a short time.

NEW ZEALAND.—Twopence, blue, with the surface of the paper tinted pale blue; sixpence, deep red, with the surface of the paper tinted dull rose. These have been lately issued.

SPAIN.—The whole set of 1864 stamps have now been received, viz., 2, 4, 12, 19 cuartos; 1, 2 reales.

NEW SOUTH WALES.—We mentioned in our last, a rare and undescribed essay for New South Wales. It resembles the issue with the laureated head in every particular, except the absence of the label with rounded ends below the head, in which we find the value in the issued stamps, and also the label over the head is left blank (instead of having the word "Postage" as in the actual stamps). We have seen specimens in bluish-purple, yellow, and also in claret color. This stamp would seem to shew that the first intention was to insert the value in the arch over the head, as that part is left blank, and not below the head, as in the issued stamps, though it is equally possible that the engraving was not finished when this impression was taken; this latter idea would constitute the stamp into a proof of the laureated issue, "without the bottom label, and with the arch over the head left blank." But then, again, in a stamp so completely finished as the one under consideration, had it been a proof, there would surely have been some sign of the bottom label; which there is not, so we think that it is without much doubt, an essay. It is of great rarity and a handsome impression.

These seem to be the only authentic issues or alterations we have to record. There is a 12 c., Spain, issue of 1857, offered at a high price; they are not originals we feel sure from the newness of the paper, but reprints from the die. It is evident that there was an intention of issuing a 12 cuartos, (for those offered are evidently from the same die as the genuine 4 c., and others of that issue,) and that the die was made, but probably never used. This die seems to have been got hold of, and the stamps printed off; the other stamps of this issue may also be had; they are printed in various colours and sold as essays (or proofs)! So, too, are Romagna, Provincial Italian, last issue of Italy, Sicily, &c.

MAURITIUS (OR THE ISLE OF FRANCE) AND ITS STAMPS.

WE had occasion not long since to separate several of the earlier issues of this island, into the different varieties mentioned by Brown; but we soon got bothered and flew to Dr. Gray for assistance; it was "out of the fryingpan into the fire" however, so as a last resource, we turned to Bellar's and Davie's Standard Guide, and though their list is the clearest of all, we had been so confused by our study of Brown and Dr. Gray, that it was sometime before we found our ideas clear enough to comprehend the different issues properly. As all the catalogues differ more or less from one another, we made out a list for our own private edification; and as some of our friends who have seen it, are of opinion that it is clearer and more complete than any other list of these stamps, and as no catalogue has all the recent issues enumerated, we are induced to reproduce the list, for the benefit of our readers who wish an accurate synopsis of the multifarious, and excessively confusing, issues of this island. We have given twelve different varieties and types, and thirty-five stamps of the adhesive issues; of envelopcs there are three types and four stamps.

TYPE I.—1857; Britannia seated, with shield; ship in the distance; lettering below, "Mauritius;" impressed in colour upon white paper; rectangular; vermilion, dark green, crimson-lake, slate.

(1.) Lettering large, Queen with a diadem, back-ground of oblique lines, impressed in colour upon blue paper, rectangular; one penny, red, twopence, blue.

Variety. — On yellowish paper; one penny, vermilion.

(2.) Lettering smaller, Queen's head with a plain band (or fillet) in place of the diadem of the last stamp; head is different, and the whole stamp indistinct, (Moen's Catalogue says, "nearly invisible;"), impressed in colour upon blue paper, rectangular.

Variety 1. — Ground of upright lines; twopence, blue.

Variety 2. — Ground of crossed oblique lines; one penny, reddish yellow; twopence, dark blue.

Variety 3.—Ground of upright, horizontal, and crossed oblique lines; twopence, blue.

Variety 4.—As last, but even runder in the engraving, and worse printed; twopence, blue.

impressed in colour on white paper, rectangular; one penny, vermilion; twopence, blue.

TYPE IV.—Same as type I., but with "Mauritius" overarched at top, value below, impressed in colour, rectangular; sixpence, blue; one shilling, vermilion.

1861.—One penny, brownish pink; twopence, blue; fourpence, rose; ninepence, lilac; one shilling, pale brown.

1862.—Sixpence, green.

1863, 1st Sept.—Threepence, vermilion.

Variety, with very minute numeral of value, in a small circle on each side of the Queen's head.

1863.—Fourpence, vermilion; sixpence, lilac; pale green; one shilling, green; ochre; five shillings, mauve.

ENVELOPES.

1863.—Sixpence, mauve.

TYPE II.—Head as last, in a central plain shield, within a nine-sided frame; "Mauritius" above,

TYPE III.—Head as last, in a central oval within a larger oval, containing above, "Mauritius Postage," below, "One Shilling," head only in relief, on blue paper; one shilling, yellow.

By this list it will be seen that there are six different stamps of one penny, seven of twopence, five of sixpence, and seven of one shilling.

Mauritius has been a British possession since 1810. It was discovered by the Portuguese in 1505, from whom it was wrested in 1598 by the enterprising Dutch, who gave it its present name, in honour of their Prince Maurice. The eminent French writer, Bernardin de St. Pierre, lived on the island for two years, and, on his return to France, wrote his beautiful little story of "Paul and Virginia," the scene of which was laid in this island.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

- W. LOVELL, JUN., London.—Many thanks for your good wishes and suggestions, our present space however will not admit of our carrying either of the latter into effect at present. We hope all of our subscribers will endeavour to induce others to take our magazine in regularly.
- J. R. ROBBARD, Bristol.—Your Argentine is unquestionably a forgery. See our description in last number.
- MRS. ENGLISH.—We consider all the Confederate stamps you sent are genuine—the only one about which we have any doubt is the 2c. New Orleans; but even this we think is the real stamp.
- W. GREY.—Lallier's Album is 7s. 6d.—we will send it post free for 8s. 2d. There is no difference whatever in the two stamps you sent. There are only two magazines for stamp collectors published in England now, the Stamp Collector's Magazine and our own, all others are mere advertising sheets, (their name is legion), though we observe one published in Manchester is to be issued in an enlarged form as a magazine in future. The London International Review is defunct. On the continent there are several published in the German language, one by Moens in French, and one by a Parisian house in French.
- OMEGA, Southport.—Your Winan's 2 cents is a vile imitation. The lettering at the bottom (2 cents) is inverted. The Moldavian stamp is probably one of the reprints so largely offered to collectors at present.

Advertisements should reach the office not later than the 6th. of the month.

STAMPS—Continued.

BUENOS AYRES.

TYPE I.—Steam vessel in central transverse oval; lettering in rounded-end labels; above, “Correos;” below, “Buenos Aires;” value to the left-hand; on the right, “Franco;” impressed in colour upon dull unglazed paper.

Dos Ps., blue; black; Cuat°. Ps. blue; brown; Cin. Ps., blue; brown.

These are all authentic and undoubted. The following we have to admit, but will speak about them further on—

Tre Ps., green; Cuat°. Ps. red; Cin. Ps., orange.

TYPE II.—Head of Liberty to left, in central circle, on a solid ground, with ornaments around; lettering as last; impressed in colour upon slightly glazed paper.

1861.—Die-printed as above, 4 rs. 1, 2 pesos.

1862.—Die-printed as above, on white paper; 1 peso, rose; 2 pesos, pale blue; 2 pesos, dark blue.

REMARKS.—The colour of the blue stamps of the first type, varies considerably; some are deep Prussian blue, and others are indigo. The brown stamps, too, are found both light and dark. It will be noticed we give no 1 peso, type I. Good judges maintain that it does not exist; and we have never been able to procure or to see a genuine one. Green 3, red 4, and orange 5 pesos are looked upon as doubtful by good judges; but as the 4 and 5 exist in both blue and brown, it is not impossible that red and orange impressions have been struck from the plates, (as there are puce 1d. and rose 4d. Western Australia, though only single sheets of either were struck); whereas it is thought that no plate exists for un peso. The specimens that are shewn as the 1 peso, we should reject for the following reasons—It is evident that the lettering on a 1 peso would be Un P^o; in most of those we have seen, the value reads Un P^s, which is nonsense, as it gives the plural Pesos with the singular Un. In those few which read properly (which we happen to have seen), it seems clear to us that the P^o has been altered from P^s; and Un in every case, on close inspection, turns out to be a badly printed “Cin.” The “C” of “Cin” is never completed all round; therefore, the parts of the C which are visible, may be easily turned into, or mistaken for, the first stroke of a U; the letter “I” of “Cin” forming the other stroke. The 3 p. green, 4 red, and 5 orange, are very rare; but of the bona fide stamps, the 2 p. blue is the rarest, whilst the 5 p. blue is the commonest, and may be had for half-a-crown: the 4 p. blue and brown, and 5 p. brown, will realise much more than this, especially the 4 p. brown. (Dos P is the 2; Tre for Tres, the 3; Cuat^o for Cuatro, the 4; and Cin for Cinco, the 5.)

Want of space precludes our giving the Postmarks, &c., in this number.

THE PRINCE CONSORT ESSAYS.

BY EDWARD L. PEMBERTON.

HAVING written to Mr. F. H. Burn to ask him to give me fuller particulars respecting these stamps than were to be found in his letter to the Stamp Collector's Magazine, I received in reply a letter from which I extract the following, verbatim:—

(1.) “The two sheets are no other than the proofs exhibited in the parliamentary enquiry by a select committee, in March 1852. (2.) They were engraved in August 1850, by Robert E. Branston, and S. W. Reynolds: the former and his father were for many years engravers to the commissioners of the Board of Excise; Reynolds, well known for his admirable engravings from the paintings of Sir Joshua Reynolds. (3.) Henry Archer, who adapted the paper perforating machine to the subdividing of the sheets of postage stamps in the autumn of 1847, was at best, but badly treated; when he had obtained a patent that cost him £140, and had incurred liabilities to the amount of £900 more, the Lords of the Treasury proffered him £300 for his machine, and £200 as a gratuity for his services. This he rejected. (4.) The stamps produced by Bacon and Petch were infamous as regarded their adhesive quality, more particularly, looking at the price they were paid, 6d. per thousand stamps, upon the millions they were printing. (5.) Archer, associating with Branston, prepared a master head of Prince Albert, having been (6) interdicted or forbidden by the authorities to adopt or use that of the Queen; and all experiments in any way or form, were ordered to be destroyed.

(7.) Archer and Branson proffered in May 1851 to produce stamps, equally as effective as those produced by Bacon and Petch, at 5d. per thousand stamps, thereby causing a saving to the public of £1500 a year, (8) provided they might use plates to print the stamps, on the surface principle, as those of France and Belgium have ever been. Archer and Branson would produce them at 4½d. per thousand. (9) These plates were then in their hands, but they dared pull* no other than the two proofs, (10) which were shewn to the Parliamentary Committee in March, 1852, in support of Archer's claim, which subsequently resulted in his being paid £4000 by the Government, and his machine used in the perforation of the stamps, as now used. (11.) Everything was destroyed but this pair of proofs.

(12.) All the parties are now dead, and this pair of proofs fell into my possession, from being found among the papers of a person known to me for many years as a collector. I was told of them by accident, and was informed by the widow, that I might purchase them. I did so, and have disseminated almost half my parcel; but when dispersed, no more will ever be procurable. * * *

To the dealers I first charged —* for them to sell at 10s. 6d. each; but finding there were many persons who thought them dear, on the 15th February, I altered the price, —* to dealers, 8s. to gentlemen collectors. As essays you will find the whole particulars in the report on Postage Label Stamps, 1852. Misled by reading in a periodical, a paper not written in praise of Prince Albert, that 'even the attempt to render him popular by placing his head on postage stamps, failed, and it gave place to that of the Queen's, as it now appears,' I at first believed the stamps had reference to 1840, but having sought for facts, find them as now stated to you. If you want further data I can help you, so ask and have, only treat me fairly."

In accordance with the desire of Mr. Burn to be treated fairly, I wrote in reply the following: "There is (you say) no reserve on your part, and you ask for none upon mine. In that case I tell you from the whole tenor of your letter, it would seem to me, that these stamps (I will call them so) have no claim to the name of essay; as I apprehend it, they are merely specimens, made by A. and B. (on the plate principle) as samples of what they could do, when proffering to produce stamps equal to those of Bacon and Petch, but at a less price than those makers. In this case I cannot see that they have any value to collectors; it is of course possible that I have misunderstood you in arriving at this conclusion. I should like to have even further data, because what you have already told me, strikes me as I have here written, and therefore, leaves doubts in my mind."

In Mr. Burn's reply, he tells me where I could procure the 1852-Report on Postage Labels, for which I had enquired, but does not give me any of the further data promised.

Anyone reading the extracts from Mr. Burn's letter, must arrive at the conclusion that these "Consorts" claim to the title of essay is a very strained one. The Canada 12 pence is an essay in the truest sense of the word, the die having been engraved and specimen copies struck from it; but the stamp was never issued for use. The three-half-penny English is another true essay, and it strikes me that the 1 d. V.R. is an essay too. Another real essay seems the 12 cuartos, Spain, of 1857. The reprints show that there was a die engraved, but experience shows that it was never used. I do not see that these "Consorts" can be anything more than specimens, made by a speculative engraver, who thought he could make stamps equal to Bacon and Petch, but at an inferior price. This is how Mr. Burn's argument struck me, when I first read his letter:—the engravers whom he says made them were Archer and Brantson; from his own letters I will show that Archer and Brantson could not have made them, and, whilst doing so, will point out a few other trifling discrepancies in Mr. Burn's arguments. For convenience of reference I have numbered the principal sentences in the said letters.

(1.) If these stamps, in the possession of Mr. F. H. Burn, were made just to show to the Select Committee in 1852, they would surely have been found cut up, and not in one sheet. They would have been presented to the separate members of the committee, and therefore should be found singly.

(2.) I am told that Branston and Reynolds engraved it, but further on it seems that Archer and Branston prepared it. (See reference number 5, where Branston, is spelt Bransdon, it is so too at No. 7, whilst at No. 8 he returns to the first form, with a T.

(3.) Henry Archer adapted perforating to stamps in the Autumn of 1847.

(4.) Bacon and Petch produced stamps at sixpence per thousand. (See reference No. 7, where it says the price was fivepence.)

(5.) "Prepared a master-head." In my opinion for a "master-piece" of engraving, it is singularly poor. Two or three good engravers of stamps who have seen it, are quite of the same opinion.

(6.) "Were forbidden to use the Queen's head." They were doing nothing illegal that they should be interdicted from engraving the Queen's head. One would think that they were doing something dishonest or illegal, for (at reference No. 9) "they dared only strike off two sheets." Who could prevent them striking off as many as they chose?

(7.) "Proffered in May, 1851."

No. 1 says were engraved in August, 1850, which shews it was engraved before any offer was made. Then reference No. 6, "were forbidden to use the Queen's head,"—who forbade them? not the select committee; the offer not being made by A. and B. until the master head had been engraved, and in their own hands 8 months. They could not forbid it, when they did not know it was being done, apart from the fact, that there is nothing illegal in engraving the head of the Queen.

(10.) Reference to No. 3 shews that Archer applied the perforating machine to stamps, but could not get terms worth his acceptance. At No. 5, Archer associates with Branston, to produce a master head of Prince Albert, which were shewn in support of ARCHER'S CLAIM, &c., which subsequently resulted in his being paid £4000, and his machine used in the perforation of the stamps, as now used. What was Archer's claim? From what Mr. Burn says, it is most evidently perforation as applied to postage stamps! To sum up, Mr. Burn tells us, in substance, that these "master-heads" were shewn in support of Archer's claim, which claim is for having perforation applied to stamps, and that, in consequence of the exhibition of these labels, Archer's claim was recognised, and his machine used, as it is now. All this is of little use or interest when we find that the master-heads of Mr. Burn's are not perforated! They cannot be those labels prepared by Archer and Branston, or those which Mr. Burn says are mentioned in the Report on Postage Labels of 1852, because they are not perforated; and perforation must have been the great inducement held out to the authorities to make them change the stamps. That I have not misunderstood Mr. Burn, is clear from the next paragraph (11), in which he says, that "Everything was destroyed but this pair of proofs," which (12) came into his possession, and leaves no doubt that these of his pretend to be the identical specimens which were shewn in support of Archer's claim. If intended to "cut out" the then used 1d. stamps, why were they not as well engraved as the one in use? Compare the hair of the "Albert" with the hair of ordinary "Queen's head," and the vastly superior engraving of the latter will be at once apparent. Mr. Whymper, in writing to me about these individuals, says, "They cannot have been done as specimens of engraving from their wretched execution. I will turn out a much better 'Essay' than the Albert, for a penny a copy. The 'Albert' is very like a wood-cut." Mr. Burn cannot think me unfair in printing these portions of his letters, because he says, "Anything I have said or may say is as open as daylight." I hope Mr. Burn will not think I have subjected his writings to too much daylight; they were not written by him for the purpose of printing. The contradictions we have mentioned certainly require explanation.

FORGED STAMPS: HOW TO DETECT THEM.

A great mass of new forgeries have this month appeared. There are certain parties in Hamburg who sell packets of 50 avowed forgeries—or fac-similes—for 7s. 6d., and it is from this reprehensible practice that so many forgeries are about; the packets are broken up, and other dealers sell the contents as real. Very excellent imitations of the old Bergedorf have been in the market for some time, and lately seem to have increased. The following are a few differences.

GENUINE.—Both $\frac{1}{2}$ and 3 sch. have 55 small circles round the arms; these circles are everywhere very clear. In the $\frac{1}{2}$ sch. these circles touch the border line on each of the four sides; the figures 1 and 2 of $\frac{1}{2}$ touch respectively the line above, and that below them.

FORGED.—The $\frac{1}{2}$ has 46 small circles round the arms, the 3 has 52; these circles are not at all regular in their appearance; they do not touch the border line on the left side in the $\frac{1}{2}$ sch.; in the $\frac{1}{2}$ the figure 1 of $\frac{1}{2}$ touches the line above it, but the 2 of $\frac{1}{2}$ does not touch the line below it; in the 3 sch., the horn below the arms is closer to the small circles than it is in the genuine stamp.

GREECE.

The whole set is forged; a suspected one may be compared with a 20 c. France, and the background, if the stamp be a forgery, will be much coarser, and not quite like it; the small marks between the lines being much different. If the stamp be real, it will agree with the French stamps.

TUSCANY.

There are two forgeries of the Crazie, Soldi, and Quattrino stamps. In the genuine stamps we may observe the following points as unvarying:—

The paw of the lion which is upon the top shield shews four distinct toes. The line which is touched by the base of the shield is never broken. The line which marks the two parts of the only visible hind-leg is carried round curiously to the left, making the leg appear like that of a frog. Shading down the back is very distinct, marking the shape of the leg most clearly; also the hind-leg has a little shading on the part to the left-hand. The end of the tail (to the left side of the base of shield) is in three points; the centre one of which is long and touches the line below the base of the shield; whilst the two other points touch the line upon which the base of the shield rests. In addition to these points, there are watermarks. In the white paper issue there are usually long elliptical marks running from top to bottom; whereas, in the blue-tinted issue, these marks are straight lines from one side of the stamp to the other, or a mark of circles and lines. The issue with lion and shield is found on pure white, deep blue, and lightly tinted papers. With a little care they may easily be distinguished. In each value, the difference between the three is clear.

STAMPS LATELY ISSUED
AND RARE VARIETIES.

THERE are several fresh stamps requiring description this month. We engrave a 4 schillinge, issued for SCHLESWIG. It is tolerably done, but the design is so simple, there is little room for the display of fine engraving. It exhibits the 'sweet simplicity,' that is to be found in the Thurn & Taxis stamps, and like the stamps of some of the German States, bears the value in schillinge, instead of sk., (for skilling) as on the Danish labels, which would seem to indicate that they have a German origin.

HAMBURG.—We engrave a stamp issued about 1st April, doubtless for the same purpose as the one issued last month; viz.,—for postage to Holstein, &c.—the value being just double, 2½ sch. It is printed in green, on white paper.

LÜBECK has also issued a new stamp value 1¼ sch., which we engrave;

the design, it will be seen, is different to those last issued, no part being embossed. We presume this will be used in like manner to the foregoing.

LIVONIA.—We engrave a new type of these unaccountable stamps. It seems rather problematical whether they are postage stamps, and their nominal value is a matter of equal uncertainty. The specimen engraved is pale blue upon a white paper, gummed at back, but not perforated.

NEW GRANADA.—A new issue appeared at the commencement of the year, though some few specimens of the 10c. were used last December.—The issue contains: 5c. yellow; 10c. blue; 20c. red; these are all we have seen. In design they resemble the previous issue, but the branches are in white upon a coloured ground, and outside the stamp, in the four corners, are ornaments, each of which is a compromise between a fleur-de-lis and a star. We engrave the 5c., which will render a fuller description unnecessary.

CUBA.—A new stamp has been issued very lately, $\frac{1}{4}$ real, of which we give an engraving. As will be seen, it resembles the Spanish issue of 1860; it is impressed in black upon white paper, and has rather a striking appearance. We presume $\frac{1}{4}$ Rl. Pta. F., is a contraction for $\frac{1}{4}$ real Plata-fuerte, or, current money; we find the contraction "f^{te}" on some of the earlier Luzon stamps.

ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.—Essays of a new issue are in Paris; they are engraved on steel, are of three values as hitherto, but the arms are replaced by a bust—rather to the left—of Don Bernardin Rivadavia. They all bear the value in words as well as figures, and are all three different in design. The colours of these essays are the same as the regular stamps, but they have not been finally adopted.

CEYLON.—The 4 d. envelope is found in dark chocolate, as well as pink.

ITALY.—1852.—20c. deep purple blue, very rare and curious. This is a very handsome stamp, and not a reprint.

INDIA.—There is a proof of the old 2 anna on plate paper, in black—very scarce and valuable.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA.—Specimens of the one penny have been printed in puce, and of the fourpence in pink; they are very rare as yet, single sheets (of 240) only having been printed. The 1 d. was not liked, but the 4 d. may be adopted, in which case it will cease to be any rarity, but in the present state of the matter, it is one of the rarest of stamps.

ST. LUCIA.—The shilling stamp has not yet been issued to the public, although orders have been sent to England some time back to forward them.

GAMBIA.—A letter from Cape Coast Castle tells us, that the authorities at East Gambia intend to issue stamps, two or three different values; nothing is known as to their size, value, or colour as yet.

MECKLENBURG.—The color of the 5 sch envelope was altered in February last from blue to brown; the adhesive is to be issued in same color.

ST. HELENA.—We hear a shilling stamp has been issued, the color being green. It is the sixpenny stamp with one shilling printed across.

NEW ZEALAND.—There is a 6d. stamp printed in marone or red-brown, just out.

QUERIES FOR COLLECTORS.

Replies to some of those in our January No. have been received, and are annexed.

- 2.—The large figures Brazil were issued 1st July, 1845.—LEON C.
- 3.—The only specimen known in England of the 12d. Canada is printed in black, like the proofs of the stamps, and has the word "Specimen" printed across it in red letters. We have seen the black 6d, with 'specimen' across the face of the stamp. It was evidently intended to issue a 12d., but as no post-marked copy seems known, we may presume that the original intention was not carried out, and that the 12d. is a real essay.—Ed., J.C.S., &c.

4.—The stamps issued in the Confederate States at New Orleans, Mobile, Charleston, Nashville, &c., were strictly used for, and legal as, postage stamps, until the Government adopted their own; the stamp could only be used from the place it was made for:—For instance, New Orleans 5c., this amount pays the postage a distance of 500 miles, with this proviso, the letter must be posted in the city of New Orleans. A letter for Charleston (South Carolina) requires a fee of 10c., being over 500 miles, but no postage is higher than 10c. for any distance. The same applies to the other stamps issued by the several cities.—W.M.

5.—There is a 60 crazie and a 9 crazie Tuscany, upon white paper. (Pietro Capanna, Leghorn.) The 9cr. on white is very scarce, but the 60cr. is far rarer.—Ed.

Can none of our readers help us to satisfactory answers to Nos. 1 and 6 as also to the following?

7.—Are the present reprints of the old Portuguese, Romagnole, Sicilian, Modenese, Spanish, Cuban, Neapolitan, Hanoverian, Italian 1851, United States, &c., &c. issued by the Post Offices? or have private speculators bought the plates, working them for their own profit?

8.—What are—or were—the numerous stamps for British Guiana, of very simple designs, known as newspaper stamps, issued for, and what may account for their numerous varieties?

9.—Does the real $\frac{1}{2}$ anna red, old, India, resemble the old 1 anna in the design of the corner ornaments? and is it like that stamp, of a deep red? We believe the real $\frac{1}{2}$ anna is more of a rose colour.

10.—Is there a 1-15 thaler Hanover, first issue, lilac? or is it a chemically changed blue 1-15?

11.—Are the stamps for the Neapolitan Provinces, with the head of Victor Emmanuel now in use? or have they been superseded by the recent Italian issue?

CORRESPONDENCE.

To the Editor of the "STAMP COLLECTOR'S REVIEW."

SIR—Referring to your paper on the Mauritius stamp, in No. 16, I find you undertake to clear up the confusion in my catalogue and give collectors an accurate list. But there are stamps mentioned which have never come under my notice, and I think I may challenge you to produce them. They are as follows:—

- (1.) Type I.—Varieties (?) slate, with eight-pence printed in black letters.
- (2.) Type V.—Head of Queen in oval, without numeral of value each side. 6d. green; 1s. pale brown.
- (3.) Variety with numeral of value each side 4d., vermilion.

Why is the last-mentioned termed "variety?" which I understand to mean, some accidental—not constant—difference in colour, legend or otherwise. By affording me some information on these points you would oblige.

Yours truly,
M. BROWN.

London.

[In reply, we have to thank Mr. Brown for pointing out the above errors, and to say that we agree with him as to the last-mentioned stamps. We beg to inform Mr. Brown, and our readers generally, that the list of Mauritius referred to was compiled from all the catalogues, and with the exception of the earliest issues, we depended on the accuracy of the catalogues, instead of upon that of our own observations; hence our falling into some of the errors of those compilers. But surely Mr. Brown cannot mean there is no stamp with eight pence printed upon it? We presume it is the colour which offends, we have called it slate, which might perhaps be softened with propriety. Indeed this often happens in Mr. Brown's catalogue; for instance, Romagna 4 bai. red.; Italy, 1851, 40 c. red.; Modena 10 c. brown.; all these colours might be toned down, and express more correctly the proper tint of the stamp. As a slight return for Mr. Brown's kindness in pointing out the above errors of Bellars and Davie, may we in our turn point out a few stamps, of which Mr. Brown would have difficulty in producing genuine specimens? Pacific Steam Navigation Co. $\frac{1}{2}$ oz., 1 real, brown.; Wells, Fargo, Pony Express 2 doll., black.; and Stage-coach, via Los Angeles, for U. S. Mail, black.; Modena 15 c. violet.; Geneva 5 c. iron-grey.; Zurich 4, 6 rap. without fine lines over the stamp. We were not aware that Mr. Brown had fixed the word "variety" in the above sense, as applied to stamps, or we would not have used it in a sense so opposed to his apprehension of the word. Surely, Mr. Brown cannot call Corrientes an "accidental" difference in "colour." "legend." and "otherwise" from the Argentine Confederation? Yet on the first page of his Catalogue there is the Argentine Confederation, with Corrientes underneath as a variety; after that Mr. Brown can scarcely object to our using the word as we have done, as shewing a minute (but permanent) difference from an existing type. We wonder Mr. Brown does not use the word—in his own sense—a little more freely. He calls the 49 c. Modena a variety, then why should the 3 gr. Naples be excluded from the same category? If ever there was an "accidental" variety, it is this 3 gr. Naples. We think, too, that in our sense, it might be used successfully in describing the Spain, 1854, 6 c. &c., same device as the 4 c.; Queensland Registered, same device as the regular stamps., and in the stamps for Peru and New Granada. But we must bow to the superior knowledge of our great authority—Mount Brown—and suppose that what he has written he has written.—ED.]

To the Editor of the "STAMP COLLECTOR'S REVIEW."

Sir.—Collectors have at last, in your review what has hitherto been a great desideratum—an exposé of the forged stamps as they appear, and a description of the obliterating marks in addition to that of the stamps themselves, both from the well-known pen of one of the ablest writers of the day. Hitherto the publishers of our serials—dealers themselves—seem to have been deterred from giving such information for fear of offending the trade, and of losing their advertisements. Yours is therefore a laudable innovation, and a step in the right direction. I hope you will continue to expose without mercy anything that borders on fraud. The Stamp Collector's Magazine, in my opinion, has (perhaps innocently) assisted the floating of the "Prince Consorts." You have boldly given your opinion. I am one of those who do not believe in them, and I know that the great collectors in England and abroad do not admit them into their albums. Any one can make an essay. I design a stamp, offer it to government with the certainty of rejection, and upon that rejection, I call it an essay or rejected design, and it straightway becomes valuable in the eye of collectors through having been so refused—this is very ridiculous. What I maintain is that "Consorts" were not engraved and printed some twenty years ago. If Mr. Burn could prove that they had been printed so long since, he would do so, and give the name of the party who had the sheets in his possession during that period.

Some months ago twenty sets of the old Bergedorf were offered for sale in the London market, and were bought by a dealer who is implicitly believed in by a few collectors, and who is considered by them as one of our first authorities; others are of opinion that his knowledge of stamps is very superficial—I am amongst these latter. He retailed these Bergedorf to his customers, and specimens were offered to me, but looking upon them as reprints, I declined to purchase them. It is now proved that they are something worse than reprints, namely forgeries. In the genuine old Bergedorf the circle going round the arms is composed of fifty-five small circles in the $\frac{1}{2}$ schilling, and we find the same number of small circles in the $\frac{1}{4}$ schilling in present use; whereas the number of small circles is forty-six only in the forgery alluded to. In the forged old 3 schilling the number of the circles does not correspond with the number of circles of the 3 schilling in present use. There are other differences which it would take too long to explain.

I quite agree with you about your article on Pony Expresses in one of the numbers of your Review. My information received direct from a New York friend corresponds with your statement, that several of the Wells Fargo stamps,—amongst others the 2 dollars black Pony Express, given in Mount Brown's Catalogue,—never existed as stamps issued, and were never printed as essays. There is a forged 2 dollar black Pony Express, and that is all. I have the utmost dislike to reprints of all kinds, and will not have them at any price, but they have certainly done some good, in bringing down the "fancy" prices hitherto paid for some obsolete stamps, the early Spanish especially. They are already offered at less than half the old prices, and are likely to come down still more.

Yours truly,

A COUNTRY SUBSCRIBER.

To the Editor of the "STAMP COLLECTOR'S REVIEW."

SIR,—I lately received a number of stamps from Hamburg, which I bought for genuine, and part of which I disposed of before I discovered that they were not so. I send you this for insertion, so that those persons to whom I have sold these stamps, may see that I sent them in ignorance of their fictitious character.

I am most willing to receive the stamps back, nothing being further from my intention than wittingly to sell a forgery.

I am sir, your obedient servant,

JAMES SHELTON.

Great Grimsby.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

T. H. VENABLES, Surbiton.—There is no denomination of value to be found on the Ionian Island stamps. The figure 1 watermarked in the red stamp cannot denote the value, that being the 2d. stamp.

G. GREENWOOD, Preston.—Your article does not possess sufficient interest for insertion in our columns. We shall be glad however if you can send us any article which shall contain original information.

G. W. B. Wolverhampton.—We cannot inform you when the Egyptian stamps are to appear. The Schleswig we engrave in this number.

A. CROFT, Chester.—Your Sicilian stamps are decidedly genuine. The forgeries are easily detected by the size of the lettering, which is larger than the original.

LEON CHANDELIER, Havre.—Thanks for your communications. Our article on South American stamps, in March number, however, anticipated the information about Corrientes.

W. F., Derby.—Moen's Illustrations already issued comprise 17 parts, each containing about 35 types.

A COLONIAL COLLECTOR may receive our magazine direct from the office, by forwarding the annual subscription.

Advertisements should reach the office not later than the 6th. of the month.

BUENOS AYRES.

REMARKS.—We have a few more observations to make about the 1 p. ship. The French dealers, in making a 1 P° from a badly printed 5, alter it to in P° (not un, as it grammatically would be). In a very accurate French list of stamps we have seen "Buenos Ayres 1 P (in). sic." which of course is meant to throw a doubt upon there being a 1 peso. Had the 1 peso been issued it would surely have been a common stamp in Buenos Ayres, and yet the largest importers of the old stamps direct from there, have never chanced to meet with a single specimen. The value of the Buenos Ayres paper peso is 2½d., silver 4s. 3d., and gold 4s.; we need scarcely say the paper peso represents the value upon the postage stamps. A few words upon the various values of the South American dollar may prove of interest. The dollar of Chili, Peru, and Costa Rica (and also that of the United States) are all worth 4s. 2d., varying a trifle according to the rate of exchange. In Mexico they have the pillar dollar, sold in London to be shipped for China; they generally fetch 1d. an oz. more than the South American dollars.

The 1860 stamps of Buenos Ayres vary much in colour, the 1 peso being indigo and pale blue; the 1862 1 p. rose is not upon white paper (as stated last month in error) but upon a cream-tinted one.

FORGERIES.—The 1 peso, as has been explained, is fictitious, being made from the 5 pesos. The forgeries have been already described on page 70 of our first vol. They are very poorly done, and are not likely to victimise many.

POSTMARKS.—The one engraved is that usually found upon the oldest issue, in black or blue. It must be remembered that the mark is never so distinct as this engraving; we have to "restore" them on purpose for engraving, and it is often a matter of great difficulty to complete a post mark satisfactorily from several halves of the impression. The first issue is obliterated by this and by a large oval of widely-placed crossed lines. Also large dots and lines with dots between, are found on the lithographed stamps of Type II. The present mark is a double circle, with the name and full date in black ink.

The mark which we engrave seems different when seen upon the stamp; there each of those thick lines appear like two thinner ones joined in places; we think, however, that one thick line is the correct interpretation.

We engrave the Bogota postmark so generally seen upon the Grenada stamps.

FORGED STAMPS: HOW TO DETECT THEM.

AUSTRIA.

FORGED.—(1) It is rather below it. (2) Extreme point of the cap points to the left-hand top corner. (3) Hair curly, but too indistinct. (4) This knot is nearly as much over the E as the P, i.e., it comes between the two letters. (5) The dots are not by any means distinct.

It must be remembered that the second and fifth points may not be clear in every specimen, because (in both forged and genuine Mercuries) the amount of colour on the stamps varies exceedingly; those which have the least amount show the above points clearly.

In addition to these forgeries, many others are prevalent. The genuine blue stamp is often turned yellow by chemicals; the impressions however are too clear, and they are very pale primrose yellow in colour. Our yellow Mercury which we have had more than two years, is of a dull yellow ochre, and has scarcely any single part or letter visible enough for one to decide what the design or lettering is. Rare and nearly priceless as this stamp is, the pink Mercury is still more rarely to be seen genuine. The following is the reason of its scarcity—the blue is value 1 krz.; the yellow 10 krz.; the pink 50 krz.; which were used respectively to frank one newspaper, or packets of ten and fifty newspapers. The blue Mercury seems to have been reprinted lately; the original colour was two or three shades lighter than these unused reprints. Real Mercures are all three from the same die.

SAXONY.

3 pf; figure of value in central square, upon an intricate ground; "Sachsen" above, "Franco" below, "Drie" to left, "Pfennige" to the right; a rose ornament in each corner; red impression; square.

GENUINE.—The figure 3 is covered with fine work, which we may describe as follows:—The marks on the figure appear to us like a small badly written figure 3; these marks are very clear at the lowest part of the figure and round the bottom curl, the figures are turned backwards and forwards and do not form any particular pattern; there are dots interspersed between the small figures; stop after Franco; word "Pfennige" printed on the centre of the label; back ground on which is the large 3, intricate and curious; no particular

FORGED.—The small marks on the 3 could scarcely be taken for small figures, there seems more of an attempt to form a pattern out of them, especially in the top part of the figure; neither are they so clear as on the genuine; there is a very distinct white margin left all round the figure, occasioned by the fine work on it not being sufficient to fill the body; no stop after Franco; word "Pfennige" has more margin below than above it; back ground of fine wavy lines, unto which is worked a diamond pattern, in thicker lines; this is clearer on the right side than on the other.

This forgery is printed upon white, blue, and rose tinted paper, and in different shades of red and rose coloured inks; also, they are with forged postmarks of all sorts and shapes. The whole execution is much coarser than the genuine stamp, especially the lettering, which, in the real stamp, is very neat and clear.

CONFEDERATE STATES.

GENUINE.—The stars in corners round the head never touch any of the lines adjacent; the small ornaments by the top stars do not touch the lines near them; letters rounded, and very clear in outline, especially the letters CO of Confederate; face boldly shaded on the cheek turned towards us; and there is a bit of strong shading extending from the whiskers to the nose.

FORGED.—The points of the stars touch nearly everywhere; the hair on head has white streaks in it, not observable in the real stamp; lettering long, thin, and rather broken in the outline, (see CO of Confederate, the C is peculiarly oval and elongated); the shading not bold or like the original; ear is very badly drawn, though the ear of the genuine is well enough done.

STAMPS LATELY ISSUED AND RARE VARIETIES.

WE have very little to notice this month in the way of novelties.

MONTE VIDEO.—We have received Essays of a new issue. They are lithographed, and much resemble the stamps of the Argentine Republic in their general appearance, as will be seen by our engraving. Those we have seen are 6 centesimos, lake; 8 c. green; 10 c. ochre; 12 c. blue.

BELGIUM.—The Timbre Poste gives notice that the present stamps are to be changed, and designs are wanted for a new issue. The authorities give a general outline of what the stamps must be, so that doubtless there will be great similarity between all tendered designs. The dies, &c., are to be delivered by the 1st July next, and a prize of £200 will be given to the successful competitor. What a fine opportunity for some enterprising engraver, to send over a design as hideous as possible, and upon its rejection, to turn an honest penny, or many honest pounds, by selling them as essays! Our readers may depend upon it, this will be done. The stamps on Belgian letters are now obliterated by dots, placed some distance apart, which are pressed into the paper of the stamp, nearly puncturing it.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA.—The 1d. stamp has been altered in colour, and is now a deep rich red. We have seen a 4d. within the last few days, which is the same in shape as the 1d. stamp, colour blue, not gummed at the back, or perforated. We learn that it is not decided to issue this stamp, but it may be in use at the present time. If it is not issued this blue stamp will be very valuable at some future time. We have been told that the 4d. is to be brick-red, but it is scarcely likely that both 1d. and 4d. should be red. Certainly our English 1d. and 4d. are so, but then the designs and papers are totally different. Time alone can show which of these pieces of information is correct. As at present printed the blue 4d. is a proof, or essay perhaps, the shape being different from the present 4d.

CUBA.—We have heard it said that the black $\frac{1}{4}$ real (which we engraved in our last number) is the proof, and that the issue is to be chocolate. The black stamp came from a West Indian correspondent as issued at the commencement of this year. It is not printed upon plate paper as an engravers proof usually is, which seems to show that it is issued.

HANOVER.—Issue with network over the stamp. There is a 1-10th thaler, with the smaller design of network, in addition to the 1-30th mentioned in Mount Brown's 5th edition. Besides being smaller in the network the 1-30th has the net arranged perpendicularly, instead of in the usual horizontal manner. We believe the 1-10th has 'the network in the usual way. We mentioned the 3 pf. smaller network some time back; it does not appear in Brown's latest edition. As the 1-10th and 1-30th are both known now with small netting, the 1-15th may possibly turn up at some future period.

COSTA RICA.—We omitted to mention the 4 reales added to the three other stamps of this beautiful series. The colour is handsome, a deep green. These four stamps when together, have a very beautiful appearance; their rich colouring and fine execution are scarcely to be surpassed by any other stamps. The dark blue un, scarlet dos, deep green cuatro reales, and orange 1 peso, contrast with one another exquisitely. The proof 1r. in green, we do not take into consideration, as so few are likely to possess it.

SCHLESWIG.—A green 1¼ sch. has appeared matching the 4 sch., engraved in our last impression. These two stamps are for Schleswig proper and not for Holstein and Schleswig. The 1¼ sk. (square, blue, issued Mar. 1st) is to be withdrawn and a stamp substituted, with the value in German and Danish. We have just heard of another Schleswig, blue impression on pink crossed lines, white paper; 1¼ Schilling CRT in centre 1½ SLM below, POST at top, HRZGL on the left side, and FRMRK on the right side. Possibly it is the stamp which is expected, but we cannot tell, as it has only come to hand at the last minute. All the lettering is in capitals.

In the last number we mentioned the new shade of the 6d. New Zealand; we have received a set of stamps now in use, and they are the following:—1d. very bright red, nearly vermilion; 2d. blue, on a blue tinted paper; 3d. lilac; 6d. rich brown, slightly marone; 1 shilling, bright grass green. The present 2d. on blue is merely tinted on the surface, whilst the old 2d. is upon blue paper, as blue at the back as on the surface of the stamp. The new 2d. has the usual watermark—a star with six points—whilst the old stamps seem to be without any watermark, so the present stamp need never be mistaken for the old one. The 1d. orange has lately appeared for Queensland; its emission has long been expected.

THE CAPE OF GOOD HOPE STAMPS.

Simple as the stamps of this country appear at first sight, we have not met with a perfectly accurate list yet. We trust the following will prove so. We give no 4d. blue-black on bluish paper, as we think there are no well authenticated specimens known.

Figure of Hope, half reclining against an anchor. Lettering, "Cape of Good Hope Postage," with value in full. Triangular, impressed in colour upon deep blue tinted paper.

1863. As above (colours brighter) 4d. deep pure blue; 6d. violet grey; 1 shilling emerald green.

1861 (?). As above, block impression on white paper. (Provisional Stamps.)

million; 1d. pale brick-red, rose, vermilion; 4d. sky-blue, blue, dark-blue.

Die-printed, triangular, upon white paper; 1 penny black; 4d. black.

The colours of many of these are difficult to describe, especially that of the 6d, 1863; violet-grey is nearer the right tint than slate-grey of the catalogues. The block stamps are found in all intermediate shades of blue and red, and are consequently difficult to arrange so as to make the three true shades given as above. The 1s. blue was accidentally printed so, and is identical in colour with the 4 d. deep blue.

QUERIES FOR COLLECTORS. REPLIES.

2.—(See January No.) The following are the dates of issue of the Brazilian stamps.

July 1st, 1843.—Large figures, 30, 60, 90.

July 1st, 1844.—Slanting figures, 30, 60, 90.

1845.—Slanting figures, 10, 180, 300, 600.

1854.—Figures, blue, for newspapers, 10, 30.

1861.—Figures, 280 ver., 430 yellow.

N.B.—In our last, it was stated that the large figures were issued in 1845; it was a typographical error, which we extremely regret.

Evidently, France was not the second country to adopt postage stamps, as has so frequently been stated. Indeed, the large black 5 c, New York post office, (the big head), was in use in 1843, and we have ourselves taken one from a letter of 1844: if doubted, the letter can be shewn.

7.—We have received no reliable information respecting re-issued stamps. The prevailing opinion however, is, that private speculators have bought the dies of the Italian stamps, viz., Romagna, Modena, Provisional and 1858 Parma, Sicily, and Naples. The only country exempt from reprinting is Tuscany, and the postmarked stamps of this country will always be worth their present values, especially the 2 soldi, which is indeed a valuable stamp, as much as two pounds having been paid for a good specimen. The Cuban 1857, and Spanish of the same date, and also Luzon, are reprinted, and probably will be traceable to private speculation. The usual idea with respect to the reprinted Portugese, Hanover, and United States old envelopes, is, that the postmasters are making a source of profit of their old dies and plates. Of course we can say nothing positively as to this, but it does seem very probable that such is the case. The Spanish which are now to be had unused, every dated stamp from 1850 to 1854 do not look like reprints, especially the older stamps; those of 1854 too, have that peculiarly greasy "look," which is so well-known in connection with this issue. It is owing to the extreme thinness and transparency of the paper, through which the strong dark coloured gum shews in a "patchy" sort of manner. We have seen unused ones lately which have not this appearance, the paper being quite white and very pure. The Timbre Poste tells us that re-issuing these old Spanish is impossible, since the dies have been altered to be used for other purposes. This corroborates what we say, that they are original stamps resuscitated through some extraordinary circumstance. By the bye, it may be as well to state that the greasy appearance alluded to above, is seldom to be noticed in used copies, since in these the gum has nearly always disappeared.

8.—Information will be thankfully received.

9.—The $\frac{1}{2}$ anna real, India, (old issue), is from the same die as the $\frac{1}{2}$ anna blue, and consequently the corner ornaments are not like those of the 1 anna red. The colour, too, resembles that of the 1 anna red. (This is from good authority.)

CATALOGUE OF BRITISH, COLONIAL, AND FOREIGN POSTAGE STAMPS. By MOUNT BROWN. Fifth Edition. London: F. PASSMORE.

It is but natural to suppose that a Catalogue of Postage Stamps, having passed through five editions, must have something to recommend it, or it never would have attained a fifth edition. The recommendation in the present case is evidently the superiority of its simple arrangement—the alphabetical—over the more correct, though often confusing one, of geographical order. A primary law in all good arrangements is simplicity; but is this the only thing to be aimed at? Should not accuracy claim an equal amount of attention? What is simplicity worth without accuracy? The great idea of the present edition seems the “sum total.” As a proof of how this has been looked at, compare the previous edition with the one under discussion. The fourth describes 1600 stamps, most of which had a good right to their place; the fifth gives a sum total of over 2400 different specimens, of which 300, at least, are too dubious to please us. The following stamps do undoubtedly exist, but should they be admitted as undoubtedly real, when so much obscurity surrounds them? Evidently opinions differ upon the propriety of this, the compiler thinking them to be worthy of a place, in which we do not agree with him.

Baden, 1855.—6, 9 kr. French grey.

Ditto, Florida, buff, rose.

Ditto, Richmond Postage, flag in oval, &c., green,

Germany, South, 1860, 1 kr., blue.

Hanover, 1 guten gr., blue. (If it is to be mentioned, why not call it a variety?)

Holland, 5 c., proof, black. (Black proofs are easily made from blue stamps).

Luxembourg, 1859, 10 c., proof, lilac. (We recognise an old chemical acquaintance).

Mecklenburg, $\frac{1}{4}$ sch., black. (If it is to be admitted, why not call it a variety? It is doubtless an accidentally-changed specimen).

New Zealand, 6d., brown upon blue paper. (Had this existed, it would have been as common as the 2d. of this issue, or commoner). 1d., chocolate, is a Colombo salvage.

Paraguay.—Many of the colours only exist in the lithographed imitations.

Saxony, 1851, 3 n.gr., French grey.

Switzerland, 5c., proof, black upon rose.

United States.—The following locals are false, there is no doubt:—

Wells, Fargo, & Co., 2 dol., black.

Ditto, Stage Coach, &c., black.

(We notice that W. F. & Co.'s $\frac{1}{2}$ oz. paid, from St. Joseph to Placeville, per Pony Express, rose, is marked as doubtful; it is genuine).

Victoria, 1862, 1d., chocolate.

There are many other stamps equally suspicious, but the above are a good selection. The compiler can, of course please himself, and mention all the above as bona fide stamps, but in doing so, is it not acting precipitately? When there is great doubt upon a subject, is that a reason why decision should be given in favour of the doubt? However, the mention of these stamps is at the option of the compiler, but he has no right to call a stamp a proof when it is not so. Before looking into these dubious individuals, let us clearly understand what a proof is. A proof stamp, to be one, must be an impression from the die, struck before the stamps are issued, in a different coloured ink, or upon a different paper, from that of the stamp to be issued. Dealers may say what they like to the contrary, but they cannot prove that it is anything else. The following are the proofs to which we object:—Hamburg, Greece, Romagna, Cuba 1857, and Spain 1857. Now let us see when these latter proofs appeared. None of them were known before reprinting was invented to empty the pockets of collectors, which commenced about this time last year. Where do they come from? From those foreign dealers who supply reprints! The inference is obvious. Those who have by some means obtained the plates or dies of these stamps can print them off in whatever colours their own sweet fancies suggest as saleable. These are what Mount Brown thinks worthy the name of PROOF;—stamps printed at the option of a speculative dealer; proofs struck after the issued stamps have been obsolete for years! The Hamburg proofs, (at all events the 9 sch.) are altogether fictitious; and those of Greece have been struck within the last few weeks, entirely for sale. If such things as these—made to sell—are to be admitted as bona fide, there will never be an end to the collector's desiderata, or an album that will be voluminous enough for his splendid selection of faded colours, doctored varieties, and reprinted proofs. If these reprints are to be given in catalogues, they should be called by their right name; called proofs as they are in this catalogue. They may mislead anyone, and no one has a right to call a stamp a proof when it is a reprint. Very many improvements have been made in this edition; the greatest being the varieties and proofs of each stamp being given immediately after the issued stamp. Many of the mythical stamps have been expunged, but others are inserted in this edition which are fully as doubtful as those which have been left out. We have gone through the catalogue pretty carefully, and as the first duty of a criticism of this sort is, or should be, to arrive at truth, we will make a few extracts from these notes, putting a note of interrogation to anything that is wrong.

Argentine Confed.—Corrientes is placed under this head, and not distinct from it. Is this correct? 1 real, M.C., "col. imp." (?) No value indicated (3 c.?) (The 1 real M.C. was issued 1856, that without value (5 c.) in 1861; both are obsolete, and a new issue is in preparation, though up to the 7th March they had not appeared.)

Barbadoes.—There are two reds; a brick red and a rose red.

Bavaria, 1849. What is black and white vermicelli? and where are the two distinct types of die and lithograph?

British Guiana, 1863, 6 c., lilac(?)

Brunswick, 1854, 3 silb. gr., light brown (?)

Buenos Ayres.—1 peso, ship, blue, brown? 1860, 1 peso, lithograph; there is an indigo and a pale blue one.

Canada.—The 12d. is an essay.

Cape of Good Hope.—4d., blue-black, on bluish paper (?)

Chili.—There is a red-brown 5 c.

Denmark.—4, 16 sk., two shades of each.

France.—10 c. a percevoir oblong, and 1859 variety larger; are both essays.

Hamburg.—56 private labels are given; quite enough. A letter from a German correspondent to another magazine gives the preposterous number of 117 varieties.

Hanover.—1 g. gr., blue(?) 1858. 1/10 thaler, small network is omitted. 3 pf. is not blue or blue black imp., but a rose imp., with a blue or blue-black network over it. The variety small net is omitted. Bestellgeld, horse, is given in foreign catalogues as to the right and to the left.

Italy.—Has the 1851-52-55 issues taken away, and placed under the heading of Sardinia, which is a great improvement.

Lubeck.—4 sch., black, is not a proof, but a stamp.

Mexico.—8 rs., green on brown; there are two shades of green.

Modena.—No 15 c. black or brown is given. Prov. 15 c., purple(?)

Monte Video is a muddle. These ought to be divided by the size of the numerals of value, and by the rays round the head, into three issues.

Mauritius.—Why not say what the varieties are? How can a collector tell which is the type and which a variety?

New South Wales.—1850, 1d.; there is another variety.

Ottoman Empire.—Some of these exist upon thick paper, in addition to the usual thin paper stamps.

Peru.—Far better than before, but still incomplete. Would it not be better in describing the variations in the arms, to employ the plainest language possible? The heraldic terms are incomprehensible to many.

Pacific Steam Navigation Co.—Most of the colours were merely struck as specimens, and never used; they should, therefore, be called proofs. The blue and brown, we believe, were the only issued stamps.

Portugal.—One shade of the 5 r. King Pedro is omitted; but the whole series is better than before. The 5 r. Queen is called brown; there is a 5 r. King of exactly the same shade. The two that are given are called red-brown and chocolate. Which is the one that is like the 5 r. Queen? We suppose the red-brown is that stamp; but how inconsistent to call the colour brown in one place, and red-brown just below it. There is a purple-brown 5 r. King Pedro omitted. There are two varieties (omitted) of the 25 r. blue King Pedro; curled-hair variety, with the background (or border to the centre) very much finer, more reticulated; straight-hair variety, with the hair completely covering the ear; no ear is visible. The 5 r. straight-hair King Pedro is both red-brown and purple-brown.

Papal States.—2 baj. variety much smaller in the whole size of the stamp is omitted.

Sardinia.—1851, 20 c., is both light and dark. 1852, 20 c. variety, purple blue, omitted.

Spain.—2 c., bear on tree, is an essay, and is different in lettering from the 1 and 3 c. The 3 c. was issued November, 1853, and was superseded by the 2 c. in March, 1854. Proof impressions of all three were struck in gold; the issue of 3 and 2 c. being in bronze.

Spain.—Official $\frac{1}{2}$ onza, oval, is both lithograph and die printed; the first being chrome-yellow, the other much paler in colour.

Luzon.—This series is wonderfully improved, and is very accurately described.

Switzerland.—Basle 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ rp., is on white paper, not upon green, as stated. Geneva is better; but the coloured paper Cantonal want separating, and there is no 5 c. green on white, adhesive, given; (the envelope is given). Zurich.—The stamps without lines are very properly omitted. Varieties might be made of the colours, in which the fine lines over the surface are ruled; some are very yellowish pink, whilst some are ruled in deep warm rose colour; this latter is rare, and excessively improves the tout ensemble of the stamp. The Federal Administration are much improved, and nearly complete.

Tasmania.—The 10d. is very rightly marked as doubtful.

Tuscany.—The 60 cr., on white, is now omitted; but we believe that there are specimens in existence. It is inconsistent to give the 5 c. light and dark, when there are very light and very dark shades of the 1, 10, and 20 c., especially of the former.

Two Sicilies.—Naples 3 gr. is now put right. Neapolitan Provinces.—There are five clear colours of the 5 gr.

United States.—What is the difference between the 1861 proofs and essays? They are all mixed up together, as if alike, except in colour. The execution of the (so-called) essays, engraved in red, green, and indigo, is very poor; and they are most probably an engraver's spec.

Venezuela, 1859-60.—There was no necessity to mix up these stamps, they have always been well-known to collectors as two separate issues.

The Catalogue is unexceptionable in its appearance, and is very well "got up;" but the sum total of stamps is far too large, many very unnecessary differences being made. When we see Germany, Oldenburg, Prussia, Saxony, &c., have their envelopes made into two issues, according as the inscription, printed before the paper is folded, or the stamp impressed, happens to be on the right or the left side of the stamp, we must be struck by the inconsistency displayed in giving these fortuitous varieties, and omitting those which have a far better claim from their constancy. If Greek stamps are to be made into two issues, with and without numeral of value, at the back of the stamp, where no one can see it, the more striking difference between perforated and unperforated stamps cannot be overlooked, i.e., if so minute a difference, and one not readily noticed, is to constitute another issue; consistency insists upon the very perceptible difference between stamps dentele and non-dentele being recorded. Much as this edition is improved, we prefer the 4th in many respects, because it was a collector's catalogue; whilst No. 5 is a pretty accurate list of stamps from the dealer's point of view. This is proved by the reprinted proofs and doctored stamps mentioned. Few collectors have had experience sufficient to enable them, supposing they use this catalogue, to decide which are stamps and which are merely reprints or inventions.

CORRESPONDENCE.

To the Editor of the "STAMP COLLECTOR'S REVIEW."

SIR—It is curious sometimes to observe how stamps are discovered which were never before known by the collector to exist, and in some instances unknown even to the authorities. Thus I have found a day or two since, upon an old letter, a very rare stamp which is not mentioned in any catalogue of postage stamps. It is a blue specimen of the old Wurtemberg 6 kr., usually green. The design is exactly the same as the ordinary stamp of that issue. As yet I believe the specimen I enclose to be the only one extant, and would not part with it for any price. Please take care of it and return it when done with.

Coburg.

Yours very respectfully,

ERNST ROSCHLAU.

 STAMPS—Continued.

BUENOS AYRES SHIPS,
 1 PESO versus 5 PESOS.

THIS title, incomprehensible or mysterious as it may seem to a general reader, comprehends one of the most important questions ever raised in the stamp collecting world; it is respecting the fact of there ever being a 1 peso stamp issued by the Buenos Ayres post office. We have hitherto strenuously denied its existence as a distinct and separate stamp, and we find that in this latter supposition we have been correct, for though there have been stamps of the value of 1 peso, no plate was specially engraved for that value. The work published by Berger Levrault and Son of Strasburg, is compiled by a collector whose name is not given; he has one of the finest collections in the world, is an acute judge and is evidently very well-informed. He thus describes the stamps of Buenos Ayres with the ship, as, 29th April, 1858, (decree 2nd April.)

2 pesos blue, 3 p. green, 4 p. red,
 5 p. light-brown, 5 p. orange.
 26th October, 1858, (decree 2nd Oct.)

1 (in) peso brown, 4 p. brown;
 and in a note says “The rate of postage having been lowered, stamps of 1 and 4 pesos were printed at the end of 1858. The plate of the 5 pesos being no longer required, was used for printing 1 peso stamps by erasing the surplus letters c. .co, leaving only IN. Then he proceeds, 1st January, 1859.

1 (in) peso blue, 1 p. (t) blue; and in the note to this we are told “A further lowering of the rate of postage having taken place, stamps of the value of 1 peso being printed from the altered plate of the 5 peso, were, after this plate was worn out, printed from that of the 4 peso, after erasure of the superfluous letters CUA-o leaving only the T behind."

Therefore—as this is all as clear as daylight—all those blue and brown IN P^S and T P^S are bona fide 1 peso stamps, as they were only used for franking letters to the amount of 1 p.

The stamps used for letters to the amount of 5 pesos have the word CINCO on them in full, and are of some rarity; those for 4 pesos have CUAT^O.

To sum up, there never was a blue 5 pesos light and dark, nor a blue 4 pesos light and dark, with CINCO and CUAT^O on them, as given by Brown; the blue IN P^S and T P^S, will shew vacant spaces and a little of the other letters left on them, through not being properly erased, thus clearly proving that the old 5 pesos plates have been made use of to make 1 peso stamps.

It may not be easy for our readers to give up their old-established doctrine of the blue 5 pesos, but a little fair consideration and an examination of some good specimens, will prove Levrault's admirable arrangement to be the only correct one.

CORRIENTES.

We are coming to our knowledge of these stamps by degrees, our latest information being rather valuable. The Timbre Poste in its article "Reception des Corrientes," tells us that sheets of them have been received, with the value 1 real M.C. crossed through,

(as mentioned by us some time since) but it does not say why the value 1 real should be crossed through upon a whole sheet of unobliterated stamps. The reason that they were issued by the post office in that state is, they were to pass for 5 centavos instead of the original value 1 real M.C. Therefore the only true 1 real M.C. stamps (that is to say those having that value for postage) are those without the pen-stroke through the value. The following is therefore the correct list of these stamps—

1856.—1real M.C. (Moneda Corriente) Provisional, with value crossed through, (5 centavos.)

1861.—No value given, (5 centavos.)

The Timbre Poste states that the stamps without any indication of value are worth about 1s. 3d. only! This is preposterous and can only be written to bring down prices; we can state as a fact that many copies of those without value given, have been sold within the last 3 weeks for 19s. each to a Paris dealer. A genuine 5 c. is not to be had for 1s. 6d. We should value them at £1 each at least, and 10s. more for the provisional 5c. and the real 1r. M.C. Belgian collectors do not give high prices, but that price is too palpably incorrect!

NAPLES 3 GRANI VARIETY.

THE Editor of Once a Month throws a new light upon the valuable variety of the 5 gr., stating "it was merely a 5 gr. with the figure 3 stamped over the 5." It is nothing of the sort. We were fortunate enough to be the first to notice this variety, and forwarded it to Mount Brown for his fourth edition, in which it was inserted as an issued stamp. The fifth edition places it under varieties, which is undoubtedly its right denomination. Being classified as an issue, the stamp caused much speculation amongst those who had never seen it. It is the 5 grani stamp in every respect, except that the figure of value is a well-defined 3 instead of a 5. There cannot be a doubt but that it is an accidental variety. Other Italian states will furnish examples of curious varieties, (see Modena with its 5 cnet, 15 cnet, 40 cnet, and 49 c.); and some of the Neapolitan stamps with the arms are found to vary. One specimen of the 5 gr. arms in our possession, has a most curiously-shaped numeral of value; and a 20 gr. has very curious lettering. These stamps are of two distinct issues. The one issue, the latest, shows the engraver's initial always somewhere near the value; on the $\frac{1}{2}$ and 50 gr. it is very clearly a small capital G, on the other it seems as much like an M as any one letter in particular, but most probably it is a monogram—an M and an H combined, it seems to us—but the colour runs so upon these papers, that there is great difficulty in deciding what is really printed. The other issue, the oldest, shows no initials in any of the values. The 1, 2, and 5 grani are the stamps which are found of the deepest tints of rose-red, the $\frac{1}{2}$ and 50 gr. are usually of much colder tints, and consequently are clearer in the impressions. The 10 gr., too, is oftener of the cold shade than any other. The 20 gr. varies, but is seldom of the colour of the $\frac{1}{2}$ and 50 gr.—in fact is seldom so clear. The editor of Once a Month speaks, too, as if the stamp had been officially issued, but as there is such a mistake in the description of the stamp itself, it is quite as probable that this is an error too. We should not hesitate to say that it never had an official origin as a 3 gr., but is merely 5 grani, accidentally printed as 3. We do not hesitate to say that the Editorial note in Once a Month is wrong in both points; the 3 gr., in common with the other Italian varieties, is of the greatest rarity; indeed, our own specimen is the only one we ever saw or heard of.

STAMPS LATELY ISSUED
AND RARE VARIETIES.

As usual we have a dearth of novelties until we are going to press, and at the last minute we have not time for verbose descriptions. Some of the stamps should have been mentioned last month; amongst varieties which we have met with during the last month are five of already existing stamps. They are the following—

ST. HELENA.—6d., brick-red; this is the provisional 1d., before the value has been crossed through; about a dozen specimens have fallen into the hands of one dealer, and are fetching very high prices each.

SCHLESWIG.—1¼ sch. blue. The stamp first issued was deep blue; there is a variety with the lettering considerably larger, and colour paler. (Both varieties are imitated by the forgers, even to the white watermark P).

SAXONY.—There is a variety of the red 3 pf. differing in the size of some of the letters.

MODENA.—9 cent. B G (Buono Giornali); the variety has the letters B G very large; 10 c. violet, there is a variety which has instead of CENT, CEN., with a large figure 1 instead of a letter T.

LUZON.—Talking of varieties, we may mention that the Luzon 10 c. in present use are of four types; they have been engraved in a square (or oblong) of four stamps, and electrotyped in these batches, so that a sheet of 10 cuartos Luzon, is made up of four different stamps many times repeated. The "Correos 1854 y 55 1 real f^{te}" Luzon, purple-black, differ much in the lettering as ably described in the Timbre Poste. This instance shows that all the old Luzons have been separately engraved, as the New Caledonia, and Corrientes were. The new issue for Luzon has at length appeared; the series consists of four stamps same design as the 1864 issue of Spain, but without the date. Inscriptions at bottom are 3⅓ cent. P° F° black, on yellow paper; 6⅔ cent. P° F° green, on pink; 12¼ cent. P° F° blue, on flesh; and 25 cent. P° F° vermilion, on flesh; meaning 3⅓th part of the hundredth part of a peso fuerte, or hard dollar. There are two Luzons, which are not mentioned in any catalogue except Moen's. They are with head of Queen Isabella II. to the right, 1 rl. plata f^{te} bluish green, 1 real plata f^{te} pale green.

HOLLAND.—There is a fresh stamp issued, as engraved; we suppose other values will follow as the supplies of those now in use are exhausted. There is nothing about the stamp to excite rapturous admiration, so we will pass on to

DENMARK.—There is a stamp issued, value 4 sch. KGL. POST. FRM. rose impression upon white paper, upright, and of a good size. Device, a crown, with sceptre, and etceteras, in a central oval; the oval contains the value, and in each corner is the value repeated in numerals. Can any one tell us what is the object of issuing this stamp? Whether it is the first of a new series?

VENEZUELA.—There is a 1 centavo, a queer kind of a colour, a sort of olive black; it is used, as also the $\frac{1}{2}$ c. mentioned last month, for newspaper postages.

SPANISH COLONIES, (CUBA, &c.)—Mount Brown describes the issue of 1864, but his colours are wrong. The issue is oval, (like Luzon,) and similar to the 1864 Spanish, but without any date, they are $\frac{1}{4}$ rl. plata fuerte black, on yellow; $\frac{1}{2}$ rl. plata fuerte green, on pink; 1 rl. plata fuerte blue, on flesh; 2 rls. plata fuerte vermilion on flesh.

PORTUGAL.—The long expected 50 reis, green, and 100 reis, lilac, with head of Don Luis, have at last made their appearance, and will form a great acquisition to the page of Portuguese stamps.

TRINIDAD.—There is a 4d. pale greyish violet, same colour as the 1s. stamp.

ST. LUCIA.—The stamps now issued are much colder looking colours than those recently in use. They now are, cold lake-red, (1d.) dark purple-blue, (2d.) pale emerald-green, (6d.)

HAMBURG.—Another set of Boten Stamps has been issued by Mr. C. I. Van Diemen, for postage of letters and parcels to Bremen, &c.—Value, 1, 2, 3, 4, 6, and 8 sch.

The 5 sch. Mecklenburg, adhesive, blue, has given place to one printed in brown, same as the newly-issued envelope of that value.

Essays of a new series of Stamps for the empire of Mexico and the kingdom of Greece, have appeared and shall be described in our next.

REPRINTS, & THEIR EFFECTS UPON STAMP COLLECTING.

It is evident to all Collectors, that the majority of Dealers—in stamps or any other earthly thing, but especially stamps—have selected for their notice "great profits and quick returns," and it must be equally obvious to the experienced, that dealers in stamps, in acting up to their chosen motto, do so by means which not only over-reach themselves, but which are extremely impolitic as bringing great discredit upon stamp collecting. It is the sale of forgeries which brings down so much disgust upon "the noble science," for, to sell a forgery knowingly, in the very first instance, necessitates much evil speaking and lying, or it will not go off well, and to suppose that those who sell forgeries do not know what they are disseminating so widely, is in most cases preposterous. The sale of forgeries is profitable, but it is "risky;" for those who habitually sell them soon become known, and are consequently avoided. It is, however, reprints which have become such a source of profit to dealers, although by their present abuse of the system, they are doing everything to make collectors disgusted with them, and to bring stamps into bad repute, even with those who were the most zealous promoters of timbromanie in England.

The first reprints,—or more properly speaking the first stamps known as reprints—were Romagna.

Previously to the re-issue, the $\frac{1}{2}$ and 20 bai were of great rarity, and the 6 bai was scarcely believed in; what was our astonishment at receiving a series of unused Romagnas some sixteen months back, containing the priceless 6 bai; the price of the 9 stamps being 15 francs! We could only suppose at that time, that some far-seeing collector had laid in a stock of the stamps at the period they were in use. The numbers, however, that soon appeared, rendered this surmise impossible, and the only conclusion that we could come to, was, that some speculator had bought the plates or dies, and was working them off for his own profit. These stamps were soon followed by others, Parma, Modena, Naples, and Sicily, and those collectors who had secured genuine post-marked copies of the rarest Modena and Parma at high prices, found that unused specimens were to be had for a mere trifle. To those who cannot obtain originals a good reprint is better than nothing and may be accepted to fill a vacancy, but only as a fine copy is kept until the original is obtained. Contrary to this what do we see? Those who were fortunate enough to possess original but post-marked specimens, parted with them for a trifle, substituting reprints in their place; this was done by many under the impression that they had obtained unused originals; this same thing has been done by others with this difference, that they knew what they were substituting for their post-marked copies. Whilst reprints are as faithful to the originals as the Romagnas are, little objection can be made to them, but if they depart to a considerable degree from the original colours and paper, they are not worth having: (see the Provisionals of Parma and Modena, especially the latter 5, 15, and 20 c) The earlier reprints were far better done than the majority of those now offered, for instance, the latest reprints of the Tassa Gazette are upon a white paper, the old reprints and the original are both upon greyish rough paper. There is a great prejudice against the unused copies of the earlier Spanish lately brought out; they are, however, not reprints but proof—or first—impressions from the dies, a very limited number of which appear to have been in the hands either of a minister, or of one of the principal Postmasters, possibly, the Postmaster General. In the first place, as the paper of each issue is different, an insuperable obstacle is at once put in the way of re-printing these, so as to pass successfully for the originals, (the primary intention of every reprint); secondly, by a ministerial order of December 14, 1849, no stamps could be legally manufactured, except in the manufactory established by Government for stamped papers; the stamps laws are very strict; thirdly, (and more conclusive than any thing) is the fact that the old plates up to 1853, were destroyed in that year, in the presence of a public notary; and the plates of the 1854 stamps have been altered and used for Law stamps.* The unused stamps now offered of the early Spanish issues, have been most carefully examined, and compared with old genuine stamps, testing the colour, the paper, and even the gum, and everything has been found correct; seeing from the above mentioned reasons the impossibility of reprinting them, we are of opinion that they are the proof sheets, or the first sheets printed, which opinion is amply supported by the great beauty of the impressions; some too are un-gummed, which is further confirmation, for if they were reprints all of them would be alike gummed, or all un-gummed, the more readily (by consistency in a small detail) to impose upon purchasers. But to return to our reprints, had the system stopped at reproducing the stamps already known, few real objections could be made; but, when the owners of the plates strike off these stamps in different colours, and then have the audacity to call them PROOFS (i. e. first impressions), it is time that some objections should be made to such an abuse. Far from expecting assistance from the catalogue which has so lately reached a fifth edition, and which should be a perfect guide by this time,

* There are three stamps used in Luzon for law papers, (adhesive, printed in colour upon white paper), the dies for which were those formerly used for the 1854 postage stamps, of 2, 4 cuartos and 1 real; these are exactly alike, and have been altered into "Dro Judicial (for Directorio Judicial), medio r^t f^t (blue), un r^t f^t (black), and diez r^s f^{tes} (lilac).

we see Mount Brown who has been held up as a great authority and well acquainted with his subject, insert all these reprints as original and bona fide proofs; it is the more surprising that they figure there, when we remember by whom the sheets of his catalogue were revised. (As stated in our review of the catalogue, it is "a pretty accurate list of stamps from the dealers' point of view," in which great points are stretched to include a worthless reprint, whilst legitimate and curious varieties are usually ignored.) By printing all these proofs from the old plates, those who do it, cannot be aware of the disgust inspired in numbers of our collectors by them; in fact reprinting has done more towards making many old established collectors relinquish their collections, than forging ever did. Let any one write to a dealer requesting a selection of obsolete Italian and Cantonal Swiss stamps, the Italians will prove reprints, the Swiss will be forgeries. (Out of a number of forgeries of Zurich and Geneva one is pretty sure to pick up a genuine specimen or two. A friend of ours brought a magnificent copy of the 5 c. Neuchatel in this manner for sixpence)! One can repudiate the forgeries, but the reprints are insufferable nuisances. It is next to impossible to get genuine post-marked Provisional Modena or Parma; any one enquiring for them is deluged with reprints. This has proved so annoying that it has led in many cases to stamps being entirely relinquished by those who have always been persevering collectors, until the appearance of reprints, when original and post-marked specimens of the rare varieties are not to be had. The reason is obvious; the dealers think that when they can offer unused stamps at a low price, no one will try their used copies when at so much higher a figure than the unused specimens are. It is very natural that they should arrive at such a conclusion; but, if collectors would make up their minds to purchase no more reprints, the sale for used copies would be again restored, and with the demand, would come the supply, and doubtless they have been accumulating in the hands of several of the great and well known dealers at Leghorn, Turin, &c. The only Italian stamps which have kept up their value are the Tuscan; they have never been re-printed, which will account for such being the case.

REVIEWS OF NEW POSTAL PUBLICATIONS.

Beschreibung der bis jetzt bekannten Briefmarken (mehrals 2200 sorten) nebst Notizien über die nachgedruckten Marken und einer Anleitung zur Einrichtung von Sammlungen. Strasburg: W^{VE}. BERGER LEVRAULT & SOEN, 1864. A Description of more than 2200 different sorts of Postage Stamps known up to the date of publication; with notices of counterfeits, and some hints on the arrangements of collections. Strasburg: Berger-Levrault and Son.

WE had last month to review a catalogue made by one whose knowledge on the subject must be very superficial, to fall into the gross mistakes which we there saw; this month it is our pleasurable duty to speak in almost unqualified praise of a foreign catalogue, and at the same time to regret that we have nothing in the English language comparable to it.

The catalogue published in German, by Berger-Levrault and Son, is said to be the work of a great collector by some, whilst others say that one of the publishers is the author. To whomsoever the authorship is due, he has succeeded in producing the best catalogue ever written, giving a most accurate and faithful description of 2200 stamps and essays. All doubtful colours are omitted, (i. e., faded colours, and slight differences from the adopted shades, caused by trifling variations in the printing ink; only changes in colour which have been caused by an order of the government or postal authorities being admitted.) The descriptions are given in geographical, not alphabetical, order, and the author has undertaken the laborious task of stating for every stamp, whether it is plate printed, type printed, (by a galvanic process), lithographed &c., &c. It is in these descriptions that we have found most of the inaccuracies; still very few are wrongly described, and when we consider that no one has ever taken any notice of this essentially striking peculiarity, we arrive at some idea of the care and labour bestowed upon the work. Levrault's is the first catalogue which has described the Buenos Ayres ships correctly, for an account of which we must refer the reader to another page of this present number. The work is interspersed with most valuable remarks respecting a great many stamps, and the author—evidently well informed, and one who must have made deep researches—gives the dates of issue with very great accuracy, considering how very speculative a thing it is to give dates to the very old issues. The French essays are very well described, and amongst them we find those essays (so well known on the continent as the essays of Mellet and Pichot) on chemically-prepared paper, the object being to prevent the taking out of the cancelling mark, and using the stamps a second time; the cancelling is effected by passing a wetted brush over the paper, which turns it blue. These essays, about which very little is known in England, have hitherto been called Cayenne essays. The history of many other French essays is accurately given. Much useful information and many valuable hints are given to collectors in the cleverly-written introduction. No distinction is made between genuine essays and proofs—both are called essays, though some unimportant distinctions are made as to their being actually ordered by the authorities (but not used), or as to their being offered by private persons. There is another head besides Probedrucke and Vorschlage, namely Druckproben, under which head the author classes all those that he considers it "worthless," and waste of time to collect. (It may interest our friend Mount Brown to know that the reprinted proofs of his catalogue are included under the heading Druckproben, or worthless, in Levrault's work.) Then come the forgeries (Nachdrucke), some of the terse descriptions being admirable. Especially noticeable are the Swiss Cantons, Geneva, Vaud, &c., they are illustrated by finely engraved portions of the real stamp. Then falsifications come in for their share of attention, under the heading Falschungen. The Greek stamps do not appear to be properly understood by any catalogue; the two issues are usually given 1861 without numerals of value at back, and 1862 with numerals of value at the back of the stamp; so far good, but the presence of these figures at the back of the stamp is not the only difference between the issues; those of 1862 have the shading from the chin to the ear stronger and coarser than those of 1861. Now the great error is in classing the proofs (of which there are fourteen given by Levrault) as of the issue of 1861, simply because they have no numerals at the back, they being from the dies of the 1862 stamp with strong shading from the ear to the chin. It is possible and very probable that there are some few proofs from the 1861 dies, but these would have the shading very fine and might be easily determined; if any such exist they are of some value, but we believe ourselves that most of those Greek proofs were merely printed for sale. The 1861 issue is the French engraving, 1862 is the Greek copy of that die. In describing the Spanish stamp, the 2c. bear on tree is erroneously stated to be a stamp instead of an essay. There are other inaccuracies, though not in the wholesale style of our English catalogues, but there are very few real mistakes, (many stamps being quite matters of opinion); taken as a whole it is the most useful catalogue in existence. It is conscientiously written by a collector of great experience, and is intended to be of real use to the collector, and not simply a list of stamps that a dealer may look to, to see what he is to sell.

POSTAL VARIETIES.

It is stated that the Ottoman Government has just given an order to a Paris printer for 400 millions of postage stamps.

A ROWLAND AND AN OLIVER.—Should Rowland Hill have a statue? Certainly, if Oliver Cromwell should. For one is celebrated for cutting off the head of a bad king, and the other for sticking on the head of a good queen.—Punch.

CURIOUS POST-OFFICE.—Many years ago, at the desolate Island of Ascension, in the Atlantic, between Africa and Brazil, there was a peculiar crevice in a large rock, termed the Sailor's Post-office, in which the crews of vessels passing to India or returning, left such letters as they wished to send back, and which were punctually taken to their destination by the next ship that passed in a contrary way.

INDIA PROOF OF THE MULREADY ENVELOPE.—One of the rare impressions from the engraved design by Mulready for a postage envelope has been advertised in the Times for sale. It is described as 'an India-proof impression—one of six—from the original block engraved by John Thompson in the year 1840, price twenty guineas.'

In the House of Commons, April 5, 1864, Mr. R. Long advocated a cheaper rate of charge for transmission of newspapers. 'If,' said he, 'a cheaper stamp for newspapers was issued, it would be a boon to the public, and would not be an injury to the revenue;' but the matter was not taken up by the house.

In a Minute dated 11th. of March, the Lords of the Treasury, after recapitulating the long and useful services of Sir Rowland Hill, award him, in lieu of the usual retiring allowance, his full salary of £2000 per annum for life.—By a subsequent motion in Parliament, the sum of £20,000 has been voted to this distinguished Postal Reformer.

SIR ROWLAND HILL has addressed a letter of thanks to the Lords of the Treasury for the flattering notice they have taken of his services in awarding him his full salary as a retiring allowance. At the same time, he takes objection to a passage in their minute intimating that he was not the first to suggest a uniform rate of penny postage, and claims for himself the sole and exclusive credit of having made the suggestion. To show that Mr. Wallace, formerly member for Greenock, had not made the suggestion before him, he quotes from the last speech Mr. Wallace made on postage reform before the publication of his pamphlet, in which he advocates a minimum charge of threepence, and an additional penny for every 50 miles.

THE EMINENT SERVICES OF SIR ROWLAND HILL, K.C.B., in the creation of the penny postage and other postal reforms, have been honourably recognised by the Society of Arts, who have adjudged to him the gold medal established by them in memory of their late president, the Prince Consort, and called the 'Albert Medal,' to be awarded 'for distinguished merit in promoting arts, manufactures, or commerce.' The present is the first time the medal has been adjudged.

A COSTLY COURTSHIP.—At a public meeting recently held in Birmingham it was decided to erect a statue of Sir Rowland Hill in that town. The Rev. Dr. Miller addressed the meeting, and in alluding to the benefits of the penny postage, said that he had a very painful recollection—and they would excuse a man who, in these matters, was now in his dotage (laughter), and wished to take the privilege of babbling, as old men did—but he had a very lively recollection of the expensive character of his courtship, which took place he would not say how many years ago. Every letter he received cost him eightpence, and as he was never vain enough to think his love letters were worth eightpence, he always paid the postage himself; and the consequence was, he never exchanged a letter with that lady but it cost him sixteenpence.

A VALUABLE DEAD LETTER.—The Rev. Mr. Spurgeon has been known to receive as many as four hundred letters in a day. Many of them are anonymous, and on many of them the postage is not prepaid. The reverend gentleman now refuses all the latter. One of these, a short time ago, after having been in the Dead Letter Office, and opened there, was sent again to Mr. Spurgeon, with a statement that the letter was anonymous, and therefore could not be returned to the writer, and that it contained a valuable enclosure. The reverend gentleman paid the postage, and found a £20 note in the letter.

ADVENTURES OF A NEWSPAPER.—An apprentice lad on board an English vessel in Calcutta, had lately a packet presented to him through the post-office, the postage of which amounted to twenty rupees, or about £2 sterling. It merely contained a newspaper, which some friend of his in London had enclosed in half a sheet of paper, and addressed to him when his vessel was in London, expecting that it would find him at St. Katherine's dock. His vessel, however, sailed before the letter could be delivered, and it followed him—first to Hobart Town, next to Sydney, thence to Bombay, Madras, and Calcutta, thence to the Mauritius, and finally back to Calcutta, where it caught him, after having travelled thirty thousand miles, and occupied on its tour one year and eight months.—Gazette of Variety, Feb. 22, 1845.

MOURNING STAMPS.—A few days since a female entered the post office in Pekin, Illinois, for the purpose of mailing a letter to a friend, who is in the army. Calling for an envelope, and while depositing the document therein, she gravely informed the postmaster that it contained very bad news,—no less than the decease of a beloved nephew. As she dilated upon the melancholy theme, her feelings became very much excited, and the epistle being duly sealed and superscribed, she in sorrowing tones enquired, "If the gentlemen would be kind enough to place a black postage stamp upon it, that her friend might know there was a death in the letter before she opened it?" Notwithstanding the mournful tone in which the question was propounded, the government official could not restrain his risibilities, and was compelled to answer that "Uncle Sam had not yet furnished his deputies with any postage stamp especially adapted to mourning purposes." This announcement seemed very much to surprise the good woman, who was also equally shocked at the want of feeling displayed by the government in not furnishing its children with such an outward sign of inward woe; for, to use her own expression, "It would be so convenient."

THE MORMON STAMP.—In the year 1852, Brigham Young issued an octagonal gold coin, and soon after a postage stamp of the same shape. No value was expressed on it, but its price was five cents. The execution is very rough, the impression apparently being taken from a wood block. It seems to have been cut or punched out by an octagonal die. This stamp was intended for prepaying letters from one part of the Salt Lake Valley, or to or from the Salt Lake City, the capital. Some letters, however, with these stamps upon them found their way to the United States, and were immediately repudiated by the postmaster. They at once fell into disuse; but at the present day a system of posting from one part of the Mormon colony to the other is still employed.

CORRESPONDENCE.

To the Editor of the "STAMP COLLECTOR'S REVIEW."

SIR,—In the Review of last month you notice a proof of the 2 annas, first issue for India, printed in black upon "plate paper;" I possess, in addition to that stamp, an impression of the same in Red; they are both beautiful specimens, and not copies as Stamp Collectors are so fond of calling genuine impressions. I know of only three examples of the black 2 annas, and two of the red.

I remain, yours faithfully, Torquay.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

W. GREY, READING.—Many booksellers in London could obtain Moens' Album for you. The numerals on English envelope stamp, denote the date when they were impressed at the Stamp office, Somerset House. No stamps are now given away with the Review—see notice in February number.

A SUBSCRIBER, LONDON.—You had better send your subscription direct, and the magazine will be forwarded from our office as published.

R. EVANS & Co.—The green 5c. Richmond is simply a fac-simile, probably executed in Canada, whence other persons have also received specimens.

GIBSON & Co.—There is the "Timbre Poste," published by Moens of Brussels, 15th each month, and the "Borsenblatt," by G. A. Reichel, Kaufheuren, Bavaria.

133 To secure their insertion in following number, advertisements should reach the office not later than the 6th of the month.

The Stamp Dealer's Universal Register. On the 1st August, or as soon after as possible, a Monthly Trade Circular will be commenced bearing the above title. The object the publisher has in view is to furnish the means of intercommunication between purchasers and vendors of Foreign stamps; this desideratum he hopes to accomplish by giving a List of Stamp Dealers in all parts of the world. The Registry fee and cost of paper to the end of December, 1864, will be 2s 6d; if per post, 5d extra. Subscription to the end of 1864, without name in the Register, 10d; or per post, 1s 3d. To keep the List select, and to prevent as far as possible any unjust dealings, no address will be registered unless it is accompanied by the name of a respectable firm, to whom reference can be made if deemed necessary. Advertisements will be inserted on the following terms:—20 words, 6d; every additional 8 words, 2d. All letters must contain stamped-addressed envelope to ensure attention. Those persons who wish to have their names enrolled on the Register must send address and reference, together with their subscription, to Mr. J. W. Chater, Northern Journal office, 59, Clayton-st., Newcastle-upon-Tyne. Suggestions invited.
